EX-KAISER AWAITS CALL TO GERMANY

Today

New Idea Wanted.
Bismarck to Hitler.
No Drug Store Beer.
Great Pacific Base.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

APART FROM questions of right or wrong, in such times as these, our industrial system needs new ideas. In Detroit, 6,000 body makers go on strike in the Briggs plant, and, in consequence, 45,000 men in the Ford plant are thrown out of work.

Nobody wants to change our system of government, if we can persuade it to continue working. But making 45,000 idle while 6,000 strike against their employers could not happen under Mussolini. He would tell both workers and employers what to do, and they would do it.

Hitler has hung on, like "a dog to a root," and now becomes German chancellor. Many will compare him mentally with the powerful Bismarck, first chancellor of the German Empire, and not to Hitler's advantage. But they may be wrong.

Autre temps, autre moeurs, "other times, other customs," and other times, other statesmen. Bismarck might fit as badly into the customs of these times as Hitler would have fitted into the manners and necessities of Bismarck's day.

GERMANY, IN one jump, passed from an empire and a kaiser to a republic. Now it passed from a republic to an all Nazi-Junker government. The former kaiser was a ruler, largely, in theory. The determined young head of the Nazis may be a ruler in fact. Many possibilities of trouble are in this new government.

Among them is anxiety among Germany's Jewish population, fearful of violence, the Nazis being anti-Semitic.

They should read what happened to those once powerful and rich countries, Portugal and Spain, also anti-Semitic.

A YOUNG writer enthusiastically describes beer, supposed to come back soon, as "nourishing, consoling and warming, a great help in fighting off mental depression." The Rev. Dr. Phillips, of the First Baptist Church in Cleveland, says that is wrong. Not beer, but religion has power to take men through the depression.

One thing is certain, the suggestion that sale of beer be authorized in drug stores, with other "soft drinks," should be disposed of in the negative quickly and permanently.

IF IT BE true that the people intend to rely on beer for money to run their government, which seems rather pathetic, they must arrange to have the beer SOLD SOMEWHERE.

You can't collect on beer that isn't sold. But there should be no question of allowing beer to be sold in drug stores to which children are sent every day.

"The American Druggist," trade paper of drug stores, protests energetically and rightly against this preposterous suggestion that drug stores take the place of the old saloon.

THE NAVY proposes a base at San Pedro, Cal., the harbor of Los Angeles, big enough to hold the entire United States fleet. This, according to naval authorities, would give "the greatest security for the nation in case of war, also economy and convenience for the fleet."

THE WORLD'S most important "sea" used to be the waters near the Greek Islands. The landlocked Mediterranean later became the center of world activities.

Then the Atlantic Ocean became the "real" ocean. Gradually the world is realizing that the big Pacific, dwarfing the others, will be the "real" ocean of the future.

THE PACIFIC is certainly our important ocean. Our frontage on that international highway is longer than on the Atlantic, and far out in the Pacific we have Hawaii, and the Philippines that foolish Congressmen would abandon, and Guam, which should be made for the United States the greatest base in the world for fighting airplanes. This could offend nobody, since it is known that the United States will attack no nation.

WE MAY NOT know, or think much about it, "out of sight, out of mind," but Paraguay and Bolivia are still fighting, a few hundred killed now and then.

Each of those few hundred, with stomach ripped open, leg blown off, or other casualties, knows that war is hell, even on a small scale. Chinese and Japanese, fighting in northern Manchuria, know also that war is hell, especially at forty degrees below zero.

REAL "FARM relief" develops for Iowa. Mr. Buckner, president of the New York Life Insurance Company, which controls mortgages on many Iowa farms, has ordered suspension of all mortgage foreclosures pending consideration by the Legislature of Iowa.

Already, some time ago, the New York Life had issued orders not to foreclose mortgages for failure to pay taxes or interest in cases where the farmer was still living on his property and doing his best to make it go.

U.S. Sues Philadelphia Co. on Taxes

$3,283,384 CLAIM MADE

Erroneous Refunds Charged by Government

The United States government today filed a detailed statement of claim against the Philadelphia Company and 216 affiliated firms for $3,283,384.68 in income and excess profits tax which the government contends was erroneously refunded to the utilities from 1917 to 1923, inclusive.

The statement was filed in the office of the Clerk of Federal District Court. Prepared by Attorney John A. McCann, special representative of general counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue in this district, it was filed by United States District Attorney Louis E. Graham.

AGREEMENT CITED

The government alleges that, in accepting the refunds, the affiliated utilities agreed to be liable and responsible for any errors made in the computation and to refund to the Treasury Department anything in excess of amounts to which they were entitled.

The McCann statement itemizes bookkeeping details which the government alleges were in error and by which it is claimed the companies avoided taxation.

Interest from February 26, 1930, is also asked.

The government's statement of claim provided the first detailed information of the suit, which was originally filed on February 19, 1932. The Philadelphia Company responded on February 23 with a demand for further refunds it claimed were due.

The Philadelphia Company chain has 15 days in which to file an answer to the claims.

ERRORS CLAIMED

Bookkeeping errors, long and tedious in their recital, are claimed by the government, which asks restoration of many deductions to the income accounts of the various companies over the period mentioned in the suit. Cost of issuing and listing on stock exchanges various securities is included in the refund demands.

Chief subsidiary mentioned is the Duquesne Light Company. Others include the Pittsburgh Railways Company, the Equitable Coke Company, the Union Gas Company, of McKeesport; the Cheswick Gas Company, the Chartiers Valley Gas Company, the Beaver County Light Company, the Pennsylvania Light and Power Company, the Midland Electric Light and Power Company and the Pittsburgh and Beaver Light Company.

PHILLIPS STATEMENT

"After the usual audits of the companies' returns' by representatives of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and after thorough and prolonged examinations of the companies' books and records by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, it was determined that the companies had overpaid their taxes.

"The government now proposes to reverse its findings and has brought suit to recover the amounts so refunded."

Mother Facing Eviction

MARY CARR ..... "OVER THE HILL TO THE POOR HOUSE"

Mrs. Carr, famous movie mother of the silents, today facing a real life tragedy: Eviction from her home in Hollywood on a landlord's action asking ejection, payment of three months' back rent, $290. Seldom employed any more, Mrs. Carr has six grown children.

FORD CLOSING NEARS END

DETROIT, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—The Briggs Manufacturing Company whose plants have been tied up for a week by a strike of automobile body workers, announced at 2 o'clock today that it had resumed the production of bodies in its Highland Park plant for the new Ford car. The announcement was made by Mirt L. Briggs, second vice president and assistant general manager of the Briggs Company.

The announcement said that 800 men and women were back at work. The day before the strike a week ago, 2,134 workers were enrolled at the Highland Park plant.

Mr. Briggs pointed out that Ford bodies were made only at his company's Highland Park plant and that the strike at the other plants, on the east side, had no bearing upon the Ford work. He said, however, that 400 men and women have been hired and are working at these plants.

Ford plants throughout the country were shut down following the strike of Briggs body workers. The Ford Company has announced it would resume operations as soon as a flow of bodies was assured.

EVICTION FACES MARY CARR

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 31.—(INS.)—Mary Carr, famed "movie mother" of the silent films, today bravely faced a real life tragedy that matched the roles she played in the heyday of her success.

A complaint has been filed against the actress asking that she be ejected from her Hollywood residence and ordered to pay $290 assertedly due for three months' back rent.

Mrs. Carr became famous overnight for her sweet, gentle role in "Over the Hill," followed by other successes, but during the last few years movie work has been confined to comparatively unimportant parts.

Two years ago the tragedy of Hollywood's ephemeral fame was laid bare when she filed petition of bankruptcy, listing against liabilities of $12,669 assets of only $165, divided between $5 for her wedding ring, clothes worth $155 and miscellany valued at $10.

The white-haired actress, who won a considerable reputation on the stage before crashing the gates of Hollywood, was a real-lefe as well as a reel-life mother. She has six children, all grown.

Suit against her for the assertedly unpaid back rent was brought by Elwood G. Houseman in Municipal Court, in filing an unlawful detainer action.

Mrs. Will Rogers Goes Under Knife

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 31.—(Universal)—While her husband waited anxiously outside the operating room at Cedars of Lebanon hospital yesterday, Mrs. Will Rogers, wife of the famed humorist and screen star, was operated upon for appendicitis. And when the operation had been completed, a grin of relief spread across Rogers' countenance, for the appendectomy was a success.

Tom Mix Will Fight $66,000 Miller Verdict

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Zack T. Miller, former operator of the 101 Ranch, was awarded $66,000 damages against Tom Mix, film cowboy, for alleged breach of contract, in a verdict returned at 10 a. m. today by a jury in Erie County Civil Court.

W. Pitt Gifford, Mix's counsel, announced this afternoon he would file a motion for a new trial, but declined to reveal the reasons upon which he will base his plea. Under the law, he has four days to file.

A former verdict of $90,000 for Miller, returned here by a jury two years ago, was set aside when Judge U. P. Rossiter ordered a new trial after Mix filed an appeal, citing errors.

BOY'S BODY FOUND IN RIVER

Discovered as Police Quiz Relatives on Disappearance

The Ohio River today gave up the body of Lawrence (Jimmy) Morrow, 4, missing from his home, 1429 Reedsdale street, since last Sunday, and for whom a wide search had been made by police.

Within 15 feet of the houseboat home of his grandmother, Mrs. Lena Bruckmiller, at the foot of Mumford street, North Side, where the boy had gone to deliver a note to his aunt, river patrolmen found the body. It was face downward in three feet of water and 15 feet from shore. There were no marks of violence.

RELATIVES QUIZZED

The body was found this afternoon as police questioned the boy's aunt, Florence Bruckmiller, 16, to whom he was to have delivered the note last Sunday, and his uncle, Lawrence Bruckmiller, also occupants of the boat.

Police said the child may have missed his footing as he walked up the gang plank, and fell into the river. The body was taken to the morgue.

Joseph Morrow, foster father of the boy, was questioned today by Lieut. John J. Lynch and Detectives Frank Dodson and Harry Scott, who learned for the first time that Morrow was not the missing boy's father.

CASH SOURCE MYSTERY

Late yesterday police were informed by a Western avenue storekeeper that the boy on Sunday had purchased a five-cent plug of chewing tobacco and tendered a dollar bill. He received the change and left the store.

Mrs. Morrow told police "Jimmy" left home with no money.

Fear for 60 Aboard Missing Dredger

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 31.—(INS.)—Coastguard cutters searching for the missing Army dredge Chinook, missing since Saturday with 60 aboard, reported no trace of the vessel today.

The Chinook left Delaware Breakwater Saturday morning despite heavy winds, and has not been seen since reaching the open seas. She carried no wireless. The dredge was en route to Norfolk.

Man Found Injured On Smithfield Bridge

With his skull possibly fractured, Jacob Grimm, an employe of the Pitt Publishing Company, was found unconscious at the south end of the Smithfield Street Bridge, by Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad police. Grimm was taken to South Side Hospital. He lives at 9 Norton street.

MACK PLEADS FOR SUNDAY BASEBALL

Tall Manager of A's First to Speak on Blue Law Repeal

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics and once a star of the diamond, went to bat for modification of the Blue Laws today.

Mack was the first speaker at the public hearing of the House law and order committee.

The chamber of the House was crowded for the hearing called to hear those who favor liberalizing the laws to permit sport and amusement on Sundays as well as church and rural oganizations opposed to changing the ancient statutes.

Reviewing his 40 years in baseball, Mack said "every city of note plays Sunday baseball."

In addition to 13 of the 16 major league clubs, he said, baseball is played on the Pacific Coast, in the American Associattion and in the International League.

STATE STANDS ALONE

The only major league clubs not playing on Sunday are the two teams in Philadelphia and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Mack emphasized the high caliber of the average Sunday crowds. He asserted:

"In all the years I have participated in Sunday baseball, I defy any one to point to an instance of disturbance.

"Wherever Sunday baseball has been played, it is still being played."

He said the 80,000 who witnessed that game left "feeling just a little better" because they had spent the afternoon at the ball park.

PRIMARY BILL SIDETRACKED

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—The Chapman-Prince primary repeal bill was recommitted to the Senate Committee on Elections this morning when it came up for final passage in the Senate.

Senators Leroy Chapman, of Warren, and Leon C. Prince, of Carlisle, joint authors of the measure, co-operated in the request that the bill be sent back, a direct switch from their attitude last night, when they successfully fought a motion by Senator Frank J. Harris to send the bill back to committee for a hearing.

PRESSURE BY VARE

Pressure from the Vare organization in Philadelphia led to today's action, a test vote last night having disclosed to Republican state organization leaders that they lacked votes to pass the bill

Boy Injured, House Destroyed by Bomb

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Jan. 31.—(INS.)—A bomb explosion, believed the work of mine strikers, today destroyed the home of Mrs. Annie Koproski at Tyler, near here, slightly injuring one of its occupants.

Mrs. Koproski and three sons escaped unhurt. A fourth boy was injured when a plank torn loose by the blast fell across the bed in which he was asleep.

$10,000 Silk Stolen, Truckmen Kidnaped

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Robbers who stole a truck containing $10,000 worth of silk in West Thirty-sixth street today, kidnaped the driver and his helper, and turned them loose only after the silk had been taken from the truck, which was then abandoned.

Novelist Dead

JOHN GALSWORTHY

GALSWORTHY DIES AT 65

LONDON, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—John Galsworthy, British novelist and dramatist and 1932 Nobel prize winner, died today. He was 65.

The famous writer had been suffering from anemia. The illness developed from a cold contracted last month.

This prevented him from going to Stockholm to receive the Nobel prize award December 10. His certificate was received from King Gustaf by the British Minister to Sweden.

Galsworthy died at 9:15 a. m., after being unconscious for several hours.

HARD WORKER

Galsworthy was a hard worker and the strain of his incessant literary labors was considered a principal contributory cause to his breakdown. He never dictated, writing everything by hand. He

Roosevelt Bulldog Will Fly to Family

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—(Universal)—"Gen. Grant," prize-winning, snow-white English bulldog valued at $2,000, scheduled to begin his duties as a canine guard at the White House on March 4, will leave here by plane tomorrow to join the family of President-elect Roosevelt in New York.

The "General" is the gift to Mr. Roosevelt of Saul Almond, of Del Monte. Properly crated, the dog will ride in the warm cabin of the plane instead of the express compartment.

ASCENDANCY OF HITLER HAILED BY WILHELM

2 Die in Outbreaks Following Victory Of Nazis

International News Service.

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 31.—Seemingly confident that the turn of the political wheel in Berlin will eventually afford him an opportunity to return to Germany, former Kaiser Wilhelm sat in the mid-Victorian study of Doorn House today and weighed the chances of a dignified re-entry into his fatherland.

His spokesmen made no secret of the fact that the ex-Kaiser welcomes the installation of a cabinet of Nationalists and Monarchists under Adolf Hitler in Berlin. He greets the development with "great satisfaction," it was said.

But extreme prudence and caution will guide his every move. Those in his confidence displayed great eagerness to deny reports that the exiled monarch will resort to any "precipitate action" as a result of Hitler's ascendancy.

AWAITS INVITATION

"His majesty will not return to Germany as an adventurer.

"As he has said on previous occasions, he is ready and anxious to return to his fatherland when a government representing the will of the people extends him a formal invitation.

"No definite decision of any sort has been reached."

While all questions regarding the ex-Kaiser's plans met with similarly reserved replies, rumors and reports of a projected Monarchist coup d'etat buzzed through Doorn. Denials and disclaimers could not stem them.

Those convinced that Wilhelm will attempt to capitalize on the Hitler victory by active participation in a restoration scheme seized upon the fact that Prince Henry, consort of Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, motored to Germany on January 27 with a quantity of luggage belonging to the Former Kaiser.

They also made much of the report appearing in the local labor newspaper Hetvolk that Wilhelm recently bought four new high-powered motor cars.

RUMOR OF BOLT

One rumor even went so far as to say that the ex-Kaiser, in defiance of orders from his physician, had completed plans to bolt the Dutch chateau where he has lived in exile for 14 years and proceed to Berlin with all speed.

The former imperial household, however, gave no indication of any such plans. There was no perceptible change in the ex-Kaiser's routine, except for modifications necessitated by an attack of influenza.

RAVENNA, O., Jan. 31.—(AP.)—H. C. Beckwith, 46, president of the Byers Machine Company, was found shot through the head at his office today and hospital attendants said his death was expected momentarily. Police said the wound was self-inflicted.

Campbell Reaches U. S., Aims at Speed Mark

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Sir Malcolm Campbell, wan after seven days of influenza and rough seas, arrived today on the Aquitania en route to Daytona Beach, Fla., where he will attempt to lower his own world record for automobile speed.

A year ago the English speed king established a standard of 235.96 miles an hour in his flying car, the Blue Bird, but he hopes to better that mark within the next few weeks. His hopes are based on the fact that a new 2,500-horsepower motor has been installed in his car and new tires capable if withstanding the terrific pressure of a 300-mile-an-hour speed have been put on the wheels.

The man who has traveled faster on the ground than any other human smilingly parried questions as to the dangers of his proposed record-smashing attempt. He said:

"I am a fatalist. What is to be—will be."

Discussing his annual battle against time, he said that speed has now become a matter of seconds, adding:

"A second is an eternity in speed tests. Once we tried to lower records by minutes. Now we think in seconds. I have no idea what speed I can attain. So many factors enter into it, the visibility, the condition of the sand, the behavior of the motor—all enter. I have never tested the Blue Bird with its new motor and until I do, any prophecy would be a mere guess."

Sir Malcolm leaves for Daytona Beach tonight and he hopes to make his test before February 10.

FORECLOSURE THREATS TOLD SENATE

Extension of Funds Refused, Says Pomerene

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The big bankers of America have "shirked responsibility toward the railroads by refusing to extend railroad loans, Atlee Pomerene, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, told a Senate subcummittee today.

Pomerene told Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, author of a joint resolution to shut off further federal aid to the carriers, that in numerous instances the banks had demanded full payment of their railroad loans under threat of foreclosure.

Couzens roundly criticized the R. F. C. for advancing more than $50,000,000 to the railroads for the repayment of loans to the banks.

At the same time he submitted evidence showing that all except 30 or 35 of the 162 class 1 roads of the nation are operating at a loss.

LOANS TO BANKS

Pomerene said up to January 28, 1933, R. F. C. loans were extended to 5,200 banks, of which 590, or 11.3 per cent, later closed their doors.

Out of the $939,649,271 in loans to banks, $89,362,278 was authorized to institutions that later were closed, he added. A total of $56,957,899 of R. F. C. money was tied up in these institutions after repayment by liquidating agents. Couzens asked:

"To what extent has the security of depositors been affected by these R. F. C. loans?"

Pomerene replied that unpreferred claims against the closed banks naturally were injured. He promised to submit to Couzens a list of all instances in which banks closed within 60 days after receiving aid from the government agency.

Senator Blaine (Rep.), of Wisconsin, requested Pomerene to furnish a list of all railroad directors who also held bank directorships.

'PROBABLE FUTURE'

Joseph B. Eastman, Interstate Commerce Commissioner, agreed to submit tomorrow an estimate of the "probable future" of class one railroads which are now operating at a loss, together with a comparison of basic valuation and present day valuation.

Miles C. Kennedy, chief railroad examiner for the R. F. C., revealed that listed security with an estimated market value of $70,000,000, was pledged by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad as collateral for a $67,000,000 loan authorization. Kennedy explained:

"Last December 10 this security had shrunk in value to $64,000,000."

Only $39,000,000 has actually been advanced to the Baltimore and Ohio, he added.

Security for an Erie Railroad loan of $15,000,000 has shrunk to less than $13,000,000 in value.

URGES SCHOOLS GET FULL TAX

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—W. M. Denison, Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction, today said that Pennsylvania's school boards must collect every cent of tax due if they do not want the schools closed next year.

Addressing the twentieth annual meeting of the Association of School Board Secretaries of Pennsylvania, Denison said Pennsylvania is fortunate that the wave of school closing in other states has not reached its boundaries. He added:

"But this does not mean that Pennsylvania is not up against it. You must investigate thoroughly before approving any exemption from paying the school tax.

"Get in every cent of the tax due you if you want to keep your schools open next year."

His working schedule was virtually inflexible. He devoted mornings to his novels and the afternoons, from 3 to 6 o'clock, to his plays.

The author had a strong dislike of publicity. However, when he declined a knighthood in 1918, the award actually appeared in the King's New Years honor list. A correction was published the next day at his request. He accepted in 1929 the Order of Merit for his services to literature and drama.

Galsworthy's wife, two other members of his family and two old family servants were at his bedside as death came peacefully to one of the outstanding lights of modern English literature.

LAST NOVEL

By coincidence, the announcement that Galsworthy had won the 1932 Nobel prize for literature, last November 11, came near the day of the publication of his last novel, "Flowering Wilderness," a study of the English upper classes.

Most of his writings were concerned with the life of England's upper middle class.

His last book was in a way a sequel to "Maid in Waiting," which in mood and subject matter derived from "The Forsyte Saga." It is a careful evaluation of the inevitable British loyalty which bobs up in one shape or another in many English novels.

Galsworthy wrote 50 or more short stories and 25 plays, in addition to his novels.

Shipment of Arms Explained by Italy

ROME, Jan. 31.—(AP)—A recent shipment of guns from Italy to Austria which created some curiosity in France and Central Europe consisted of old Austrian arms sent to Italy for repairs by a private company, the foreign office today told the ambassadors of France and Great Britain.

Reports that the shipment, which consisted of 40,000 rifles and 200 machine guns, was destined for Hungary are without foundation, the foreign office said.

SENATE WETS PUSH REPEAL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(INS.)—With both prohibition repeal and the new beer-wine bill on the Senate calendar, Congressional wets today were hopeful of securing action on prohibition modification before the end of the present Congress.

Senator Blaine (Rep.), of Wisconsin, wet leader, announced the repeal resolution would be considered first. He said he would move its consideration as soon "as an opportunity can be found."

The beer and wine bill was placed on the Senate calendar after the Finance Committee approved its provision for a $5 per barrel federal tax.

The bill, as drafted by the Judiciary Committee, would legalize 3.05 per cent beer, porter, ale, wine, fruit juices and like malt or vinous beverages. If it passes the Senate, the conferees will have to iron out its differences with the House bill, which legalized only 3.2 per cent beer.

LEHMAN URGES BIG TAX RAISE

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 31.—(AP.) A retail sales tax on everything except food and motor fuel, already taxed, a gross tax on personal incomes and a one-cent increase in the gasoline tax were among measures to raise $84,000,000 in new revenue recommended to the Legislature by Gov. Lehman last night as means of balancing a proposed budget of $234,998,531.

The proposed budget is the lowest submitted to the Legislature since 1925. The Governor's tax proposals are intended not only to meet the state's financial needs for the fiscal year beginning July 1, but to wipe out a $106,000,000 deficit.

Gov. Lehman made no recommendations regarding a beer tax, but reserved the right to change his revenue recommendations if Congress changes the national prohibition law.

FIVE-DAY WEEK RECOMMENDED TO HOUSE

Morgan Rule of U. S. Industries Again Charged by Labor

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—The House Labor Committee today approved the Connery five-day week, six-hour day bill.

Chairman Connery said he would confer with Speaker Garner and other leaders to see about putting the bill before the House for a vote.

Under the measure, any person who knowingly transported commodities or articles produced by workmen working more than six hours a day and five days a week in interstate or foreign commerce would be subject to a fine of $1,000 or not more than three months' imprisonment or both.

At the Senate side of the Capitol, committee study of such legislation is going ahead, with sponsors aiming to get quick action there also. Testimony today related again to "interlocking directorates" in industry, with John P. Frey—labor official—saying that Morgan banking interests and the Chase National Bank in New York virtually "dominate" industry and labor by means of such directorates.

Likening the big banking group to an army command with supervision of "army divisions, brigades, regiments, companies and battalion and corporal squads," Frey said the Morgan house, through six banks in New York "popularly known as the Morgan banks," held 208 directors in 104 other banks, 618 in 569 miscellaneous corporation, 178 in 147 insurance companies, 423 in 360 manufacturing concerns, 283 in 234 transportation companies and 315 in 266 public utilities companies.

CAPONE APPEAL RIGHT WON

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 31.—(INS.)—Federal Judge Underwood today granted formal authority for an appeal by Al Capone to the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals, in New Orleans, from his denial last week of freedom under a petition of writ of habeas corpus.

The Chicago gangster's attorneys cited 23 errors in Judge Underwood's decision.

From his cell in Atlanta Penitentiary, Capone instructed his attorneys to carry the fight to the United States Supreme Court if necessary.

NEW CABINET IN FRANCE

PARIS, Jan. 31. — (AP.) — Edouard Daladier, Radical-Socialist party leader, completed today the formation of a new French government and presented his cabinet to President Albert Lebrun.

The ministry was dependent on the Socialist party's support and its tenure of office therefore was precarious as the Socialists today showed discontent by voting against the February credits to carry the government expenses.

The cabinet was the same as that of former Premier Joseph Paul-Boncour, who was overthrown Saturday, except for seven new faces. These were Senators Penancier and Serre, and Deputies Appell, Paganon, Albert, Hulin and Lamoureux.

It was one of the smallest cabinets in recent years, containing 18 Deputies and four Senators.

The veteran, Paul Painleve, former Premier and aviation minister under M. Paul-Boncour, was forced to retire because of ill health.

FORMER KAISER AWAITS BID

Wilhelm was with his father when the news of Hitler's appointment as Chancellor was received. The prince came here from his 30,000-acre estate at Oels, Silesia, to celebrate the ex-Kaiser's seventy-fourth birthday and remained after most of the other guests had departed.

The Crown Prince, it was said at Doorn House, greets the new political developments in Germany with the same satisfaction as his father.

2 Die In Riots Following Hitler's Ascendancy

BERLIN, Jan. 31.—(INS.)—Two persons died today as bloodshed, violence and protests followed elevation of Adolf Hitler, Nazi leader and one-time expatriate, to the Chancellorship of the Reich.

One Nazi was shot and killed and a Communist was critically wounded in clashes between Reds and supporters of Hitler as the latter were marching home after their jubilant victory parade.

The Communist newspaper Die Rote Fahne, was confiscated as the new Chancellor took his first drastic step against his enemies, the Communists. It was announced the newspaper was taken over because it "proclaimed" a general strike.

Ten persons were slightly wounded and 20 were arrested, as were 13 other Communists for attempting to demonstrate.

A policeman was shot to death by a sniper in the western section of the city. Police said the bullet, evidently intended for a Nazi, was fired from a window.

Sections of Berlin were strewn with Communist handbills, urging a general strike as protest against the Hitler ministry.

DEBTS PARLEY SET DAY AFTER INAUGURAL

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—A British debt mission will arrive in Washington to begin negotiations with the Roosevelt administration before the inaugural flags and bunting have been cleared away in Pennsylvania avenue.

President-elect Roosevelt told Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, that he hoped to begin negotiations immediately he assumed office and March 5-6 was set as the tentative date for the parleys to open. Sir Ronald left Washington today for New York. He will sail at midnight for London to make arrangements and report to his government.

OUTLINE OF POLICY

The ambassador will take to London with him a fairly comprehensive outline of the Rooseveltian policy concerning amelioration of the $4,500,000,000 British debt, gleaned in their Sunday conference in the Georgia Mountains.

For one thing, he is going to report that it will be useless for a British mission to come to Washington prepared to discuss the debt question alone, as the British government desires to do. He will report that the incoming President is insistent that the envoys be qualified and empowered to discuss economic questions which the new American administration believes are part and parcel of any debt revision.

The ambassador's laconic reply to questions was:

"The President-elect told me a lot of things which I expect to report to my government."

He declined to become more specific.

3-POINT PROGRAM

It was learned, however, that Mr. Roosevelt furnished the British envoy with what was, in effect, a three-point program which the London government must be prepared to discuss in relation to revision of the debt.

—The loosening of tariff barriers erected during the past two years, which have seriously curtailed American trade with Great Britain and her dominions.

—Cooperation in the Far East, where the situation is regarded as becoming steadily more grave. The open door is menaced under Japan's rampant militarism, and with it the vast Oriental trade of both Great Britain and the United States.

—Stabilization of British currency and possible return of Great Britain to the gold standard.

Each of these link up with the President-elect's policy of no debt revision unless it is accompanied by what he has frequently characterized as "compensatory advantages" for American trade.

VOTE MACHINE SUIT REOPENED

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—The State Supreme Court today ordered a reargument in the proceedings started by the Philadelphia County Commissioners to prevent the Secretary of the Commonwealth from purchasing voting machines for Philadelphia.

Under the state law, when commissioners fail to buy machines after voters approve their purchase, it is the duty of the Secretary of the Commonwealth to order them and send the bill to the county.

The commissioners of Philadelphia refused to order the machines on the ground that funds were not available.

Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish awarded a contract to the Automatic Voting Machine Company of Jamestown, N. Y., after the Dauphin County Court had dismissed an application for a preliminary restraining order.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—New York was granted an emergency relief loan of $6,100,000 by the Reconstruction Corporation.

THE BIG RUSH TO FILE PERSONAL TAX STATEMENTS

THE TAX RUSH . . . CROWDS AT BOARD FOR ASSESSMENT AND REVISION OF TAXES FILING PERSONAL PROPERTY RETURNS

County Tax Campaign Hit by Poor as Unfair

Although George E. Meyers, head of the board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes, reports "wonderful response" from the public to the efforts of the county to enforce the personal property tax law, there were many persons in the lines at the tax office today who expressed themselves as being anything but in harmony with the law.

Among those in line daily are hundreds of unemployed, who still possess stocks of virtually no value on which they must file returns. Others unemployed complained about paying taxes on the small saving account on which they are living.

One aged man said:

"Four years ago I had a job and I bought this stock. Today I am out of work and cannot sell the stock. Yet I must pay a tax on what these people say the stock was worth January 1. It might be worth that much to somebody, but not to me."

An elderly woman said that she had $400 in the bank, with which she must pay on a mortgage. She declared that she was paying on a mortgage twice a year and put the money in the bank to prepare for the payment. Now she pays four mills tax on the savings of mortgage money. She said that was unfair, inasmuch as the man who lent her the money on the mortgage must also pay a tax on the same mortgage, as he is listed as having money out at interest.

Meyers declared that the county will be able to collect a much greater revenue from this tax than in previous years, when the law was not enforced. He said the public has been "most gracious" in its co-operation and that the results have been very gratifying.

Vibrator, Stopwatch Keep Congress 'in Pink'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31. — (INS.)—It takes a lot of primping and medical care to get Congress in shape to function.

The annual report of the clerk of the House, just submitted to the Accounts Committee, shows some weird and wonderful items. Paid to a "beauty and barber supply" company is an item of $5.22 for a vibrator to soothe the throbbing gills of statesmen weighing 200 pounds and up. Despite the respectably-sized bald-headed bloc, combs are purchased by the gross.

For first aid to the aching Congressional brow, aspirin is purchased by the dozens of bottles, and bromo- seltzer by the carton.

"French square bottles, flint glass, 16 ounces, cork stoppers" are a great favorite. There are several entries of such purchases.

Carpets to cushion the statesmen's stride are thick, soft and expensive. The contingent fund is tapped for several thousands of dollars for this item alone.

The medical man assigned to look after the fragile political blooms of the House, being technically of the Navy, must have a ship's clock, it seems. An item of $7.50 for repairing it appears.

Perhaps the strangest item is the purchase, for $15, of a stopwatch. Exactly one week after its purchase appears a $5 entry for having it repaired.

LIBBY ALLOWED 'OUTDOORS'

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31.—(A.P.)—Libby Holman Reynolds ventured "outdoors" yesterday for the first time since her arrival at a Philadelphia Hospital January 10 for the birth of her baby.

But Dr. Norris W. Vaux, her physician, would not permit the former Broadway singer to go out on the street. He restricted her to the solarium on top of the hospital.

Mrs. Reynolds, the widow of the late Smith Reynolds, who was found shot to death in his Winston-Salem, N. C., home, has seen her baby. She was able to walk from her room to the modified incubator in which the child is kept, and has had repeated glimpses of him. Her first was last Thursday.

Mrs. Reynolds expects to remain in the hospital about three more weeks. By that time, the closely scheduled regimen on which the underweight child is being kept is expected to end, John N. Hatfield, the hospital superintendent, indicated.

JAP ASSASSIN SEIZED IN PLOT

TOKIO, Jan. 31.—(INS.)—A plot to assassinate Minister of Justice Matsukichi Koyama was nipped today by police, who captured Yutaka Hattori, placing him under arrest.

According to police, Hattori is a member of the Aikoku Patriotic party, said to be responsible for the slaying of former Premier Hamaguchi.

Baby Withstands Operation, But Dies

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Eugene Robert Viola, who at the age of five days, survived an operation to prevent him from starving to death, died of pneumonia.

Ten days ago doctors performed an operation to make an opening between the infants' stomach and intentine. He was born, doctors said, without the usual opening.

Blue Note Bebe Falvo New Prima Donna In 'Revels'

The depression, which has made near-paupers out of millionaires, has made a prima donna out of a Pittsburgh blues singer — dark-eyed Bebe Falvo, who just a few months ago was looking for a night club engagement here.

Bebe made her singing debut here six years ago, at 15. She sang her blues in the old Flotilla Club and various other night clubs in and around Pittsburgh.

The depression came along, and the night club business was "that way," and Bebe thought she would try her luck further afield. She got a part in Harry Delmar's Revels, playing the four and five-a-day vaudeville. The audiences seemed to like her high notes as well as the soft, velvety tones of the blues, so she became the prima donna, and on February 10 she makes her debut on Broadway, when the company plays the Palace Theater. The following week she appears at Radio City, following which she will fill a short movie engagement with Warner Brothers.

'Ukelele Ike' Gives Bond, Loses Guard

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—The "stooge" the law provided for Clifton Edwards, "Ukelele Ike" of the stage and screen, won't be present in the wings during the rest of his engagement at a local theater.

Edwards has been in the constant company of a deputy sheriff since Judge James J. Kelly granted his former wife, Mrs. Gertrude Ryrholm a writ of ne exeat to prevent him from leaving the state. Edwards posted a $5,000 surety bond yesterday and was released from technical custody.

40 Dutch Sailors Mutiny Over Cuts

BATAVIA, Java, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Forty seamen aboard the Dutch cruiser Java and two Dutch destroyers were arrested for mutiny today and put ashore at the Sourayaba naval base.

A number of men in the crews of the three vessels refused to turn out for parade in protest against a recent pay cut. Many returned to duty after the commander of the Java had spoken to them, but the 40 men persisted in their refusal to obey orders. This afternoon the ships proceeded to sea for exercises.

9 GIVEN FINES IN SOUTH SIDE CLEANUP

'Small Fry' Deserted By 'Big Shots' on Arrest, Court Told

Three more raids on alleged numbers headquarters and one on a large liquor-cutting plant were made today by county detectives operating in the East End and the Hill district. Four men were arrested.

News spread rapidly among the small fry of the numbers racket that raids are being continued.

In South Side Police Court, Rose Mullen, 34, of 14 South Twenty-seventh street, one of 16 persons arrested in raids on alleged speakeasies and lotteries, testified the little fellows in the numbers business are being "let down" by the "big shots."

ACCUSED 'BOSS'

She was fined $50 or 30 days in jail. She told the magistrate that the men for whom she was writing had promised to take care of her in the event she was arrested.

County detectives arrested Louis Gilbert, 35, of 603 Roberts street, on a charge of maintaining a lottery; Vincent Gardino, of 207½ North Evaline street, on a charge of violating the Snyder Act and maintaining a lottery; Charles Cuttilla, of 5021 Penn avenue, on a charge of maintaining a lottery, and Harry Hiller, of 408 North Pacific avenue, charged with violating the Snyder Act in connection with a cutting plant for liquor which detectives say he was operating at that address.

All were held under bond for hearings before Alderman Thomas M. Geary.

$50 FINES IMPOSED

As the result of raids on the South Side by city police, fines of $50 or 30 days were imposed on eight others.

They were George Wolfe, 44, 1214 Gorman way; Peter Stubinger, 37, 220 Cedar street; William Yarmak, 47, 1212 Gorman way, and Thomas Sorochman, 63 South Sixteenth street, all charged with keeping disorderly houses; Harry Rosenthal, 25, 439 Carson street, charged with maintaining a gambling device, and Carl Prosser, 22, 109 South Twenty-third street; Marcella Herbst, 29, 1 Mt. Oliver street, and John Higgins, 2812 Arlington avenue, all charged with operating lotteries.

Einstein Urges Aid For Zionist Drive

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—(Universal)—Prof. Albert Einstein, famous German scientist, declared in an address yesterday that "the traditions of the Jewish people can be maintained in Palestine," and urged co-operation in the movement to make Palestine the "Jewish national homeland."

Judge Julian W. Mack, of New York, urged Jews of every opinion to join in the Zionist movement.

Idle Man Discovers $80 Check in Bible

ETOWAH, Tenn., Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Temporarily unemployed, Amos Carson, a Louisville and Nashville Railroad shops boilermaker turned the pages of the family Bible in carrying out a New Years resolution to read it more.

From its pages dropped an uncashed check for $80.63, dated September 3, 1928, made out to his widowed sister.

RUINS OF THREE HOMES IN BERTHA .... FIREMEN DYNAMITED ONE HOUSE OUT OF THE WAY OF SPREADING FLAMES

CROWD AT RITES OF BOMB VICTIM

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31.—(INS.)—While thousands of curious milled outside, funeral services were held in St. Rita's Catholic Church today for Mrs. John Di Silvestro, a victim of the bomb believed planted by anti-Fascists, which wrecked the home of her husband, prominent Italian-American leader.

Numerous floral tributes, including those of Premier Benito Mussolini and King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, were banked high around the grave in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Meanwhile, authorities, spurred on by the $15,000 in rewards, continued their intensive investigation into the bombing.

It was revealed that Di Silvestro probably owes his life to the fact he stopped at a restaurant for a cup of coffee.

Thomas Martino, the dead woman's brother, said Di Silvestro was hurrying home from a lodge meeting when he suddenly decided to get coffee and the delay probably saved his life.

'Static' on Radio Helps Sheriff Foil Break

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 31.—A rasping sound on a radio in Sheriff W. J. Engelhardt's office led to the discovery of an attempted jail delivery. The radio was grounded on the cell blocks and deputies in a search found five saws and a file. Sheriff Engelhardt questioned 21 prisoners near the cell where bars had been partly sawed.

Fight Mine Town Fire By Blasting 3 Homes

Blaze Laid to Upset Of Oil Stove By Girl

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 31.—The charred, dynamited ruins of three miners' homes stood at Bertha Mine, near here, today as evidence of frantic efforts to prevent widespread destruction after fire broke out in the company house of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Campbell last night. Three families are homeless.

The blaze, started when 17-year-old Anna Campbell upset an oil stove in the kitchen of her home, rapidly spread to the adjoining match-box-like buildings tenanted by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gibson and their three children and Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Ondago.

SHORTAGE OF WATER

Desperate, as the flames licked hungrily toward neighboring structures, firemen and miners set off a charge of 100 sticks of dynamite in the Campbell home. As the fire continued to threaten, five further charges, totalling in all several hundred sticks, were set off in the Gibson and Ondago houses.

The Campbells—mother and father and eight children—the five Gibsons and the Ondagos all escaped uninjured. All possessions of the Campbells and Ondagos were destroyed; the Gibsons saved a few sticks of their furniture.

HOME SAVED

Slight damage was caused when the flames caught on the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pratt, adjoining the Ondago house. The blaze in the Pratt building was quickly put out after the three boarders and the Pratts had evacuated.

John H. Jones, of the Bertha Consumers' Coal Company, owned the houses, to which $9,000 damage was done, according to Slovan's fire chief, Steve Dugas.

The fire came as a major disaster to the community, where most families are already on the verge of being public charges and where there is, at the best, but four or five days' work a week at 28 cents an hour for the miners.

Girl, 2 Men Freed After False Alarm

Two men and a woman, arrested and suspected of having turned in a false alarm of fire at South Twenty-first and Jane streets early today, were discharged by police in South Side Station today. They had been found in a parked automobile and gave their names as Charles Griffith, 35, of 82 Van Braam street; William Lang, 40, of 311 Jumonville street, and Vera Kudalis, 21, of 132 South Twenty-first street.

$422,340 Balance In Fire Pension Fund

The Firemen's Pension Fund has a balance of $422,340.55 after completing its 1932 business, it is shown in a report to Council.

The report also shows that 1932 receipts totaled $841,746.30 and expenditures $419,406.75. The number of retired men numbered 364 on December 31, last. On December 31, 1931 there were 307 pensioners.

FIVE ARRESTED DEMANDING AID

Five alleged Communist leaders were arrested today when a group of 20 visited the South Side offices of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation to demand relief for the unemployed. None of the visiting delegation had ever been employed by the company.

Those arrested gave their names as Ben Carothers, Negro, of 1812 Wylie avenue; Albert March, 1428 Hamlin street; Edith Biscoe, 611 Penn avenue, and Mabel Turner and Herbert Hurt, both Negroes, of 75 South Thirtieth street. Carothers was arrested last week in a Communistic demonstration in the Hill district.

A meeting of more than 100 in Ormsby Park preceded the visit to the plant's Thirtieth street gates where H. G. Mauk, superintendent of J. and L. police, asked:

"How many of you have been in the employ of this company?"

"Well, we have a rule here that nobody can see our officials except employes. The rest of you go away."

City police then ordered the crowd to disperse. The five arrested refused to obey the commands. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

REALTY DEALER FORCING FARM SALE SLAIN

Extension of Funds Refused, Says Pomerene

MOUND CITY, Kan., Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Luther D. Marr, 67, Kansas City real estate dealer who came here yesterday to foreclose a mortgage on a farm, was found fatally wounded on a highway last night. He was taken to Fort Scoot, where he died.

Marr had been shot several times with both .22 and .38 caliber firearms. His body had been dragged from his motor car, which was pierced with bullets.

The real estate man and former banker was returning to Kansas City when he was shot.

His wife rushed to Fort Scott from Kansas City and was with him when he died. She said he had not been robbed.

The foreclosure was on a 500-acre farm, which Mrs. Marr said her husband had traded to J. M. Holzapfel, Colony (Kan.) druggist, for an apartment house. Marr bought back the farm at the foreclosure sale yesterday.

NEW FARM LOWS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—With Congress occupied in listening to arguments for and against the domestic allotment plan and farm mortgage relief measures, the Agriculture Department disclosed today that farm prices had sunk to a new low during January. The figure for the average was placed at 51 per cent of the pre-war level.

Representatives for millers' organizations were joining packers in contendinb feore the Senate Agriculture Committee that the domestic allotment plan—designed to bring prices for seven farm products back to the pre-war level—would drive consumers from wheat and pork products to substitutes.

Paul Bestor, the farm loan commissioner, meanwhile was before a House committee opposing a moratorium on Federal Land Bank loans.

Other capitol developments today of interest to the farmer were:

President Hoover received from Seiretary Hyde a report on the Jones-Smith $90,000,000 bill for 1933 crop production loans and was expected to act soon.

MORTGAGE NETS $2.17

DESHER, O., Jan. 31.—(AP.)—The farm implements, two horses, two cows, and the household goods of Cecil Kistner, a 28-year-old farmer, brought $2.17 at an auction attended by 2,000 rural residents today. The man was told by the buyers to keep his property and a collection amounting to $5.00 was thrown in. There was no protest at the auction from the finance company which held the mortgage of $400 against the property.

This was the second recent private auction arranged between a farmer and creditors in Northeastern Ohio which brought a negligible sum, and left the farmer's property in his hands.

11 Indicted in Farm 'Holiday' Shooting

LITTLE JIMMY, 4, FOUND TODAY IN THE OHIO RIVER

LAWRENCE (JIMMY) MORROW, 4 .... LONG SEARCH ENDED

Jimmy, the little North Side boy whose mysterious disappearance, a police problem for several days, was solved today when his body was found in the Ohio River. He vanished while on an errand. This is a sketch by Robert F. Reamy, Sun-Telegraph Artist.

Kitten in Tree Routed, Vanishes; Child Mourns

Blackie, the kitten, is still missing, and little Gloria Romeo, 5, is inconsolable. Yesterday the kitten, in a spirit of high adventure, climbed the big apple tree in the back yard.

Mrs. James Romeo, of 3065 Grasmere avenue, Dormont, the mother of Gloria, saw the cat trying to impersonate a robin in the topmost branches of the tree and telephoned the police for aid.

The police came and tried to get the cat down by squirting water at it, but Blackie, irritated, refused to descend. The resourceful police climbed the tree and cut off the limb to which pussy was clinging. The limb fell, and Blackie rolled off and ran down the alley and disappeared. Gloria, who has been crying for her kitten since its disappearance, begs its pardon for such humiliating treatment and hopes it will forgive her and come home. She says, in the hope that someone will find it and return it to her:

"It was a little black kitty with a white spot on its throat. If you called it Blackie it would meow."

Scientist Backs Verne Dream of 'Other Life'

BERKELEY, Cal., Jan. 31.—(INS.)—Apparently justifying the dreams of Jules Verne, tangible evidence of the existence of life on other planets was revealed today by Prof. Charles L. Lipman, dean of the graduate division of the University of California and noted plant pathologist.

Prof. Lipman reported that he had discovered microscopic living organisms in fragments of meteorites which had struck the earth after hurtling through space from other stars or planets.

While Prof. Lipman drew no conclusions from his observations, scientists here pointed out that his findings definitely proved that life exists elsewhere than on the terrestial sphere, and supported the theory that life originally came here from other heavenly bodies.

The organisms, consisting of rod or coccoid type bacteria, were found in the interior of the meteorites, where there was enough organic matter to support their life. Prof. Lipman explained that although the fragments burst into flame when they strike the earth's atmosphere, the interior remains comparatively cool. He said:

"It would not have been possible for bacteria to enter all the meteorites through long immersion in the earth because some were picked up immediately after they landed.

BAN RED CROSS FOR OFFENSE TO CHURCH

SOMERVILLE, Mass., Jan. 31.—(AP.)—All Junior Red Cross activities stood discontinued in the public schools of Somerville today by unanimous vote of the Somerville School Committee.

Distribution of the January issue of "The National Junior Red Cross News," a publication of the American Red Cross, also was ordered suppressed at last night's school committee meeting.

A drawing in the current issue of the Red Cross News was denounced by school committeemen as "sacrilegious," and the bans were placed on the Junior Red Cross activities and the national publication "until an apology from the publishers is forthcoming."

DONKEY CARTOON

The "offensive" drawing, termed by Committeeman Louis B. Connelly "a cartoon that is an insult to more than 20,000,000 Americans," depicts a priest in vestments administering the sacrament of communion to a donkey held on a string by a small child.

The drawing shows the small child in Spanish costume, and is used to illustrate a children's story of Spain. The story tells the tale of a small Spanish boy, whose donkey became ill. The lad loved the donkey dearly, and, fearing the animal would die, took him to the parish priest for communion. The story continues to tell how the sacrament of communion was administered and how the donkey lived.

PARENTS PROTEST

Protests against the drawing were first made to school committee members by parents of public school children, among whom 15,000 copies of the magazine are distributed.

Connelly charged "the sensibilities of many people have been offended by this cartoon, which can only be interpreted as ridiculing the great central act of worship of a great religious denomination."

George J. Moran, president of the Somerville Board of Aldermen, declared the publication of the drawing was "un-American and not to be expected from the Red Cross."

Ban on Red Cross News Astonishing to Leaders

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Officials of the American Red Cross expressed astonishment today at news reports that the Somerville, Mass., School Committee had barred the American Junior Red Cross News from further distribution in its schools because of a cartoon in the January issue.

W. S. Gard, assistant director of Junior Red Cross activities, said the drawing was an illustration of a story, and before publication had been submitted to Catholic authorities who saw no objection to it.

Gard said that if an apology were demanded by the Somerville school authorities, the Red Cross undoubtedly would make one.

ENGINEER HELD OVER LETTERS

S. Barton Sklar, research engineer, arrested on a charge of sending anonymous and scurrilous letters to Nettie Iancu, of Waverley street, waived a hearing for court last night before Alderman Edward Haas.

Sklar was arrested Friday night in Alderman Louis Wick's office after Miss Iancu and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Iancu, were held for court on Sklar's charges that they conspired to indict him.

Sklar had previously been arrested on a charge of false pretense preferred by the three Iancus. He was held for court by Haas when they testified he proposed to Nettie and borrowed money from the family on the pretext that he had a sum in the closed Monongahela National Bank.

Pianist To Give Recital; Found Success Abroad

HENRY HARRIS

Pittsburgher Won Praise in Tour Of Germany

Henry Harris, Pittsburgh pianist who has just returned from a concert tour of German music capitals, will give a piano recital Wednesday evening in the auditorium of the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association.

Though devoted to contemporary music and praised in every foreign city where he played Dobrowen's Sonata, he finds his greatest pleasure in the classics and never fails to include a work of Bach or Mozart in his programs.

Harris has been invited to play next season with orchestra in Berlin and Munich, also with the Lamoureux Orchestra in Paris.

SERVICE TOPIC OF CHURCHMEN

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—The church's part in social service is among matters under discussion today by delegates to the fourth annual conference of the Pennsylvania Council of Churches.

The Rev. Dr. Leon K. William, of Wilkes-Barre, leads a discussion on social service. Other conferences are being held simultaneously on comity, evangelism, Christian education, social service and international relations. The conference closes tonight.

The Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of Madison Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, New York, asserted last night that it is the church's duty to lead in bringing about social justice.

He urged that all denominations concentrate on a common cause with a unity in spirit, rather than merging of forces.

Pinochle Player Gets Perfect Hand

Charles Schutte, playing in a six-handed game drew a perfect hand which netted him 2,040 points and gave him game in one hand.

COX ASKS HELP FOR NEEDY

Father Cox is in Mercy Hospital and must remain there for an indefinite period. His health is improving. Dr. Gilbert Meyers, his attending physician, thinks that he is responding to treatment and that the necessity for an operation has been obviated. His recovery is somewhat retarded on account of constant worry. As Father Cox puts it:

"Here I am with my back up against the wall. Almost hourly reports from Old St. Patrick's indicate that the bread line is increasing in length and that the demands from destitute families grow greater every day. Naturally the donations are slipping. Unable to make my regular appeals by radio, unable to call on persons who might be willing to help, the campaign for food and funds is slowing up. If it were not for the Sun-Telegraph, I am afraid that the work of feeding the hundreds who come to Old St. Patrick's for aid, would come to a sudden and distastrous stop. At just this time I will more than appreciate the help of the public. In fact any help that I get today will go twice as far as it did at any other time."

In the meantime the Father Cox-Sun-Telegraph subscription drive continues. For every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page he is given a liberal commission in cash for his relief fund. If you have food, clothing or furniture that you would like to donate to the needy telephone Grant 4390 and Father Cox will have his trucks pick it up.

15 Arrested in Dry Raids in Somerset

Thirteen raids, netting 15 prisoners, were staged by agents under Deputy Prohibition Administrator R. S. Krauss, in Somerset County, last night. Raids were made in Meyersdale, Rockwood, Berlin, Garrett and other communities, where liquor was seized.

SINGER GIVEN BIG CHANCE

Samuel Di Primio, 28-year-old Greensburg Italian whose tenor voice is heard each Sunday in the choir of the Greensburg Presbyterian Church, gets another opportunity today to show New York critics how closely his voice resembles that of Enrico Caruso.

At 3:15 p. m., this afternoon he will give a brief concert that will be put on the radio networks by station KDKA. At the other end will be an audience of New York critics.

Frank LeForge, Metropolitan coach and teacher of Lawrence Tibbett and Richard Crooks, heard Di Primio four weeks ago and remarked about the resemblence of Di Primo's voice and that of Caruso. He predicted he would be the greatest tenor ever to grace the stage of the Metropolitan.

Trail of Stolen Peanuts Lead To Capture

GREENVILLE, S. C., Jan. 31.—(AP.)—There was one thing the robber should not have stolen from J. Y. Cantrell's store and that was salted peanuts.

Cantrell reported his store had been robbed yesterday and Sheriff B. B. Smith investigated. Cigarets, tobacco, shotgun shells, salted peanuts and other merchandise was missing.

The officers concentrated on the peanuts and followed a trail of them into the mountains, to a cabin a mile and a half from the store. At the cabin they arrested B. D. Reding.

STATE HOUSING BOARD URGED

Adoption of comprehensive housing projects would increase employment and eliminate slums, John Ihlder, executive director of the Pittsburgh Housing Association, said at a luncheon of the Hungry Club yesterday. With adoption of housing laws, aid from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would be available, he said.

He urged enactment of bills authorizing a state housing board, creation of limited dividend companies to provide housing for families of low income, and creation of limited dividend corporations to reconstruct slum or distressed areas.

LISTENING IN -:- -:- Cobb With Crumit Again Tonight

U. S. Contralto In 5-Star Theater

Kathryn Meisle, distinguished American contralto who considers her own career as evidence that America is musically mature inasmuch as she received her entire musical education on this side of the Atlantic, is the five Star Theater soloist on WJAS at 10 tonight. Miss Meisle, whose previous engagement to sing with Josef Bonime's orchestra on the program was postponed due to illness, made her debut as a concert artist with the Minneapolis Symphony in 1921. Since that time she has appeared frequently with leading symphonic orchestras throughout this country, and has been a principal member of the San Francisco, Los Angeles and Chicago Civic Opera companies.

Miss Meisle

A return microphone appearance by Irvin S. Cobb, celebrated humorist, with Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit, is listed on WCAE tonight at 8 o'clock in response to numerous requests from listeners. Cobb tells several new stories during the broadcast and Crumit repeats his new song, which he introduced two weeks ago, "Brother Ezra and Sister Susan."

Program Pointers

A discussion of "The Powers of Congress" by Representative James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, and Prof. Jesse S. Reeves, of the University of Michigan, is listed during "You and Your Government" on KDKA at 7:15 p. m. . . . The same station at 8 offers a new mystery thriller, "Pineapple Flavor," in which Manhunter Spencer Dean is faced with the problem of identifying one of 20 men as a murderer.

Mr. Beck

The true story of the exploits of a pair of ruthless murderers who perpetrated some of the most ghastly crimes in police history, "The Barton Brothers," is the "Magic Carpet" drama on WCAE at 10. Anson Weeks provides the rhythmic interludes.

Jeannie Lang, personality songster who made Pittsburgh sit-up-and-take-notice several seasons ago and who currently is featured with Col. Stoopnagle and Budd, is interviewed on WJAS at 5 today.

Henry Rooter and Maud invade Bill's "antological laboratory" and are caught "fixin' Bill's collection," on KDKA at 6 during today's "Maud and Cousin Bill" episode.

Howard Barlow offers his symphonic versions of the "Polovetzian Dances," from Borodin's opera, "Prince Igor;" selections from Smetana's "The Bartered Bride" and Delibes' ballet suite to "Sylvia," and the second movement, Larghetto, from Beethoven's Second Symphony, on WJAS at 11 p. m.

'Kremlin Mystery' On WKBN, WSAZ

With Addas Abayia, beautiful Egyptian actress, portraying the principle role, "The Mystery of the Kremlin," a dramatization taken from the contents of the February 5 American Weekly, is presented on WKBN, Youngstown, O., at 9 p. m. and WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., at 5:15 p. m. today. The American Weekly is distributed each Sunday with the Sun-Telegraph.

Pearl, Wynn Rivals Fail To 'Satisfy'

A comedy program, which attempted to compete with Jack Pearl, Ed Wynn and Eddie Cantor, has vanished after only three weeks' trial. That Tuesday - Friday series of programs featuring Tom Howard and George Shelton, with Betty Barthell as soloist, undergoes a change effective immediately. The comedians and Miss Barthell are eliminated for a symphonic jazz presentation by Leonard Hayton's orchestra augmented to concert size. Ruth Etting and Bing Crosby, the other stars of the cigaret program group, will continue.

Mr. Hayton

Fred Astaire, Weber and Fields and a scene by Janet Beecher and Claude Rains from "Bill of Divorcement" are listed for Rudy Vallee's hour Thursday.

Roy Shield, the maestro, has been "loaned" to Hollywood at the request of Laurel and Hardy. Shield, a former Hollywood music writer and arranger, will help the team in their new picture, "Fra Diablo," a comic opera.

Ever wonder how they keep fit? . . . Andre Baruch swims—expertly . . . Fred Allen goes in for handball as do David Ross and Bunny Coughlin . . . Kate Smith likes to swim, play tennis and walk . . . William Hall, CBS baritone, indulges in an early morning run around the Central Park reservoir . . . Charles Carlile and Kenneth Roberts ride horseback . . . Lennie Hayton likes to box and is coached by Tony Canzoneri . . . Paul Douglass goes in for rowing . . . and although most people don't consider trapshooting exercise, Marge Damerel, of "Myrt and Marge," says that her tussles with a 12-gauge shotgun are strenuous enough to suit her . . . and among the golfers are Little Jack Little, Bing Crosby, Singin' Sam, Les Reis, Artie Dunn, George Burns, Frank Knight, Freddie Rich, Louis Dean and Frank Readick.

The most recent slip-of-the-tongue belongs to Jack Smart, that generally faultless radio actor, who got all mixed up with "Now let's talk turkey" and said "Now let's turk talkie."

Dolph Martin, CBS maestro, has been signed to provide the tunes for a group of movie shorts.

Gertrude Niesen was given an eleventh-hour call the other day to sing the vocal refrain for a recording by Eddie Duchin's band. Forty minutes after she saw the music for the first time, the disc was completed—and now she's to do a series of recordings.

Seibel Discusses Theater Tonight

George Seibel, dramatic and literary critic of the Sun-Telegraph, chats about news and personalities of the theater during his weekly broadcast from the studios of WCAE at 7 o'clock tonight.

News flashes by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, are broadcast four times daily over WCAE and WJAS—at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasant results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

THE BEST WAY TO GET RID OF PIMPLES

Cleanse the skin. Rid the pores of all clogging impurities with Resinol Soap. Then apply Resinol Ointment to heal any sore, inflamed pimples. This simple treatment used daily, has changed many a coarse, blotchy, seemingly hopeless skin into one that is clear, smooth and naturally lovely. Don't risk delay. Druggists sell Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment.

SAMPLES FREE: Write Resinol, Department 100, Baltimore, Md., for trial size samples, together with your copy of booklet on "Skin Treatment for Health and Beauty."

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

What is the use of a "signs of spring" department when the weatherman crosses you up when everyone feels most optimistic by chilling our spirits as well as our bones? The letters this morning telling of the new birds don't convey much more than a feeling of sorrow or sympathy for the birds who might have done better staying some place where it was warm than coming around here to make us feel good for a little while. That robin on the honeysuckle vine in Scottdale, reported by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Walls, for instance, and the mournful looking cardinal seen by L. G. Senta. I'm afraid they were not harbingers of spring but just as sadly fooled as the rest of us . . . Mrs. Mary Gray, of Walnut street, is more encouraging . . . she doesn't give up hope.

R. T. S.—If that's a secret you would not want to mention it, would you.

H. C. Hawk—It's all in fun anyway.

If someone has a conscience he will ease a heartache for a Brookline mother. Her purse was taken from the kitchen while she was in the laundry and that purse contained a black vanity which enclosed a picture and a lock of her son's hair and also his fountain pen. The baby's dead, you see—killed . . . He fell from a tree this summer. The mother says:

"Keep the money and the other articles in the purse, only send me back Bobbie's things."

Furnish Mouthwash and Gargle Users With Proof of Quality and Amazing Economy of Latest Product by Makers of VapoRub.

NEW BAN ON HALITOSIS

Does All an Oral Antiseptic Can and Should Do—At Half the Usual Price of Other Quality Antiseptics.

Local druggists are introducing a new antiseptic, made by the makers of Vicks VapoRub. It is called Vicks Voratone Antiseptic. It does everything that an oral antiseptic can and should do—and at half the usual price of other quality antiseptic mouth-washes and gargles.

Of course, the only real proof of the economy and quality of Vicks Antiseptic is actual use in your home. To furnish this proof, druggists everywhere are being supplied—below cost—with a special trial size bottle. It contains 2½ ounces—a 25c value. The price of this trial size is only 10c—while they last.

No extravagant claims are made for Vicks Antiseptic. It is simply the best oral antiseptic Vicks Chemists could produce—aided by the chemists, bacteriologists, and pharmacologists of their 16 allied organizations in America, England, and Germany.

Mild Enough, Strong Enough

These scientists examined the whole field of oral antiseptics. Some they found were too weak. A few were too strong for regular use in the mouth. Most were very good. But all were much too expensive.

So they produced a balanced antiseptic—mild enough to be used day in and day out without risk to delicate membranes; yet strong enough to do everything an oral antiseptic can and should do.

For All the Usual Uses

You can use Vicks Antiseptic in your customary way, for bad breath (halitosis); as a mouth-wash; as a gargle; as an antiseptic lotion for minor cuts and abrasions; and for all the other customary uses of an antiseptic of this type.

And Vicks Antiseptic has this additional unique advantage . . . born in a depression year, it is priced accordingly. The regular size is a large 10-ounce bottle—a usual 75c value—but is priced at only 35c.

Visited ...by her husband's WEEPING GHOST!

Lady Caillard, after a recent seance, asserted that spectral hands of a ghost manipulated the keys of a typewriter, the "Reflectograph." Then came a message from her husband's spectre.

A Titled Englishwoman Describes How She Gets Messages from Her Spouse's Spirit and Tells How the Spectre Kissed Her and Wept Hot Tears

LADY CAILLARD, widow of the late Sir Vincent Caillard, recently deceased British railway magnate, believes she has been in communication with her dead husband from the world beyond the grave.

So completely convinced is she that she has just published, at her own expense, a booklet setting forth her experiences with the spook of her deceased husband.

She asserts she has not only been able to see her husband as he was in the flesh, but also to feel the grasp of his hand. And most remarkable of all, the ghost kissed her during one of his visits—reports Lady Caillard—and two hot tears fell on her hand.

But that's only one astounding detail described by Her Ladyship. Several other startling experiences are related in her account of her husband's ghostly visits which appears among many more unusual features in next Sunday's American Weekly.

BUY AMERICAN, URGES LEADER OF WOMEN

Mrs. Mary T. Horan, president of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women, with a membership of 15,000 in Western Pennsylvania, today called upon the women of America to accept their responsibility and "Buy American." She said:

"I certainly believe in Buy America. The only difficulty is that it should have been started five years ago. Not that it is never too late to begin a good thing.

"We need such a thing now more than at any time in our history. And the women of America, particularly the wealthy women, must accept their responsibility and buy American-made goods. They must realize that they have to do everything reasonable to crush unemployment and give men jobs.

"I think every woman who understands what it means will buy American."

Explaining that the organization he represents, Hubbard & Co., manufacturers, has been fighting for several years to get Americans to buy American-made goods, Marshall Lasher, assistant manager of the electrical materials department, today plans to distribute several hundred Sun-Telegraph "Buy American" buttons among Hubbard employes and customers.

Senator Joseph G. Armstrong likewise plans to load his pockets with the buttons and distribute them to fellow political leaders and employes of the Carnegie Steel Company.

Twelve Pittsburgh girls, members of the chorus at the Variety Theater, have formed a Chorus Girls' Buy American Association, pledged themselves to use only American lipstick, cold cream and other cosmetics, and plan to persuade visiting acts to do the same. Betty Lee was named president and Anna Jones, secretary.

Flood's Hero

JOHN G. PARKE

Mr. Parke, chief engineer of the Pittsburgh Steel Company, the man who 43 years ago rode down the Conemaugh valley, warned the residents that the dam would break. That was in the famous Johnstown flood. Tomorrow he will be buried from his Donora home.

$30,000 Treasure Find Called Hoax

SALISBURY, Md., Jan. 31.—(INS.)—Faced by tax collectors and hearing scores of demands for monetary assistance, Vance Butler today broke down and told authorities his tale of finding a $30,000 treasure chest was a hoax concocted for advertising purposes. Learning that the federal government demanded $3,600 in income taxes on this sum, Butler said his tale of finding a chest of old gold and currency to be an utter fabrication.

Fly From Spokane To Wed in Sharon

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 31.—Sharon's "marrying 'squire" knows what it is to be famous. Miss Cecelia Olson and John McCombe, an aviator, both of Spokane, Wash., dropped in on him, and he united them in marriage.

They flew from Spokane to Cleveland last week and came here to be married to evade the Ohio five-day notification law. They plan to fly back to Washington.

Gets Auto License, Finds Car Stolen

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 31.—(AP.)—W. T. Bankston, of Covington, Ga., would have an automobile license if he had an automobile. He applied for a license yesterday, but forgot the motor number of his new car and stepped back to the street where it was parked to get the necessary information. He said on returning:

"I don't need the tag now. Somebody stole my car."

EMPLOYE WEDS RICH WIDOW

Town Clerk Ezra G. Noyes revealed the marriage was performed here January 26 by the Rev. W. H. Curtis, of Philips, Congregational pastor.

Van Aken, a native of Ithaca, N. Y., came here about nine years after his graduation from Wilton Academy and had been variously employed about the town at carpentry and odd jobs.

Several years ago he was employed by Mrs. Woodward as secretary to assist her in her supervising the care of the Woodward estate here and had remained in that capacity to the present.

'TOWN TOPICS' FIGURE SUICIDE

SUMMIT, N. J., Jan. 31.—(AP.)—George B. Holbert, 65, a former president of Town Topics magazine, died in the Overlook Hospital at midnight from a bullet wound which, police said, was self-inflicted.

A few minutes before Holbert was found lying with a bullet in his head in his home, he had been served with a bench warrant in connection with an indictment found against him by a New York grand jury, charging the misappropriation of $26,535 from a trust fund of which he was trustee.

FACTOR'S PAL 'TAKES RAP'

LONDON, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Harry Geen, charged with receiving £14,000 which he knew to have been fraudulently obtained in collusion with John (Jake the Barber) Factor, was convicted today.

In returning the verdict the jury found that Geen had been greatly under the influence of Factor.

The case was given to the jury late in the afternoon and after deliberating for some time they returned to the courtroom to inform Judge Whitely that they had been unable to reach a verdict. He sent them back with instructions that a verdict of some kind must be found.

Geen and Factor and several others were charged with having sold bogus stock promoted through their newspaper, the Broad Street Press. Factor was not on trial. The defense contended that he, as the "master mind," should be punished for the offense charged. Geen, his attorney said, was merely an underling who followed instructions.

Your Income Tax

Couples May Save By Filing Separate Returns

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

This is the eighth of a series of articles analyzing the Revenue Act of 1932 and discussing the problems of income taxpayers.

In many cases husbands and wives who both have incomes can make savings in their income taxes by filing separate returns instead of joint returns.

This is due to the fact that the total income of a husband and a wife is taken as a unit when a joint return is filed. In many cases this brings the income into higher tax and surtax brackets. On the other hand, with separate incomes reported, the individual incomes may not reach the higher tax brackets or the proportion in these higher brackets may be smaller.

In reporting separate returns, however, it must be remembered that the husband and wife must each report income actually received. For instance, a wife cannot report part of her husband's income as her own.

Some leeway is granted through the fact that either a husband or a wife may take the personal exemption of $2,500 or they may divide it between them in any convenient proportion. Credit for dependents may be taken by either but it cannot be divided.

If the combined taxable income of a husband and wife, after making all deductions, is less than $4,000 no saving will result from filing separate returns. If the total exceeds this amount, it usually is profitable to file separate returns.

As comparison of the taxes payable under a joint return and under separate returns of a typical husband and wife will be presented tomorrow.

WAR HERO SLAIN AS BETRAYER

BOSTON, Jan. 31.—(Universal.)—William J. Lewey, full-blooded Micmac Indian and World War hero of Lynn, was beaten to death with a hammer in a lonely section of the Nahant metropolitan district reservation last night in revenge for his alleged betrayal of a pretty young Connecticut girl by the girl's brother, William A. Hooper, 24, of Lynn, surrendered to police, giving a complete confession of the crime after leading them to where Lewey's body lay.

Hooper's young sister, Mary, 17, alleged victim of Lewey's betrayal, is at a Lynn hospital, according to police, about to become a mother.

'Largest Man' Near Death; Weighs 406

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—(INS.)—The "largest man in the world" was near death today. John Aasen, 35, 9-foot circus and film giant, weight 406 pounds, was in a hospital with a brain tumor.

BIG SUIT LISTED AGAINST FORD

Scheduled for trial at the present special session of the Federal District Court is the suit for $18,000,000 brought by the late Arthur L. Banker East End automobile pioneer, against the Ford Motor Company, of Detroit, alleging infringement of an automobile windshield patent. The suit was filed by Banker in October, 1931.

Following the death of Banker, March 30, 1932, his widow, Mrs. May Kable Banker, executrix of his estate, entered the case as a party plaintiff, for the purpose of prosecution of the action.

Banker, in his statement of claim, alleged that Henry Ford came here in 1913 and inspected the patent, and later it was installed on Ford cars.

Bonding Company Sued by Gordon

William D. Gordon, secretary of banking in charge of the closed Citizens Trust Company of Bellevue, has filed suit against the American Surety Company of New York to recover $50,000 on bonds. It is alleged that the company became surety on two bonds for $25,000 each to guarantee the honesty of employes and that although demand has been made for the money, none has been paid. Ansley D. Smith's name is the only one mentioned in the suit.

Auto Kills Bellevue Man on Boulevard

W. L. Alexander, 69, of 176 Kendall avenue, Bellevue, was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile driven by Albert E. Atwell, of Emsworth, in the Ohio River boulevard near his home, according to a morgue report.

ILLUSION:

One of Napoleon's soldiers rose to fame on the "Burning Oven" trick. A roaring fire was built in an oven . . . the temperature rose to 600° F. Into the oven walked the "fire king," M. Chabert, carrying several raw steaks. A few minutes later the doors were flung wide and out he stepped . . . safe and sound . . . with the steaks thoroughly cooked.

EXPLANATION:

Heat rises. When Chabert entered the oven he hung the steaks above the fire, in the center of the oven, then dropped to the floor at the side, covering his head with a hood made from his shirt. He breathed through small air holes in the floor. When the steaks were cooked he threw back the hood, grabbed the steaks, and stepped out in triumph.

It's fun to be fooled— ...it's more fun to KNOW

"The Burning Oven" is an old illusion which has played a leading rôle in cigarette advertising. Its modern name is "Heat Treatment."

EXPLANATION: All cigarette manufacturers use the heat-treating process.

Harsh, raw tobaccos require intensive processing under high temperatures. The more expensive tobaccos, which are naturally mild, call for only a moderate application of heat.

The first Camel cigarette was manufactured under the heat-treating process. Every one of the billions of Camels produced since has received the necessary heat treatment. But remember that heat treatment never makes cheap, inferior tobacco good.

It is not in heat treatments, but in more costly tobaccos and matchless blending, that Camels find their appealing mildness and flavor.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

More costly tobaccos and a matchless blend tell the story of Camel leadership in public confidence.

$22,000 AWARD WON FOR LAND

Clara Berkbichler was awarded a verdict of $22,000 in Common Pleas Court in her suit against Ben Avon Borough for property taken in Spruce street for the construction of the Ohio River boulevard.

The property, alleged to have been left inaccessable, included 1,900 square feet of land, frame office building and other equipment used in conducting a coal, coke and building material business. The plaintiff, allowed no damages by the viewers, sued for $175,000.

GROUP SURVEYS LANDMARKS

A study of historical architecture in Western Pennsylvania is being made by the Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Institute of Architects in order to obtain a permanent record of fast-disappearing landmarks.

All types of structures and buildings from the earliest settlement until 1860 will be included in the survey. The study is restricted to the years before 1860 because this period marks the beginning of the disappearance of buildings of the Colonial and Greek styles.

The public will be asked to aid in the locating of representative types of early American architecture.

Dog Hunting Bone Bares Master's Buried Hoard

EMPIRE, Ore., Jan. 31.—Andy Kelley buried his $1,400 cash savings in a glass jar alongside his house to foil thieves while he was away on a trip.

Kelley's dog thought his master had buried a bone. He dug up the "treasure." Kelley came home several days later to find his money intact, but lying in the yard in sight of every passerby.

How are you getting along on Cipher No. 50? Is it proving hard for you? Well, it certainly is a tough one. Here is what Thomas E. Bambrey, who contributed it, says:

"Cipher No. 35 is, I consider, the toughest one you published as yet, so I am sending one below I hope will prove equally as hard."

Maybe a little tip will help. This is a substitution cipher using five numerical alphabets. That should get you started on the right track.

SENATE ACTION ON JUDGES' PAY CUT DELAYED

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Consideration of the Reed bill making a flat 15 per cent cut in the salaries of all judges was deferred in the Senate today by a vote of 28 to 15.

Senator Kraus, Philadelphia, organization Republican, asked that the bill go over in order, but was opposed by Salus, Philadelphia, organization Republican, and Buckman, Bucks, administration floor leader. Kraus then moved to postpone final action. In a roll call on the latter motion, Harris and Mansfield, Allegheny, opposed it, and Brandt, Coyne and Einstein, Allegheny, voted to postpone action.

Both House and Senate recessed around noon until 4:30 p. m. to permit the House to hold its hearing on proposals to modify the Blue Laws.

The Coyne bill authorizing nonprofit making corporations to issue capital stock in an amount not exceeding $500 was reported for passage by the Judiciary General Committee.

MOTOR FUND SETBACK

Diversion of motor fund receipts to the general uses of the state received its initial setback of the session today. The House Highways Committee killed the bills sponsored by Representative Morris J. Root, Philadelphia, to abolish the motor fund.

The committee sent to subcommittees bills to increase from one-half to one and a half cents the proportion of the gasoline tax returnable to counties and to reduce auto operators license fees fro $2 to $1.

The committee reported for passage the McClure Senate bill under which the state would assume the entire cost of land damages in highway relocations. The McClure bill is the first passed by either branch and reported for passage in the other.

Requirements for incorporation of a business firm are broadened by the business corporation law code introduced today. Drafted by the Department of Justice, the code modifies the act of 1874 by permiting incorporation for any lawful purpose or purposes.

Under the present act, such a corporation may only be formed for a single purpose. Officials of the department said that the present act "has hampered the creation of useful domestic corporations, because the purpose could not be brought within the terms of the act."

The Legislature prepared for its study of economy and appropriations when the House appropriations committee organized with a decision to form a sub-committee to meet with a special group from the Senate to study bills that ask for money. Representative Joseph G. Steedle, Allegheny, chairman, said the sub-committee will be named later in the day and that no time will be lost.

FIRST BILL BEATEN

The Senate defeated its first bill, giving only 21 votes (five short of the constitutional majority required for passage), to the Woodward dmeasure, creating the position of budget clerk in the legislative reference bureau at a salary of $7,500. Administration forces opposed the bill on the grounds that the Legislature can not create more jobs if it is endeavoring to economize.

The Senate unanimously approved the Ziesenheim (Erie) bill permitting judges to set dates for constables' returns in all counties. It was sent to the House for approval. The Senate also passed and sent to the House the Reed bill permitting county courts to postpone purchase of voting machines on petition of 25 voters.

The Senate unanimously adopted the Blumberg (House) resolution requesting Gov. Pinchot to furnish data on unemployment relief to the Legislature by February 15.

Abolition of the per capita school tax was advocated in a bill of Representative William Lane, Washington. The bill applies to second, third and fourth class districts.

JURY TRIALS WAIVED

Representative Morton Witkin, Philadelphia, introduced a bill waiving jury trials on criminal offenses and permitting judges to decide guilt or innocence of indicted persons on a plea of "issue."

House bills introduced last night included:

Representative Metzler, Allegheny, appropriating $200,000 to St. Francis Hospital, Pittsburgh.

Representative Spann, Allegheny, appropriating $10,000 to Belvedere General Hospital, Pittsburgh, and $80,000 to the Pittsburgh Hospital Association.

Representative Brown, Allegheny, appropriating $35,000 to the Allegheny Valley Hospital, Tarentum.

Representative Steedle, Allegheny, regulating beauty specialists, and registration of such persons through the Department of Public Instruction, license fees range from $5 to $50, the maximum sum for those who conduct schools in beauty culture.

In the Senate, bills offered last night included:

Senator Coyne, Allegheny, providing for district attorney of Allegheny County naming fire marshal's salary to be $4,000 and the salaries of the assistants to be set by the board. The office of fire marshal as now constituted would be abolished.

Vare Senators Shift On Primary Repeal

without the assistance of Philadelphia senators. This assistance was not available this morning, former Senator William S. Vare having insisted that the bill be amended to give Philadelphia a larger number of delegates in a nominating convention than are provided in the measure as it stands.

Today's peaceful procedure was in contrast to a sharp conflict last night on the Harris motion, when, by a vote of 29 to 20, the Senate voted to keep the bill on the calendar. In this vote six Philadelphia Senators voted with the state organization, but out of this vote developed a fog of uncertainty as to Vare's real sentiments, and at a conference between a dozen Senators and State Chairman Edward Martin, which lasted until after midnight, today's delay was agreed upon.

SALUS PLANS REVOLT

Senator Samuel Salus, of Philadelphia, long an organization leader, voted with Harris and other independents last night, adding to the confusion which surrounds the attitude of the Philadelphia delegation on this and many other subjects. Salus insisted that he had directed orders from Vare to vote to recommit the bill last night.

Despite this, James M. Hazlett, Republican city chairman in Philadelphia, was giving orders to keep the bill on the calendar, also professing to have instructions from Vare. Salus and Hazlett had a heated controversy after last night's vote, and this morning Salus was prepared to vote against the bill.

If the bill had come to a vote today, Harris and Senator William D. Mansfield, of McKeesport, were prepared to attack the convention system, raking up some scandals of political history touching on the old system of nominating candidates.

SEEKS MORE POWER

Vare is understood to insist on amendments giving Philadelphia a voice in conventions comparable to the power of the 225,000 vote majority the eastern city can marshal in a primary for the candidate of its selection. This demand has met with some objection from rural members, and the future of the bill under these amendments is in doubt.

Twenty-six votes are required to pass a bill in the Senate. Last night the organization had three more than a majority. Even if the bill does pass the Senate, it is evident that the organization does not control 34 votes, the number needed to pass it over a gubernatorial vote. There is no doubt but that Governor Pinchot will veto the measure if it struggles through Senate and House.

Even passage in the House is doubtful in view of the decision of Democrats to stick to the primary system.

ATTACKS PRIMARY

Senator Prince, in a speech last night, called the primary a combination of racket and auction, but the enlivening spot of debate was an interchange between Harris and Chapman. The latter asked the Pittsburgh senator if in the special session last summer, when a similar bill was up, if Harris had not said the primary was a bad thing.

Harris replied:

"The best answer to that is that I spoke and voted against the repealer."

Chapman:

"Didn't some lobbyists then talk to you, and didn't you bring them to my desk and ask me to drop the bill?"

Harris:

"If you mean members of the League of Women Voters, I certainly did introduce them to you. That group of estimable women has the same right to representation here as the public utilities."

Senator Herman P. Brandt joined last night with Harris and Mansfield in voting to recommit the bill to committee. Senators Joseph G. Armstrong, Morris Einstein and James J. Coyne voted to keep the measure on the calendar.

PLEA FOR DRY REPEAL URGED

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—In a resolution now before the House, Representative John J. Kane, of Pittsburgh, asks Congress to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment, heeding "the clearly expressed will of the people." The resolution is in the House Law and Order Committee, and probably will stay there for some time, the time of the committee being taken up in consideration of blue law legislation.

The preamble of Kane's resolution declares:

"More than 12 years of trial have demonstrated the unworkability of national prohibition, thereby confirming the universal experience of mankind that all governmental functions must find their sanction in the popular will and approval.

"At the November election, the American people, by unprecedented pluralities, registered an unmistakable protest against the present system of national prohibition and joined the demand for immediate repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

It adds that "further delay in remedial measures can result only in further confusion of political issues, hinder economic recovery, break down all party responsibility and foster distrust in our representative form of government."

REPEAL NEEDED, CHIEFS SAY

Public Safety Director James M. Clark, who returned today from New York, where he attended a meeting of the International Police Commissioners' Association, said most police chiefs were of the belief that the legalization of the sale of beer would have little or no effect on crime.

Most of the police authorities said legalizing beer would not stamp out the racketeering, rum-running and gang wars that developed after the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment. They agreed, with few exceptions, that only flat repeal could reduce crime appreciably.

Said Clark:

"Prohibition has made us a nation of hard liquor drinkers. I do not believe legalization of beer can solve the problem. We still will have speakeasies, racketeers and even beer runners.

"The liquor interests will not surrender their beer trade without a struggle. I am for the complete repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment."

Capital Punishment Repealer Proposed

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Conviction of murder in the first degree is limited to life imprisonment under a bill introduced by Representative Howard M. Long, Philadelphia.

The act would not apply to persons on crimes committed before its enactment.

Rail Strike Halts All Ulster Trains

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Jan. 31.—(INS.)—Five thousand railway employes went on strike today as a protest against a 10 per cent wage cut.

The strike was fully effective, and only one train, manned by volunteer engineers, was able to leave the city.

COUNTY PAY CUT BILL OFFERED BY MANSFIELD

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—Senator William D. Mansfield today introduced in the Senate a bill by which public officials whose salaries are fixed by statute may take a pay cut of 15 per cent voluntary return the money to the public treasury, and forego any possible future surcharges or efforts to recover later the money they have surrendered.

The bill is interpreted as an intention by the Commissioners of Allegheny County to take a 15 per cent wage cut in the making of the county budget, together with a request that other county officials shall take a reduction in the same amount. Heretofore some county officials have asserted that, even should they accept a voluntary reduction in their statutory salaries, they or their heirs might later surcharge the county treasury for the amount surrendered.

The Mansfield bill, after declaring for a 15 per cent cut in county salaries, says:

"This act shall not be construed as reducing the salary or compensation of any officer during the term for which he was elected or appointed, but the County Commissioners are hereby authorized to approve and pay a reduced compensation to any public officer who shall voluntarily agree to accept the reduction provided for by this act, and to pay such amount thus realized into the county treasury."

Under this provision it would be embarrassing to any county officer to refuse to accept the reduction, provided it was taken by other officials.

Life for Kidnapers Proposed in Bill

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Life imprisonment for kidnapers is proposed in a bill introduced last night in the House. The present maximum is 25 years.

Sponsored by Representative J. Gordon Mason, Luzerne, the measure would permit the court to sentence for life "or any number of years" all persons convicted either of actual kidnaping or of concealing the victims.

STATE CHARITY SYSTEM HELD 'ARCHAIC'

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Members of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania today appealed to Gov. Pinchot and the Legislature to modernize the state's poor relief system and to grant adequate appropriations to the Mothers' Assistance Fund and to the building program for state mental institutions.

Speaking at the association's luncheon, Charles Denby, Jr., of Philadelphia, urged a more modern and humane system of poor relief.

He said that even after the return of relative prosperity there will be a "larger body of unemployed than ever before."

Characterizing the present system of poor relief as "archaic," he said the association urges:

1—Establishment of a county unit system to reduce the 425 districts to 67;

2—Appointment in each county of a qualified welfare director, responsible to the county commissioners but acting under the supervision and with the advice of a board of citizens interested in welfare matters and acting without pay;

3—Replacement of "the present wasteful method of collecting poor taxes by a system in which they will be collected at the same time and in the same manner as are other county taxes."

Mrs. Worthington Scranton of Scranton, pleaded for an increase to the mothers' assistance fund sufficient to care for 11,090 eligible families, of which 2,626 now are on the waiting list.

Directors of the association reelected Dr. Charles H. Frazier of Philadelphia, as president.

Other officers, all reelected, include: Acting President, and Chairman of the executive committee, Stanley Bright of Reading; honorary vice-presidents, Justice Owen J. Roberts of the United States Supreme Court and Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., of Pittsburgh; vice presidents, Horace Forbes Baker of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Edward W. Biddle of Carlisle.

Directors, all reelected, include M. W. Acheson, Jr., Horace Forbes Baker, F. J. Chesterman, Frank J. Harris and Irvin F. Lehman, all of Pittsburgh, and John G. Curtis, Mrs. Hugh Neely Fleming and Mrs. William Spencer, all of Erie.

'Third Degree' Hit In Reetenwald Bill

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—The right of persons placed under arrest to communicate with an attorney or other person to arrange bail is provided in a bill introduced last night by Representative Joseph A. Restenwald, Allegheny. The bill includes persons arrested with or without a warrant.

Officials violating the act would be subject to a fine of $500 and forfeit his office.

Bill to Photograph Car Drivers Offered

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—All automobile operators will be photographed if Representative McGregor, Armstrong, sells his idea to the Legislature. By a bill submitted to the House last night, McGregor would require every driver's license to carry a photograph, an inch and a half high, of the operator.

Hit that COLD a Knock-Out Blow!

Don't Merely Tap It!

Many cold remedies merely pat a cold. They don't "put it out for keeps." That's why colds keep coming back and why they often develop into something serious. Many a case of Influenza has started with a "slight" cold.

A cold calls for a COLD remedy and nothing less. Preparations good for half a dozen things besides colds can't be equally effective for colds. Many of these preparations actually make a cold more difficult of relief because they are constipating and also make the system acid.

An Internal Infection Calls for Internal Treatment

A cold calls for internal treatment because a cold is an internal infection. Local or outside applications only allay a few of the symptoms and do not reach the real seat of the trouble.

At the first sign of a cold you can do nothing wiser than take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine soon puts an end to a cold because it does the four things necessary. First of all, it opens the bowels. Second, it kills the cold germs and fever in the system. Third, it relieves the headache and grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

No Penalty!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine may be safely taken by young and old. It contains nothing harmful and may be taken with impunity whether you are going to stay indoors or go out. For more than forty years Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Your doctor couldn't write a better prescription if he wanted to.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine now comes in two sizes—30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and look for the initials L B Q stamped on every tablet. Reliable dealers will not try to sell you a substitute.

NOTE: During Epidemics a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine will do much to fortify your system against infection.

COUNTY SPENT 20 MILLIONS LAST YEAR

Total county expenditures from current funds in 1932 totaled $20,823,617, according to the figures in the annual report of County Controller Robert G. Woodside, filed today with the prothonotary.

An analysis of the county's total receipts shows it dipped heavily into its cash balance last year to meet expenditures.

Total revenues to be credited to the current funds amounted to $18,183,958. In addition to this, the county had a cash balance at the beginning of 1932 of $1,873,642, of which more than $1,200,000 was used during the year, according to an explanation by the Controller's office.

REVENUE ITEMS

Other revenue items last year included $550,000 due from the sinking fund and $425,848.06 which represented remnants of bond issues that were turned back into current fund.

The county, road and park funds showed cash balances at the beginning of 1933, but there was a deficit of $487,973 in the debt fund, if a loan of $1,000,000 is taken into consideration. The real cash balance carried into 1933, after deducting the loan, is $673,791.

Total County taxes outstanding at the end of 1932, including real estate, personal property and poll taxes, amounted to $8,021,383. Of this amount, $4,545,264 was from the 1932 levy, $2,041,160 from 1931, and $1,434,958 from 1930.

CUT EXPENDITURES

The county reduced its expenditures from the previous year by approximately $1,290,000.

The total of all county receipts, including bond and current funds for 1932 was $37,365,833 which compares with total current and bond fund expendtiures of $27,130,657, leaving a total balance in the treasury in bond and current funds of $10,235,175.

The Directors of the Poor last year expended $1,585,000, according to the Controller's report. This was slightly less than the amount of the poor tax collected, the balance being carried over in a $44,269 surplus.

The Controller reported the commissioners' unimpared borrowing power without the consent of the electors at $12,746,953 and the total unimpaired borrowing power of the county with the consent of the electors at $67,272,799. The county's gross debt is $114,544,291.

HALL SITE PLEA AMENDED

Permission has been granted the County Commissioners by Common Pleas Court to amend their pleadings, in the mandamus proceedings brought against them by the Schenley Farms Company to compel the payment of $1,000,000 for the Town Hall site.

Attorney O. K. Eaton, special counsel for the Commissioners, appeared before Judges James R. Macfarlane, James H. Gray and Thomas M. Marshall last week and argued for the admission. He said the Controller has the right and duty to audit the claim of the Schenley Farms Company.

The amendment makes the additional pleadings a part of the original proceeding which is yet to be disposed of by the court. Eaton maintained that the Schenley Farms Company has made no claim of the Controller to pay the money.

POSTAL BRANCH 25 YEARS OLD

Tomorrow will be the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Uptown station of the Pittsburgh Postoffice, 816 Fifth avenue. Eight of the original personnel of 48 are still attached to the station, established during the administration of the late Maj. W. H. Davis as Pittsburgh postmaster. The late Stephen W. Connelly was the first station superintendent.

The station business, accommodating 125,000 people between Bigelow boulevard and the Boulevard of the Allies, from the downtown district to Oakland, exceeds that of many cities. Maurice Teplitz is superintendent.

Receipts of the station for the first three months, a quarter of century ago, were $7,923.40. During the peak of its career the receipts were in excess of $82,000 a quarter. Postal savings transactions aggregated over $300,000 annually and the money order business totals approximately $250,000 a year.

When the main postoffice is transferred to the new Federal Building the Uptown station will be abandoned, according to present plans.

JOBLESS TO GET RECREATION

A movement to provide evening recreation for unemployed men and women has been started by the Federation of Social Agencies and the recreation committee of the Community Council. A group of 250 trained supervisors has been assigned to neighborhood centers, many of which will be opened for the first time.

The movement is aimed to avert the demoralization of 25,000 families supported by relief agencies and 50,000 others estimated to have no margin for recreation after purchasing necessities of life.

The executive committee of the council is composed of F. J. Chesterman and W. G. Marshall, of the Allegheny County Emergency Association; M. W. Acheson, Jr., and Leo Griffith, of the Federation; R. Templeton Smith and Horace F. Baker, of the Welfare Fund, Thomas E. Doyle and Dr. J. Warren Madden.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Old Health Bug-a-boos Die Slowly

Nothing is more interesting than to read about superstitions regarding health some of our ancestors believed in. Their methods of treatment seem pretty crude in this day of advanced ideas.

Dr. Copeland

The victim of a fever was told this: "Secure the hearts of three pickerel, keep about an hour in sharp vinegar and eat raw. For a three-day fever try your best to have the patient swallow a fresh pickerel heart at one gulp; if impossible, get it into him as best you can."

The following is advice which might be difficult to follow in days of prohibition: "For a weak heart, or palpitation of the heart, or any heart trouble, nothing is better than good wine, quantities of it frequently resorted to. A few coins of fine gold placed in the wine vessel will add to the wine's effectiveness."

Science has made tremendous strides in the treatment of physical disorders. But I am sorry to say many superstitions still persist.

For example, our grandparents believed that the night air was detrimental to health. The windows were securely closed at night and every effort made to prevent fresh air from entering the house. There are many persons who fear the night air and keep the windows closed while they sleep.

Young mothers hestiate to wash the scales and crusts from the baby's head. This hesitancy is founded on an old superstition that if the baby's head is washed it will be weakened and its growth stunted. Of course this is foolish. Nothing is more important than cleanliness.

Another superstition that has led to the loss of hearing in many children is the deliberate neglect of a running ear. The mother has been taught to believe that it is good for the child to have the poison leave the system in this way. As a matter of fact, a running ear may lead to loss of hearing, mastoid disease.

Scientists have repeatedly proved that rickets is a constitutional disease of childhood caused by lack of proper food and sunlight. It is prevented when the child receives adequate supply of sunlight and cod liver oil.

Fortunately, most persons are impressed by the successful campaign science is making against disease. Science is fighting disease and undertaking to prevent disease. Cure and prevention of disease cannot be accomplished by dependence on superstition. There must be a foundation of firm, reliable and proven facts. Trust to your good doctor and not to the idle talk of olden days.

Best Remedy is Made At Home

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Democrats' Support Of Primary Explained

—By MARK SHIELDS—

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—Decision of the Democrats in the Legislature to oppose repeal of the direct primary act is interpreted in Harrisburg as the first fruit of a working arrangement perfected by President-elect Roosevelt and Gov. Pinchot at their meeting in Hyde Park early this month.

Mr. Shields

The attitude of seven Allegheny County members of the House, together with the statements of Joseph F. Guffey and David L. Lawrence, Allegheny County Democratic chairman, favoring retention of the primary, appears to have become a statewide policy. That was evident last night when the seven Democrats of the Senate moved to recommit the Prince-Chapman bill, which re-establishes the convention system of nominating candidates for public office.

That the Roosevelt-Pinchot conference had something to do with this action is strengthened because of earlier impressions the Democrats had given that they would welcome the return of the convention. Republican organization leaders were amazed at what they called a switch.

Indeed, some Democrats had contended as late as last Saturday morning that Guffey and Lawrence actually were against the primary, but their information seems either to have been inaccurate, or premature. At any rate, the Republican organization heads now are convinced they can expect assistance only from Democrats who merely wear the label as a disguise, who are really Republicans, but who by fortuitous circumstances got Democratic nominations in the primary last year.

* * *

Pinchot-Democrat Alliance Predicted

Regulars see further than the mere primary bill, in discussing the results of the Roosevelt-Pinchot conference. They are fearful that out of it, and from the future developments of the legislative session, may come a fusion movement in the general election of next year, with Pinchot as a candidate for the U. S. Senate and a Democrat as a candidate for Governor.

There is no visible basis for this conclusion at the moment. It appears to have no firmer foundation than the trepidation with which the Republican organization faces the future, completely routed on its first major piece of legislation.

True, the organization was able last night to muster 29 votes to save the primary repealer from recommittal, when Senators Harris and Mansfield, of Allegheny, sought that action. Another organization vote is available through Senator Chauncey Parkinson, of Greene County, who was not present on the roll call.

But the organization realized not only that the bill could not be passed over a certain Pinchot veto, but that its chances in the House today are dubious. This is a sad state of affairs for a political faction able to completely dominate both branches in the organization early this month, to name committees, and to assume that everything was well in hand.

For months this primary bill has been under the care of able political physicians. The patient was thought to be in robust health and able to stand any punishment. But first exposure was almost fatal, and another such trial of strength is apt to bring about collapse.

* * *

Phila. Leaders Show Confusion

Nothing could more clearly have demonstrated the confusion in Philadelphia than the vote last night. Republican City Chairman Hazlett told the Philadelphia Senators that William S. Vare, whose attitude had been a subject of indecision, wished the primary repealer passed. Yet Senator Samuel Salus, an organization Senator of years' service, insisted he had talked to Vare late in the afternoon, and added that "if I understand the English language, Bill said he was against this bill."

And Salus voted his understanding of the English language. The six other Philadelphia Senators who follow instructions voted the opposite way, though one of them, Trainer, had been the chief agent last week in the movement to delay the bill, holding it did not apportion Philadelphia as much say in the nomination of candidates as under the primary system.

The enthusiasm of Hazlett for the bill is understandable. He has had a working agreement with State Chairman Edward Martin ever since the Chicago convention, when he stood with the state chairman on an uncertain dry policy while Vare in Atlantic City was insisting that the Philadelphia delegates declare for a definite plank on repeal and modification.

Unquestionably the convention system of making nominations would be more helpful to Gen. Martin than the primary, should Martin next year enter the field as a candidate for the Republican Gubernatorial nomination. It is significant that principal agitation for repeal of the primary comes from Senators who have been closest to Gen. Martin in the past few years.

In the western and northern-tier counties the Martin Senators stood for a change, and it was from this group that most of those were drawn who conferred with Martin until after midnight last night, disconcerted at the narrow margin of their victory on a test vote, and unsettled as to subsequent strategy.

And if they run true to form, they will remain unsettled.

Constructive Economy Advocated by Coolidge For National Progress

(From "The Autobiography of Calvin Coolidge.")

Where succession to the highest office in the land is by inheritance or appointment, no doubt there have been kings who have participated in the induction of their sons into their office, but in republics where the succession comes by an election I do not know of any other case in history where a father has administered to his son the qualifying oath of office which made him the chief magistrate of a nation. It seemed a simple and natural thing to do at the time, but I can now realize something of the dramatic force of the event.

This room was one which was already filled with sacred memories for me. In it my sister and my stepmother passed their last hours. It was associated with my boyhood recollections of my own mother, who sat and reclined there during her long invalid years, though she passed away in an adjoining room where my father was to follow her within three years from this eventful night.

When I started for Washington that morning I turned aside from the main road to make a short devotional visit to the grave of my mother. It had been a comfort to me during my boyhood when I was troubled to be near her last resting place, even in the dead of night. Some way, that morning, she seemed very near to me.

A telegram was sent to my pastor, Dr. Jason Noble Pierce, to meet me on my arrival at Washington that evening, which he did.

I found the Cabinet mostly scattered. Some members had been with the late President and some were in Europe. The Secretary of State, Mr. Hughes, and myself, at once began the preparation of plans for the funeral.

I issued the usual proclamation.

The Washington services were held in the rotunda of the Capitol, followed by a simple service and interment at Marion, O., which I attended with the Cabinet and a large number of officers of the government.

The nation was grief-stricken. Especially noticeable was the deep sympathy every one felt for Mrs. Harding. Through all this distressing period her bearing won universal commendation. Her attitude of sympathy and affection towards Mrs. Coolidge and myself was an especial consolation to us.

Joins Church

The first Sunday after reaching Washington we attended services, as we were accustomed to do, at the First Congregational Church. Although I had been rather constant in my attendance, I had never joined the church.

While there had been religious services, there was no organized church society near my boyhood home. Among other things, I had some fear as to my ability to set that example which I always felt ought to denote the life of a church member. I am inclined to think now that this was a counsel of darkness.

This first service happened to come on communion day. Our pastor, Dr. Pierce, occupied the pulpit, and, as he can under the practice of the Congregational Church, and always does, because of his own very tolerant attitude, he invited all those who believed in the Christian faith, whether church members or not, to join in partaking of the communion.

For the first time I accepted this invitation, which I later learned he had observed, and in a few days without any intimation to me that it was to be done, considering this to be a sufficient public profession of my faith, the church voted me into its membership.

This declaration of their belief in me was a great satisfaction.

Had I been approached in the usual way to join the church after I became President, I should have feared that such action might appear to be a pose, and should have hesitated to accept. From what might have been a misguided conception I was thus saved by some influence which I had not anticipated.

But if I had not voluntarily gone to church and partaken of communion, this blessing would not have come to me.

Fate bestows its rewards on those who put themselves in the proper attitude to receive them.

Years of Activity

During my service in Washington I had seen a large amount of government business. Peace had been made with the Central Powers, the tariff revised, the budget system adopted, taxation reduced, large payments made on the national debt, the Veterans' Bureau organized, important farm legislation passed, public expenditures greatly decreased, the differences with Colombia of 20 years' standing composed, and the Washington conference

MANSFIELD HITS AT 'BLIND MEN'

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—Allegheny County's quadrennial game of blind man's buff, the report of the constables, may become a thing of the past if the bill of Senator Joseph R. Ziesenheim, of Erie County, is passed as amended in the Senate last night by Senator William D. Mansfield.

Originally the bill applied only to constables in counties of the fourth class. Mansfield, however, amended the measure to make it apply to constables in all counties, and the changes were adopted, the Senate apparently being aware of the farce of constables appearing and declaring that things were sweet and pure in their districts even though the judge of quarter sessions court might have opposite information.

Mansfield introduced the amendment as an economy measure rather than in an effort to save the constables from embarrassment. He estimated that elimination of the quarterly reports would save the County of Allegheny $4,500 a year.

Coincident with Mansfield's action was a bill by Representative Thomas Weidemann of Delaware, putting the hobbles on rovin' constables. Under present law a constable from McKees Rocks can serve warrants in McKeesport. The Weidemann bill would make service of a warrant or other legal process outside a constable's own district a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of $300, 60 days imprisonment, or both. Constables also are required to reside in the district from which they are elected.

$328,137 ASKED OF SCHOOLEY BY CITY

Claim Statement May Become Judgment; Shortages Listed

Statements of the city's account against Roy D. Schooley, former City Treasurer and Delinquent Tax Collector, totaling $328,137, have been filed with the Prothonotary by Assistant City Solicitor Thomas M. Benner.

The statement of the city's claim is a lien against Schooley in its present form, and, if not contested, will become a judgment as soon as final legal steps are taken.

KERR SHOWN "BUTTER"

It was in connection with an unsecured deposit in the Franklin Savings and Trust Company included in the account that Controller Kerr investigated and was shown a package of bonds by Schooley's assistant, Arthur Burgoyne. As he showed the bonds, Burgoyne is said to have remarked:

"The butter's in the cooler, Controller."

A short time later both Burgoyne and the bonds were missing and Burgoyne now awaits trial on charges of embezzlement, fraudulent conversion and misdemeanor.

Schooley, who has been in ill health, also has been indicted on embezzlement charges.

Of the account, $198,490 is listed as shortage in the office of delinquent tax collector, in which Schooley was bonded for $50,000. A $129,647 shortage is listed in his accounts as City Treasurer and his bond there is $100,000.

CAR RECEIVERS DISCHARGED

The Pressed Steel Car Company, outstanding builder of railroad cars in this district, was saved from receivership today when the Chancery Court at Trenton, N. J., discharged receivers appointed for the company by the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals. The court had previously ordered the receivers not to take over the company's affairs until a final ruling was made.

The company still has other receivership actions pending in courts in New Jersey and in this city.

Officials of the company are attempting to persuade holders of bonds which matured on January 1 agree to a settlement of part cash and part new securities. The maturity of $3,600,000 precipitated the financial troubles of the corporation.

Raiders Seize 'Red' Propaganda in W.Va.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Raiding a private home home early today—the second raid within a few hours—police seized what they described as "Communistic literature" and detained four persons for questioning.

A few hours before officers entered the house and confiscated a quantity of alleged beer. Those held are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Requilvz, Grace Williams and Jack Robinson, a Negro.

A Big Job: Theater Foyer Mural

MISS MIRIAM WALD

MISS GLADYS SILVERBERG SAM STERN

Young Painter Works In Penthouse Here

Makes Large Mural Decorations For Theater

By PENELOPE REDD

Miss Redd

Stern's project is designed to articulate the joyous rhythms of music and of the dance. To maintain the momentum of his idea, he has drawn directly on his canvas instead of following the customary routine of enlarging from sketch to cartoon, and then transferring the cartoon to the canvas. This initial spontaneity will be reinforced by Stern's plan to keep his figures in low relief almost as a pattern instead of organizing a formalized composition by modeling in the round.

In all of the canvases, the dominant unity of the swaying figures of dancers chanteuses, and musical performers, will be complemented by the minor unity of the static mass of faces of the audience suggested above the curving balcony.

For color, he plans an ensemble of sensuous but not cloying warmth with resonant copper for the important masses, relieved by blue-green and vermillion to forestall monotony. If Mr. Stern's first venture in wall decoration approximates his successful conclusions in other mediums, a new mural paint will be launched.

CITY TO 'ELECT' MOVIE STARS

The two improved voting machines which County Commissioner C. C. McGovern has termed as near "fool-proof and thief-proof" as is humanly possible, will be placed on view tomorrow for a 30-day trial period. The public has been invited to try the machines.

They will be put up in the lobby of the City-County Building tomorrow, one adjusted for the primaries and the other for the general election. Names of movie stars will appear on sample ballots. Elections Bureau employes will answer questions and receive suggestions.

Two Bandits Loot Squirrel Hill Store

Two bandits rifled the cash register in a chain store at 2381 Beechwood boulevard of $25 after threatening A. E. Cyphers, of 7815 Kelly street, the manager, with revolvers last night. They escaped in an automobile driven by an accomplice.

Bees Swarming For Patronage Milk and Honey

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

The first job in economic reconstruction will be to empty the swivel chairs and paint new American history on the glass doors.

The boys who guessed wrong in the Washington sweepstakes are marching out without benefit of referendum and recall.

It means the next administration will be Jeffersonian in principles and Jacksonian in salaries. The plagues of drought, grasshoppers and minorities are over.

For the next four years the land will be flowing with patronage milk and government honey. The writer has no kick coming. Mr. Farley has offered him his old post as commissioner of detours on the Alaskan Peninsula.

Greensburg Officer, Hurt in Crash, Dies

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 31.—Patrolman Clyde E. Murtland, 30, injured when his motorcycle collided with a truck, died last night. Murtland who was widely known for his friendliness to school children, recovered from a fractured skull suffered in a similar accident last year.

DOCTOR QUOTES LAD'S STORY OF ACCIDENT

Testifies After Three Witnesses Admit Lying on Stand

Evidence to sustain the "Munhall insurance plot" defense claim that Steve Allas, 12, was hurt in a football game and died of a head injury today was introduced to offset the surprise retraction of witnesses recalled by the commonwealth.

Dr. Charles C. Huff, 70, of Homestead, family physician for both defendants, Mrs. Mary Chalfa and Mrs. Anna Allas, stepmother of the dead boy, testified he had attended Steve. The witness amended the certificate cause of death which had given cerebral embolism. He testified the boy died from inflamation of the membrane covering the brain and caused by a concussion.

REPEATS BOY'S WORDS

Admitting there was no sign of external injury, Dr. Huff said he found there was head trouble. Defense Attorney Louis Little asked what Steve had told him. Dr. Huff said:

"On the morning before he died, Steve woke up and said he felt all right. I asked him: 'Steve, when did you get hurt playing ball?' Steve said two weeks ago. He said: 'Another boy and I bumped our heads together and I got knocked out.'"

Dr. Huff said five other persons heard the boy.

State Chemist Clyde H. Campbell, called by the defense, admitted in examining five bodies he never had found tin salts.

Dr. Charles G. King, professor of chemistry, University of Pittsburgh, testified tin salts exist in the human organs when he resumed the stand today. Questioning the findings of County Chemist F. C. Buckmaster, he suggested the natural presence had not been taken into consideration.

TESTIMONY CHANGED

While testifying that cats fed on tin gained weight during an experiment, Dr. King admitted salts of tin in stannous condition

Council to Debate Welfare Job Issue

Under the terms of an ordinance scheduled for discussion in Council today future appointees to jobs at the city's home and hospital will be required to be residents of the city. If acted upon favorably the ordinance will amend the section of the present measure which exempted certain employes of the Welfare Department from city residence.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

Well lets see what we got in today's papers that will stand us till tomorrow. "Hundreds Marooned by Snow in Southern California Mountains." Well, that will be melted by tomorrow. "France Throws Overboard Another Government." Well, that won't stand for another day, and neither will their new government. "Roosevelt and Ambassador Lindsay of Great Britain Reach Understanding." Well, that won't stand up any longer than the Senate hears about it. "Henry Ford Licks the Bankers Again." Well, that's not news. He has always licked me. I more concerns were owned individually like his, and not formed just to sell stock, we would be better off. If your business is any good, why do you want to let everybody in on it?

SCHOOL RECORD SET BY GIRL

ROGER EGAN, 12

The best scholastic record ever attained by a Bellevue High School student has just been completed by 17-year-old Dorothy Egly, of 27 South Balph avenue.

She received an A, or perfect grade, in every one of her studies during the four-year period. Not only that but she took the maximum number of subjects and never has been late or absent from school in the past six years.

Taking part in school activities, howevr, is just as much a part of her schooling as making A's. She is a member of the French and German clubs, the school yearbook staff, the National Honorary Society and the National Quill and Scroll Society.

A bullet which has been imbedded in the brain of Roger Egan, 12, of 1840 Locust street, since he was a baby will not prevent the lad from being promoted with honor at the Forbes school, tomorrow.

Second in his class, Roger will leave the 5B grade for 5A.

As a baby of 4, Roger was struck by a stray bullet fired in an affray between police and a fleeing bandit. Fearing an operation might be fatal, it was not performed.

Collector Missing, Rare Stamps Seen as Clues

Postoffice inspectors have joined with police in the search for C. Barney Simms, 30, a collector and dealer of rare postage stamps and a member of the Society of Philatelic Americans, said to have disappeared last September, while rooming at 411 Pitt street, Wilkinsburg.

He started on a vacation trip at that time and friends are said to fear he may have met with foul play.

The government officers yesterday entered the investigation when they collected more than 500 unopened letters mailed Simms by stamp collectors and dealers in the United States and foreign countries.

They had accumulated since his disappearance at his former rooming house and in the Wilkinsburg postoffice.

By taking charge of the mail the postoffice inspectors hope to obtain a clue to the whereabouts of the missing man.

INDICTED ALSO FOR STRIKING CHOIR HEAD

MUNCIE, Ind., Jan. 31.—(AP.)—The Rev. G. Lemuel Conway, pastor of the Madison Street Methodist Episcopal Church here, today stood indicted by the Delaware County grand jury on charges of attempting to attack an 18-year-old high school girl and also of striking his choir master.

The minister, who is 55 years old, married and has five children, surrendered to Sheriff Fred W. Puckett. Bond was fixed at $3,000 on the more serious charge, and $500 on a charge of assault and battery. He was released on bond last night after spending several hours in jail.

The Rev. Mr. Conway will face a church trial soon for alleged imprudent conduct unbecoming a minister. The trial will be held before Bishop Edgar Blake, of Detroit, and 12 members of the Methodist Episcopal Conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Burl Huffman and their daughter Helen, 18, were recent witnesses called by the grand jury.

During a preliminary church hearing, held by Dr. Frank K. Dougherty, district superintendent, Miss Huffman testified. Dr. Dougherty said, that the Rev. Mr. Conway invited her into his automobile last December and attempted to attack her. The minister denied the charges, asserting enemies within his church were responsible for the accusations.

The trouble became a matter of public knowledge following the services Sunday evening, January 22, when the Rev. Mr. Conway knocked Willard F. Aurand, choir master, over the chancel rail. His action was attributed to reports that Aurand had been active in gathering evidence against him. Aurand denied this.

CLASHES MARK WILKINSBURG TAX SESSION

Wilkinsburg Council met in stormy session last night to enact drastic slashes in salaries of employes and operating expenses of various borough departments in a move to meet 1933 budget requirements. The meeting was attended by a crowd that packed council chambers and overflowed into the street.

Disregarding shouts of disapproval of the audience after their request to adjourn the meeting to the Wilkinsburg High School auditorium, Council approved a tax mill rate of 9½ mills, a reduction of one mill from the 1932 tax levy and a slash of $73,000 from the budget of last year.

The new budget provided salary reductions ranging from 10 to 25 percent for all borough employees, and included cuts in operating expenses of the police, fire, public works, health and other borough departments.

Burgess William M. Turner joined in two of the disputes that marked the session.

Challenged by Councilman James H. Steel for his statement that the public works department, under Steel as chairman, had expended $5,000 without "building a street or laying a brick," Turner repeated the charge and quoted figures alleging a higher amount than that sum was spent.

Turner's plea that several unmarried men be replaced on the payroll by men with families was approved by Council, and the request referred to the Public Works Committee for action.

Council voted to continue practice of sending the Duquesne Light Company a "short change" check each month because the company refused to reduce their bill by installing lower candlepower street lights.

CALLS UTILITIES 'RACKETS'

Howard Williams, national director of the League for Independent Political Action, today had added to the list of "big" rackets. He placed public utilities that charge exorbitant rates in this category and likened them to a social disease "whose virus touches every ganglion in our social structure."

Williams, speaking at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement Theater under the auspices of the League for Social Service, pictured electricity as the greatest potential service to the masses in Pittsburgh and elsewhere. He added that the service has been denied them because of the prices charged for it. He advocated governmental operation of Muscle Shoals, Boulder Dam, the St. Lawrence and Columbia waterways as a measuring rod to show how cheaply electricity can be produced.

ESCAPES DEATH IN TRUCK'S FALL

After his ride down a 50-foot slope into a dump at Junction Hollow this morning, Stanley J. Nowak, truck driver, was discharged from the Montefiore Hospital in a few hours. He suffered only minor bruises.

Nowak, who lives at 171 Stowe avenue, McKees Rocks, was making his first trip to the dump for Contractor Frank Bryan. He backed his heavy truck, filled with earth, too near the edge of the hollow, off Swinburn street, and it went over.

A surprise prosecution move was staged yesterday when two boys and a woman, defense witnesses, were recalled by the commonwealth and changed their testimony.

Joseph Olack, 14, and Mike Kuzmar, 12, who testified last Friday that Steve was knocked unconscious during a football game two weeks prior to his death, retracted their statements, asserting Mrs. Chalfa had promised them money when the insurance on the boy was collected.

Mrs. Anna Goga, the third defense witness involved, testified Mrs. Chalfa promised her $100 for assistance in the trial.

Etna Votes 2-Mill Slash in Tax Levy

Etna Council last night passed an ordinance reducing the tax levy from 13 to 11 mills. An ordinance setting the new budget at $156,711 also passed second reading. The police force was reduced from seven to six patrolmen to keep within the departmental appropriations. All borough officers were re-elected.

Dr. Sterki Collection Willed to Museum

Dr. Victor Sterki, curator of mollusca at Carnegie Museum here, who died at his home in New Philadelphia, O., last Wednesday, has bequeathed his collection of these and specimens, which he spent more than 50 years collecting, to the museum, according to his will filed for probate yesterday in the Ohio city. The collection for the most part has been assembled at his home and will be transferred to Pittsburgh. He was 86.

Name Commissioner For Ross Township

Harry A. Bostwick has been appointed Township Commissioner of Ross Township, to take the place of the late Clarence M. Forbes. Judge Frank P. Patterson made the appointment in Quarter Sessions Court.

Police Request 15 New Radio Autos

A bill authorizing the expenditure of $13,000 for 15 police radio cars was up for action today before Council's Finance Committee. The 15 cars, it is explained to Council, will be replacements and not additions to the present fleet.

AD MAN VIEWS BIG MARKET

Pledges of $125,000,000 to the National Committee on Industrial Rehabilitation today were held as the greatest hope for economic recovery by Ralph Leavenworth, general advertising manager, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, before the Pittsburgh Advertising Club in William Penn Hotel.

This market for industrial products, Leavenworth said, offers the greatest opportunity for sales promotion and advertising in the future months. It will do much in putting industry on a profitable basis, he pointed out.

Citing how machinery has been idle since 1929, the speaker said much of it will be useless when ready to be placed in operation. He continued:

"In three years new machinery has been made so much faster, lighter, safer and more efficient that it will not pay to use the old and the re-equipping of the country with modern machinery will alone go far to make prosperity."

2,000 TRAPPED IN SNOW SAFE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—(INS.)—Coasting between 15-foot banks of sparkling snow with the weather below freezing and a brilliant sun lighting the "rim of the world," the last of 2,000 weekend motorists who were trapped by a blizzard at Lake Arrowhead, were returning home today, according to reports over the telephone from Arrowhead village.

Most of the marooned motorist, fed, warmed and sheltered in emergency quarters at the village and in mountain cabins, had crawled down the icy mountain road late yesterday and last night.

There were no serious casualties among the huge throng of spectators at the annual winter sports carnival, who found themselves victims of the worst snowstorm in years.

State highway crews with snowplows and tractors, broke a road through the drifts after a terrific battle with the storm and with more than 400 automobiles stalled, frozen and in many cases completely buried by the snow.

Hardy athletes and mountaineers rescued scores.

2 Clubs Tied for Lead In Bridge Tourney

The Harvard - Yale - Princeton and Duquesne Club teams participating in the interclub duplicate bridge tournament were tied for the lead today as the result of their victories last night. The former organization won from the University Club, 32 to 22, while Duquesne won from the Keystone Athletic Club, 28½ to 25½. In the third match the Engineers Society won from the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, 30½ to 23½.

Bellevue Man Killed On River Boulevard

W. L. Alexander, 69, of 170 Kendall avenue, Bellevue, was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile driven by Albert E. Atwell, of Emsworth, in the Ohio River boulevard near his home, according to a Morgue report.

Atwell, a former Navy recruiting officer, posted $1,000 bond. He told Coroner's deputies Alexander stepped from behind a parked car into his path; he stopped, but another motorist had picked him up. He then notified police.

Poor Director Suit Aired Before Judge

Judge Thomas M. Marshall, of Common Pleas Court, is hearing the taxpayers' suit brought two years ago against the Allegheny County Poor Board by Walter W. Riehl, asking that the directors be surcharged for monies alleged to have been spent illegally.

Purchase of farm lands, equipment and other expenditures are involved in the action. The case is not being tried before a jury. Judge Marshall will render an opinion at the conclusion of the testimony.

JAPS REPULSE 4TH ATTACK

CHINCHOW, Manchuria, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—For the fourth time in five days the Chinese attacked again early this morning at Chiumenkow, 12 miles north of Shanhaikwan, where the Japanese hold a pass through the Great Wall.

The fight lasted two hours and a half but the Chinese were repulsed.

NANKING, China, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—W. S. Wang, well known Chinese newspaperman, was kidnaped and murdered today by gunmen believed to be members of the "patriotic society" which was born of the current trouble with Japan.

His body was found on the slope of Purple Mountain near the tomb of Sun Yat Sen. Pinned to the jacket was a note which read:

"He secretly communicated with the enemy, therefore he has been executed."

THRIFT IN STYLES AIDS GOOD TASTE ACCORDING TO DESIGNERS

THRIFTY DESIGNS are often the best of all, according to the better designers. Women who are obliged to make little economies in the planning of their clothes often pay more attention to every detail of their costumes, they say—with the result that their clothes are eventually done in better taste and are more suited to their individual types.

* * *

A PROMINENT dressmaker likes to plan clothes for women who prefer a few well-chosen dresses to many haphazard ones. She likes, she declares, to figure out a costume which a woman can adapt to her own uses in such a way that it would seem to be one designed for her especially.

* * *

THE COAT in today's sketch, is an example. In the first days of spring, not every woman who would like a between-season coat can afford one. Yet here is a model which is three things in one—a double coat warm enough for winter, a furless coat of the between-season type, and a little jacket to be worn over wool dresses for the first days of spring.

* * *

IN SHOWING this costume, the mannequin wears, first of all, the two coats together—the little fur jacket on top. It gives the appearance of a single coat that has fur incrustations. Remove the jacket, and the furless coat appears—a model in black wool, with white ivory lozenges thrust into little silver chains, in lieu of button and buttonhole fastenings.

'GAS' EXPLOSION BURNS FIREMAN

Showered with blazing gasoline as a can he sought to remove from a burning automobile in Millgate street exploded in his hands early today, Lambert Cox, 40, hoseman of Engine Company No. 6, Forty-fourth street, was burned seriously.

Cox was taken to Mercy Hospital. He lives at 4538 Carroll street.

Police said the fire was of incendiary origin and asked the city detective bomb and arson squad to investigate.

The automobile, owned by Arthur Madison, of 334 East North avenue, had been parked near 4407 Millgate street while Madison visited friends in the neighborhood.

A short time before the fire residents said they had seen a man drive up to the parked machine, place a can on the floor and flee after applying a match.

The damage was estimated at $50 by firemen.

LORDAN NAMED FIRE CAPTAIN

Former Fire Capt. William Lordan, attached to Engine Company 55, Ochlee street, North Side, today was appointed captain of Engine Company No. 42 by Safety Director James M. Clark. He succeeds former Capt. George Muse, who died suddenly last week. The appointment of Lordan fills the only vacancy in the Fire Bureau. Lordan was a hoseman at Engine Company 55. Twelve hosemen were transferred, effective tomorrow.

The Director also said that there will be a slight reorganization in the Police Bureau. It will not be a shakeup, he said, but some patrolmen will be demoted to sub-patrolmen, a few will be promoted to regulars, and some will be transferred.

Civil Union Requests Places for Meetings

Council today is studying a letter from the Americ... Civil Liberties Union in which it is suggested that Council designated "certain outdoor places" for public meetings. The union, in its letter, lauds Council designate "certain outobtaining a permit for the United Workers and Students League to hold a meeting at an entrance to Schenley Park.

BREAKS UP A COLD IN A JIFFY

Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system and you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

Patricia Pitt

The Nixon had a large audience last night to see George White's Melody. And a very gaily dressed gathering it was. Petite Gretchen Bickford, as usual escorted by David McCargo, wore geranium hammered satin, having Spanish Conquistador sleeves. In the crowded lobby during intermission I saw Mrs. Lewis A. Park, in black velvet having diamente shoulder straps, Mrs. C. L. Painter, Jr., in gold satin, and Neil Stewart Zang, in black satin, chatting with Betty McCance whose dinner gown was of black velvet.

The debutante set was very well represented by five debs who entered the theater together. Patsy Mellon, in black velvet; Althea Robinson, in red crepe, with a long black velvet wrap having an ermine tippet; Collie Jennings, whose blondness was enhanced by a long black velvet wrap with ermine collar, Laura Childs and Nancy Doyle.

In Green Satin

Mrs. W. C. Robinson, too, I caught a glimpse of, accompanied by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. C. Robinson, Jr., who wore pale green satin. Mrs. Dorwin Donnelly chose black chiffon. Entering the theater I saw Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, in violet crepe, with Mrs. Felix B. Snowdon in black crepe having white georgette beaded sleeves, and Mrs. Alan Magee Scaife, in black crepe with brief ermine sleeves.

The William A. Duckhams I noticed smoking between intermissions in the lobby, and Mrs. Duckham was wearing scintillating black satin, made with brief puffed sleeves, and having a pert white organdie flower at the shoulder. I saw Mrs. Mortimer Miller, too, in black velvet; Mrs. William Penn Snyder, the Nelson Vance Harpers, with Mrs. Harper in fern green satin and a bunny jacket; Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson, in black velvet, and Mrs. John W. Ritchie, in rose-beige lace.

With Robert Carson III, son of Mrs. Robert Carson, Jr., of Morewood avenue, was charming Esther Eskin, who with her family has lived abroad most of her life.

Esther is the house guest of Mrs. Carson. I might add that she made her debut last year in Rome. At the theater last night she wore a smart rose crepe frock with a corsage of flowers.

Approves Exhibits

Attractive Miss Olive Lyford, of New York, director of the arts and interests committee of the Association of Junior Leagues, who was in town yesterday, approves the art exhibits the Pittsburgh Junior League has been conducting in the club rooms, Clark Building.

The recent exhibit of the work of 26 representative Pittsburgh artists she thought was splendid. The Junior League wishes to aid artists by displaying their work, and to stimulate the interest of the public in art.

In the afternoon Miss Lyford and a group of the Pittsburgh Junior League members conferred with Homer Saint-Gaudens, director of the department of Fine Arts, Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Confer On Art

The purpose of the meeting with Mr. Saint-Gaudens was to find out just how the league could co-operate with him in stimulating interest in art.

Tall, slender, blonde Virginia Willock is chairman of the arts and interests committee of the Pittsburgh Junior League.

Mrs. Stanley Brown entertained Miss Lyford at a very small luncheon yesterday in her home.

At Party On Yacht

Word comes from Palm Beach of still another social affair of note, attended by two of Pittsburgh's younger set, the Tunnell sisters, Helen and Shirley, daughters of the E. Paul Tunnells.

They are the guests of their aunt, Mrs. Peyton Van Rensselaer at her Palm Beach place.

They were among the guests at a large tea given Sunday afternoon aboard the yacht Versuelle by the John Randolph Hopkinses for Mr. Hopkins' sister, Miss Susie McR. Hopkins, who recently arrived from New York.

Pittsburgh Folk At Nuptials In East

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Harris, of South Negley avenue, were in New York over the week-end to attend the wedding of Miss Mildred Culver Boyd, daughter of Mrs. A. Culver Boyd, of Lansdowne, Pa., and Weston W. Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Adams, of Boston, Saturday.

The ceremony took place in the Little Church Around the Corner, New York, with the rector, the Rev. J. H. Randolph Ray, as officiant.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, William Boyd, had as her only attendant Miss Jean C. Wilson, of Lansdowne. Frederic H. Rahr was best man.

The ushers were Howard Burns, of Boston; W. Bradley Ward, of Lansdowne; Francis Colwell, of Boston; Joseph A. Mann, of New York, and Gail Landon, of Philadelphia.

A reception at the apartment of the Chester E. Rahrs in the Hotel Carlyle, New York, followed.

Jane Edmundson Is Married to Dr. Weddell

This last morning of January brought a very simple, pretty wedding in the First Presbyterian Church, of McKeesport, at 10:45 o'clock. The bride was Miss Jane Eleanor Edmundson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Edmundson, of Huey street, McKeesport, and the bridegroom was Dr. Howard Raymond Weddell, also of McKeesport. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. Harlan McCartney.

The bride wore a gown of hyacinth blue with matching turban and carried white orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Joseph E. Finley, as matron of honor, wore a gown of old rose with brown accessories, and the bridesmaid, Mrs. Walter A. Seddon, wore a gown of old lace with brown accessories, and both carried tea roses. Clinton L. Weddell was his brother's best man. Ushers were John H. Edmundson, W. Mynard McConnell, J. Reed Overholt and David I. Hunt.

Immediately after the ceremony, Dr. and Mrs. Weddell left by motor for the South.

Pi Lambda Theta Will Entertain School Heads

Educational administrators of Southwestern Pennsylvania will be guests of Delta Chapter of Pi Lambda Theta, national honorary educational fraternity for women, at an open meeting Thursday evening in Heinz House, University of Pittsburgh campus. Miss Charlotte Ruby, president of the chapter, will welcome the guests. The speakers will include E. C. Noyes, president of the southwestern convention district of the Pennsylvania State Education Association; L. P. Sieg, dean of the school of education, University of Pittsburgh; Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of public schools, and Herbert L. Spencer, of Frick Training School, president of Xi Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, national honorary educational fraternity for men.

A musical program will be presented by Sigma Alpha Iota, women's national professional musical fraternity at Carnegie Institute of Technology—Miss Helen Weber, pianist; Miss Rose Aiello, violinist, and Miss Sylvia Scona, soprano soloist.

Leah Levine Becomes Bride of Louis Solomon

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Levine, of Wabash avenue, West End, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Leah Levine, to Louis Solomon, of the East End, which was solemnized on Saturday in the study of Rabbi B. A. Lichter, of the B'Nai Israel Synagogue.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon will be at home in Avondale place, East End, after an extended eastern wedding trip.

Early Weaving Topic For Homestead Club

Mrs. Roswell Johnson gave a fascinating talk on early American weaving and displayed examples of the work before the Homestead Woman's Club yesterday afternoon. The club's next meeting, on February 13, will be a guest day and will be held in the home of Mrs. Lloyd L. Thompson, Marlborough avenue, Squirrel Hill.

Busy February Faces Woman's City Club

Luncheons, classes, the big spring bridge party, an evening meeting and a Sunday twilight musicale will make a busy February for the Woman's City Club. Miss Hannah Patterson will have her usual classes in parliamentary law at 10:30 o'clock on the 8th and 22nd. Also on the 8th there's to be a luncheon at which Mme. Susanne Karpova will tell of "The Life of Members of the Russian Imperial Ballet."

The 11th of the month will, as you no doubt know, bring the big bridge party at the Chatterbox. The next day Miss May Beegle will present the monthly musicale, with Helen Bell Rush, soprano; Arthur Davis, tenor, and Earl Wild, piano, on the program.

When the drama group meets on the 14th, Mrs. Tracy W. Guthrie will take the chairmanship and discussion will center around Rose Franken's "Another Language," which is coming to the Nixon next month. Mrs. L. Gerald Firth's illustrated lecture on "The Chateau Country of France," which was postponed from this month, will be given on the evening of the 15th of February. The book review luncheon on the 18th will feature Mrs. Frank S. Follansbee and George Seibel, literary critic of the Sun-Telegraph, as speakers, and the closing event on the calendar will be a luncheon on the 22nd under auspices of the music committee with Mrs. Taylor Allderdice, chairman of the choral, speaking on "Bach."

The meeting of A. A. U. W. committees to arrange for Drew Pearson's lecture on February 28 will be held tonight in the Woman's City Club and not tomorrow, as announced.

Mrs. Sloan to Welcome Federation Delegates

After the preliminaries of the call to order, the opening prayer, the salute to the flag and assembly singing, Mrs. John S. Sloan, president of the Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club, the hostess group, will welcome delegates to the annual meeting of the Allegheny County Federation in Kaufmann's on Friday morning. Mrs. H. J. Fox, county president, will respond and annual reports will be given. Just before the nominating committee's report, which will close the morning session, the Wilkinsburg Civic Club's Choral will be heard in two numbers.

The afternoon program includes music by Mrs. Nellie E. Miller, soprano; Miss Gladys S. Dove, contralto; Mrs. J. D. Boydston, accompanying, and James C. Achtzehn, for whom Miss Marianne Genet will play the accompaniments.

Three one-act plays by Mrs. May T. Neff will be presented under the direction of Karl Emerson Williams, the casts including Gertrude Wasby, Dick Richardson, Walter Kramer, Charles T. Lawson and Mary Jane Frazier.

Dr. Gilbreth Speaker For Friday Morning Club

Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, the mother of 11 children, who is president of Gilbreth Incorporated Consulting Engineers, is the speaker announced for the February 10 meeting of the Friday Morning Club. She will discuss "Woman's Responsibility in the Present Crisis."

Hostesses for the social hour which will supplement the play are Mrs. S. A. Schreiner, Mrs. R. J. Young, Mrs. W. E. McKnight and Miss Nancy McCormick. Mrs. R. T. Lacy and Mrs. C. B. Fergus will pour.

"What Is Left After 11" Best Test for Play, Century Club Told

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

In the opinion of Anita Block, who addressed the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning, the test of the importance of a play is what is left after 11 o'clock—whether you think of it and talk of it afterward. Mrs. Block, who is play reader for the Theater Guild, was discussing "Significant Plays of the Season," but she prefaced her talk by observing that the present season is the worst in many years. Economic conditions have had a great deal to do with the present state of the theater, but chiefly there is an aversion on the part of audiences to plays that deal with the very problems the world is trying to solve.

Mrs. Block spoke first of "The Good Earth" and the astonishing lack of sympathy it had received at the hands of the New York critics. She voiced herself as being opposed to dramatization of novels, since the literary form is thus violated. John Howard Lawson's "Success Story" the Group Theater's first offering, was pronounced not a success. Rachel Crothers' "When Ladies Meet" was next and of this Mrs. Block said it was "like all of Miss Crothers' works, undeniably shallow and superficial." The value of the Kaufmann-Ferber play, "Dinner at Eight," which is such a success, is exactly nothing, Mrs. Block stated, including "Grand Hotel" in the same category and adding that the newer play is a definite, deliberate attempt to emulate the success of the Vicki Baum work.

Mrs. Block outlined the difference between "theater" and "drama" by saying that the latter is something that must be as interesting when read as when seen. "Theater" is something made attractive and entertaining by all the trappings of the stage. She paid high tribute to Eva Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory Theater and spoke especially of her "Alice in Wonderland" production. She also included Maxwell Anderson's "Both Your Houses," "We the People," by Elmer Rice (it is a real contribution to American letters, she said), Priestly's "Dangerous Corner" and "Design for Living" in her discussion. The Coward play bored her for long moments. It is a decadent situation, she said, a flippant theme flippantly treated, and has nothing to do with real designs for living—an appraisal which met with a burst of applause from her audience.

Episcopal Auxiliary To Hear Talk on China

The February meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Diocese will be held Thursday morning at Trinity House. Mrs. L. Herdman Harris will have charge of current events and Mrs. Francis J. Cotter, whose husband has the rectorate of St. Stephens, Sewickley, during the absence of the Rev. Dr. Alleyene Howell, will speak. Mrs. Cotter will tell of her experiences in China, where she and her husband were missionaries.

Senior Hadassah Will Meet First Wednesdays

The regular meeting of Senior Hadassah has been changed to tomorrow at the Y. M. and W. H. A., and hereafter all meetings will be held the first Wednesday of the month. Attorney I. A. Melnick, guest speaker tomorrow, will review the life and poetry of Emma Lazarus.

New Kensington Club Junior Shuffle Feb. 16

"Junior Shuffle" is the very junior-ish name the New Kensington Junior Woman's Club has given to its annual charity ball, which is set for February 16 at the Willows, Oakmont. The proceeds of the affair will go toward the free public library, which is largely dependent for its continuance on the success of the ball. Miss Miriam B. Brown has accepted the chairmanship for the shuffle.

Tech Music Students To Entertain for Club

At the February meeting of the Women's Club of Carnegie Institute of Technology tomorrow afternoon in the faculty club room, a program will be given by students in the music department. Tea will be served by Mrs. Frank McCullough, Mrs. John Daniels, Mrs. Allen Risedorph, Mrs. Fred Evans, Mrs. William Michener and Mrs. Earnest Nettleton.

Red Hair Is Not Sufficient Reason for Fiery Temper

Have you "a terrible temper?"

And do you believe that, things being as they are, the world should sympathize with you and keep off your toes?

Mona has and does. In addition to that, she's a Red Head—which, of course, supplies her with a perfect alibi for raising 57 varieties of Cain.

Dear Elsie—

Will you please help me and give me a few kind words? I need someone to sympathize with me and give me a hand.

You see, it is this way: I am red-headed, and I guess that what folks say about red-headed people being fiery must be so, because I am certainly that way. I just can't help it. I was born that way. My grandmother had a terrible temper, too. I guess I inherited it from her. Oh, I wish I were different, but I am not.

I just seem to get mad over every little thing. I know that there are people who never seem to get upset, no matter what happens. People can step on their toes or take advantage of them, and they just don't seem to get really ruffled, even if they do say what they think.

But I—well, I am just the opposite. I think every time I get mad that I won't ever do it again; and then something happens, and before I realize it I just fly right up and say things that I am sorry for a little while after. It's a curse to have a temper like that. Oh, how I wish I didn't have it!

I think, too, that people should make allowance when they know you're like that, but they don't. It seems to me sometimes that they just go out of their way to do things that make me fly into a temper, and then they blame me for being that way.

PEEVED AT SISTER

For instance, my mother isn't well, and my sister and I never leave her alone. So we sort of take turns staying with her, and going out. Well, the other night, without saying a word to me, my sister made a date—when I already had one; and when she found out I had, did she use any consideration? Did she stay in, I having made my date first, and let me go?

No; she didn't. And when I got mad and told her how selfish I thought she was, she blew up and accused me of having a chip on my shoulder and hunting for someone to knock it off! So for three days now we haven't spoken to each other, except when we had to.

Oh, what can I do? Why do I have to be like this? And why do other folks have to be that way? I am only 20, but sometimes I feel like I was a hundred. Please help me.

MONA.

For 20 years you've kidded yourself that you "cannot help being that way" because your grandma was—and, besides, you have red hair. Both excuses are tommy-rot. The tint of your hair has nothing on earth to do with your disposition. Neither has your ancestry.

SELFISH AND CONCEITED

You didn't inherit that temper; you've accumulated it. You started it when you were a baby, and proceeded to develop it, because the folks let you get by with murder.

And you throw tantrums now, not because you're super-sensitive, but simply because you're selfish and conceited and want to get your own way regardless.

Outside of that, you may be a perfectly swell kid with a hundred lovable qualities. But no one will care how pretty or charming or generous you are if you continue to make a public nuisance of yourself.

So stop expecting the world to side-step for you, Mona, and face facts. You're bad-tempered because you want to be bad-tempered. Those "calm people" whom you envy are just as "high-strung" as you are—and had just as many peppery grandmas. But they've learned to consider the other fellow and control themselves—and so can you.

So get busy! You've plenty of good spunk. Use it intelligently. Use it on Mona. Use it to free Mona from the vicious habits that are wrecking Mona's life.

If you want love and respect and kindly consideration, show it to others. Stop acting like a hang-nail, and they'll stop treating you as one.

Fay King Advises Young Couples to Begin Life on Small Scale

WE CAN GET THAT NEW BOOKCASE YOU'VE BEEN WANTING!
THAT'S GREAT!
THIS LITTLE PLACE WILL DO UNTIL WE CAN AFFORD SOMETHING BETTER
THERE ISN'T AS MUCH FUN IN HAVING EVERYTHING, AS IN HAVING TO PLAN AND WORK TO ATTAIN THINGS FAY KING

By FAY KING

No matter how much means a young couple may have when they marry, I believe that they should start their married life on a simple scale.

Then there is always advancement to look forward to.

Tastes change and it is much better to undertake simple housekeeping at first that will not encumber them with too much responsibility.

While they are happy with this small beginning there will be joy of planning for something better in time.

I think that is why marriages that begin with economy succeed better than those which start with extravagance.

We appreciate those things more that we must save and plan for, and do not tire of them.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Choice of a Contract

No matter how accurate the bidding of a hand may be, sometimes it seems very difficult to reach the correct final contract. At times, the "cheaper" notrump contract is to be preferred, while, at other times, the seemingly "expensive" contract for game in a minor suit is a safer road to game.

The hand below, which was dealt in a Duplicate game at Crockford's Club in New York City, presented to the North and South players at 10 tables a question of the choice of the right bid, to which only one pair found the correct answer.

South—Dealer.

	♠ 8 ♡ 9 2 ◇ 10 8 6 4 ♣ A K 10 9 5 3
♠ Q J 9 ♡ J 10 5 4 3 ◇ Q 9 5 2 ♣ 8	North West East South	♠ K 7 4 2 ♡ K Q ◇ J 7 3 ♣ J 7 4 2
	♠ A 10 6 5 3 ♡ A 8 7 6 ◇ A K ♣ Q 6

At one table, North and South reached a contract of five clubs, which was easily made, the only losers being one trump and one heart. At the other nine tables, the eventual contract was three notrump, with South as Declarer. Seven of these players were inclined to become extremely critical of their own poor play, because they staked all on the break of the club suit, and, as East had that suit stopped and Dummy held no re-entry, they were, of course, defeated. The two remaining players, after winning the second trick with the Ace of hearts, led a small club, and the 9 of clubs was finessed.

At one table, East promptly took the trick with the Knave, whereupon South easily made his contract. The other player, however, was not so fortunate. In spite of his excellent play in finessing the first club, he was compelled to share the fate of the other Declarer who had been set. As East was equally as good a player and refused to win the trick with the club Knave, South's task became hopeless.

When the players who thought they had found a flaw in their own play learned that even correct play had not been rewarded because met with accurate defense, their grief over their failure to make the best of the situation was greatly lessened.

Today's Question

East, Dealer, opens with a bid of one spade. South and West pass. North doubles. East passes. What should South bid, holding the following hand?

♠ A 6 5 3 2 ♡ J 7 5 4 2 ◇ 3 2 ♣ 3

Answer: South should bid two hearts. The hand is not strong enough for a Penalty Pass, and the five-card major suit is to be preferred to a one notrump response.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Correct Invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I should appreciate very much your opinion on a discussion we have had quite a controversy about.

It seems a gentleman who has been keeping company with a young lady took the initiative himself to invite this young lady to his mother's home for dinner. The invitation was given two weeks in advance. At a previous time his mother invited the young lady to her home, but due to unavoidable circumstances she could not go. The questions under discussion are:

1—Is it proper for the young man to invite the young lady to his home for dinner?

2—Would he be justified in feeling slighted if she refused because of the fact that she preferred an invitation from his mother?

J.

Two excellent questions, these, and ones on which it is healthy to have "quite a controversy about."

1—No, this invitation should come from the mother of the young man, the hostess of the home.

It is quite natural for the young man to mention the invitation "on his own" first, if he wishes, but this suggestion should, as soon as possible, be followed up with the seconding of the invitation by his mother.

2—No. Instead of feeling the slightest embarrassment about this, he should be proud that the young lady knows what's what, and that she wishes to act with mannerliness and correctness. Of course the young lady will use the maximum of graciousness and tact in her "suggestion" that she would feel more comfortable if the mother herself would also give the invitation. This sort of thing very often has to be done, and can be done with grace.

Madge Confides in Lillian Story About Husband

My wait for Dicky's reply to my comment upon his ultimatum to me was of only a second's duration. With something very like the snarl of an enraged animal, he flung himself violently away from me, almost upsetting me in the process, and rushed for the door.

"Do anything you blankety-blank please," he hurled back over his shoulder, and ignoring the hour and probability that he was awakening every guest of the country hotel, he slammed the door after him.

It was this gesture, even more than his words, that made me realize how thoroughly angry he was. Many years of life with him have tought me that, while he can work himself into a very convincing simulation of rage with me, it is a rare occasion indeed that he risks a scene in which strangers may have the chance to comment upon our differences.

I found myself also beyond all consideration for others, all thought, indeed, of anything save one obsessing thought. Dicky was rushing away to an air flight, in a rage with me. He was in no condition mentally to do anything requiring a calm mind and equable emotions. I was racked with horrible forebodings as I tore open the door and dashed down the corridor.

DOES SOME ACTING

"Dicky! Dicky!" I called, but found my throat so dry that the words could not have been audible more than a few feet from me. The street door of the hotel slammed while I was only half to the stairs, and I knew enough of my husband's swiftness of motion to be certain that any attempt of mine to catch up with him would be futile.

The sound of a stealthily opening door just behind me made me realize what a titbit some hotel gossip would have to relate in the morning. Dicky and I had violated the first compact we all had made—to avoid everything that could attract attention to our party. Without turning my head, I spoke in the exasperated tone of a wife whose husband has disregarded some conjugal rule.

"If that isn't just like a man!" I apostrophized, with disgust in my tone, "slamming out like a sulky school boy just because he's asked to put on a heavier coat! Well! I can't help it if he does take his death! I've done my duty."

The door behind me closed as stealthily as it had opened, and as I turned and went back to my room, I hoped that I had enacted creditably the role of smugly efficient wife.

But once safe within my own bedroom, I could restrain my sobs no longer, and gave myself up to a burst of terrified weeping. With my face almost buried in the pillow I heard nothing, saw nothing, until a gentle but firm hand was laid upon my shoulder, and Lillian's anxious voice made me realize the selfishness of my grief.

"Madge! What is it? What has happened? Why didn't you call me?"

EXPLAINS TO LILLIAN

I sat up in bed, dabbed at my eyes and spoke chokingly.

"Nothing. I've just been making a fool of myself, that's all. How is Helena?"

"Not so good. She's quiet just now, and Ronald is sitting with her. But you can't put me off this way. You don't go to pieces this way without reason. Look here!"—her voice thickened, the grip on my shoulder tightened—"have you heard something you don't dare tell me?"

"No, No! No! I have heard nothing new."

"I don't believe you," she said, and her voice as well as her hands were shaking. "Nothing else would make you give away in this fashion. When there's nothing more to be done, you cry; not before."

I saw one thing plainly. I had but one course open to me—to tell her the truth. Nothing else would serve. I flung that truth out at her explosively, partly with premeditation, to make it convincing, partly in release of my terrible fear.

"Dicky has gone on that flight so terribly angry at me that he is shaking. I'm so—afraid that he'll never come back."

She looked at me in wide-eyed astonishment.

"Either you're crazy, or I am," she said. "Dicky is in our sitting room this second, talking to Harry."

For Sticky Fingers

It is wise to keep a package of inexpensive paper napkins in a pocket of the automobile if there are children in the family. They are invaluable when it comes to that inevitable time when sonny has had an ice cream cone and would like to wipe his hands on mother's nice clean handkerchief.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Dancing is the ideal exercise for keeping the figure young and supple muscles and fibers resilient. No need of music. Clasp hands above the head, stretching the arms to fullest length. Waltz. Come up and down on the toes. There will be a contraction of the muscles of the calves which will reduce fat ones, fill out skinny ones, because exercise brings conditions to normal. Five minutes of this every day and watch results.

When face and neck show saggy surfaces, it is because the under padding of tissue has lost heart. Cells have dissolved, the skin is loose, falls into folds. To regain the firm contour of youth, it is necessary to tone the fibers, which can be done by laying on oily cosmetics generously, patting, tapping, slapping, using witch hazel freely, ironing the face with an ice cube twice a day. The purpose of all of this is to stimulate circulation, so that blood streams will carry their groceries to hungry cells.

Just as likely to offend—the Girl who says

"I NEVER PERSPIRE"

All healthy people perspire, frequently over a quart a day, though many never feel sticky

Second-day Underthings are NEVER SAFE

OTHERS NOTICE IT

Don't trust yourself . . . Underthings can absorb up to 30% of their weight in perspiration without even feeling damp. The odor is noticeable to others even when you aren't aware of it yourself.

GIRLS who say "I don't perspire" fool themselves. But they never fool others.

We all perspire—frequently over a quart a day, even though we don't feel sticky. And perspiration odor is bound to cling to underthings.

Lux takes away every bit of odor—keeps the harmful substances in perspiration from wearing out silk. It takes only 4 minutes, or less. Anything safe in water alone is safe in Lux.

Mrs. J. J. Hunter finds 1 box of LUX does 496 pieces— 48 pairs silk stockings, 48 pieces lingerie, 120 napkins, 136 handkerchiefs, 48 pairs socks, 48 pairs children's socks, 48 suits children's underwear

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

The Love Letters of W. W.

Dear Mayor O'Brien: Our mutual pal, Eddie Robertson, just came in. He said he thought the things in my column about you recently were offensive to you.

He explained that it was not your fault that the news photographers were sent away without pictures in time for their respective editions, at your inauguration, but that, in respect to Judge Lehman, whose sister passed on that day, some one decided to defer the picture taking until later in the afternoon. Also, that the 10-foot rule (which alienated the affection of some of the lads from the new City Hall administration) was not inspired by you.

Most of the newspaper men and photographers in the city are under the impression, however, that you gave these orders, and they use me as their steam-valve. I told Eddie that I was sorry they had been misinformed, but that, obviously, the indifference of those in charge down there (to certain newspaper men) is second-rate tact. And that those representing you ought to be given a lesson in it, for there are so many newspaper fellows who are super-sensitive. And when they are prevented from serving their newspapers they naturally use their newspapers, when they can, to even matters. All of us children are like that.

As a Democritic, I think that because of the several opposition papers to Tammany your lieutenants should do a little "savving" and try to win over the incorrigibles—instead of slamming doors in their faces and making them otherwise unhappy.

Did your attention-callers, Mayor, who show you some of my items, also tell you that this fellow Winchell can be fair? Because when he finds something nice to say about a fellow he says it? I refer to the item in which I said "An orchid to Mayor O'Brien for vetoing the Park Department order to evict the homeless vets in town"—or something like that. The orchid is my way of saying the recipient is a good guy, etc. So, you see, you owe me an orchid for saying that about you.

Some day, when I am Mayor of New York City, the first thing I intend to do is to instruct my associates at City Hall to kid the newspapermen to death with kindness, because they are just as susceptible to flattery as Mayors and columnists.

I hope you understand me better now. I mean my fairness, at any rate. I know I have an edge on other taxpayers: I can do my grunting out loud in my column.

Here's for a better administration, at any rate—and for a nice big laugh at this and that and things and people—anything to be happier than some of us are.

Respectfully yours—W. W.

Dear Izzy Elinson: I intended using two of your quips in "Things I Never Knew Till Now," which column I jerked out to make room for this column. I mean the one about Gandhi becoming a newspaperman — and that he might as well, as he doesn't eat, anyway! And besides—it's about time he changed to a different sheet! Very funny, Izzy. Do you know why Marlene Dietrich goes around dressed like a man? So she can get a seat in the subway, you dope!

Dear Jeannette B. Stein, Ottumwa: A clipping of your notice has been forwarded to me by a Des Moines reader. Thanks for your comments, but you've been listening to legends, my dear. There never was any "constant strife" between the parties you mention after it was released. That's the trouble with so many of us. Our only exercise is throwing fits or jumping—at conclusions.

Dear Joe Moss, The Hollywood, 48th and Broadway: The girls in your lively revue are prettier, the "Harlem" number is exciting, Blanche Bow's singing and Marilou Dix's ankle and hip work are dandy, the Isham Jones crew play the most contagious rhythms and melodies, and Harry Rose, Frank Hazzard, Fowler & Tamara, et al, are very good entertainers, but why don't you chuck out that microphone? It magnifies the voices, which are lusty enough, I think, and if they didn't talk or sing too near to the mike, perhaps, one wouldn't leave with the earache. I intended telling you these flaws when I saw you, but this way is better. Actors, I learned long ago, seem to believe their critics only when they read it where others can.

Dear Police Commissioner Mulrooney: The reports persist that you will inherit an important post with the U. S. Secret Service after March 4, although you deny it so strenuously. But that isn't what I started out to write. What's going to happen to Traffic Officer Conroy, who gave Magistrate Hirshfield a ticket for red-light passing? I trust you don't mind Pity great interest in the matter, because outside of cops like those who disgraced the force recently, I know that when a citizen is in a jam and needs a policeman he, the cop, comes on the run, and he doesn't pause to ask the victim whether he is a Democrat, a Jew, a Republican or a Catholic! So I'm for the average cop! Catch on? Another thing, Commissioner, I presume you were instructed by Chief Magistrate McDonald to void the summons for the judge or did you do so on your own initiative? I merely ask, sir, because the only person (according to some of the Finest) who has the legal right to void, destroy, dismiss, tear up or cancel a traffic summons is the Chief Magistrate, James E. McDonald, who gives the police authority to serve such a summons bearing his name!—Sincerely (and you know it!), Walter.

Dear Gracie Allen, Station WABC: You're very welcome, Miss Allen, but I haven't run into him yet. The only clue came from Joane Buchwald, who said that her mother found several pieces of your brother in the nut cake she bought yesterday. However, I promise you that if I run into him—I certainly will run into him! And when you're in Chicago sometime and you run into B. B. be sure and sock him for me.—Love, etc.—Mrs. W's W.

Dear Ben Bernie, College Inn, Sherman House, Chicago: Well, kid, I know you understand. It will seem incomplete when I ride the skies on the Sabbath eves without being permitted to tease you any more. But how do you figure some of our tuner-inners? I mean those who from the first (a year ago) have never caught the mood—or the gag—or the by-play? Don't tell me that we've both been that "deep"—unfunny or harsh! Most of your quips at me kept me in a merrior mood, and I know you got a laugh or chuckle out of me from time to time. You ought to see the way the mail is bouncing in from the crowd, who are already indignant over the "minority" winning the argument we both started! That's some balm, at any rate. Perhaps if an army who hear us raise a fuss by mail—they'll let me continue adding to your renown. Well, you old Maestrogue—here's the quip I intended using on you—but mustn't—"I remain, Your New York correspondent (W. W.), who has heard that Bernie claims his personality is a gift. . . . Well, what can you expect for nothing???" . . . Very cruelly your—but in tears—Walter.

Film Stars to Parade At Inauguration

Motion picture stars will take part in the inauguration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt on March 4, and will have their own float in the procession. Among the stars, who will travel from Hollywood on the "42nd Street" special train, are Bebe Daniels, Joe E. Brown, Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell, James Cagney, William Powell, Warner Baxter, George Brent, Bette Davis, Joan Blondell, Guy Kibbee, Loretta Young, Warren William, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Ginger Rogers and Una Merkel. The float in the parade will symbolize "Better Times" and also 42nd street, New York, as the greatest theatrical street in the world. Several of the stars who will stop at leading cities for personal appearances en route, appear in the cast of the new Warner Bros. feature picture, "42nd Street," which will soon be released.

Jobless

Loretta Young is a member of the jobless army in "Employes' Entrance," featuring Warren William also, on Warner screen Thursday.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

Saves $2. No Cooking! So Easy!

Millions of housewives have found that, by mixing their own cough medicine, they get a purer, more effective remedy. They use a recipe which costs about one-fourth as much as ready-made medicine, but which really has no equal for breaking up obstinate coughs.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. The syrup is easily made with 2 cups sugar and one cup water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and makes the most effective remedy that money could buy. Keeps perfectly, and children love its taste.

Its quick action in loosening the phlegm, clearing the air passages, and soothing away the inflammation, has caused it to be used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

Another Romberg Holiday Heard In 'Melody' At the Nixon

By GEORGE SEIBEL

According to the program, it is 1881 when the action of the new Romberg "Melody" began in the Nixon Theater last night, and it was 11:30 when the curtain went down.

Mr. Seibel

No wonder, for it is one of those three generation dramas that were started off by Knoblock's "Milestones" and Sheldon's "Romance." By the time the third generation has made love and rung the wedding bells, the story is old. But the ever-sparkling music of Sigmund Romberg lets us forget this until 1933 has come around, and we realize that 52 years have been consumed by the libretto, while Hal Skelly has used up four visible secretaries and Leporello knows how many between the acts.

In short, the book provided by Edward Childs Carpenter is long-drawn-out and repetitious, but is redeemed by the rich and varied score, the happy lyrics of Irving Caesar, the aggressive and unfrayed voices, the snappy dances, and the scintillations of nearly a dozen stars that have to twinkle in relays.

Most of the honors belong to Sigmund Romberg, who runs the gamut from Gershwin to Liszt, with Offenbachian moments and touches of Balfe. Sometimes his versatility and fertility remind you of those lightning-change artists who leave the lightning breathless. A tricky patter song for Jeanne Aubert or a sentimental lyric for Evelyn Herbert he produces with equal ease and finish.

THE SAME OLD PLOT

The story of "Melody," as already indicated, is the same old plot of the lovers who are separated, whose children carry on another romance, and whose grandchildren finally find each other after many years and far wanderings.

This time it is an African war in 1881 that separates the lovers of the first act, represented by Everett Marshall as Tristan, a composer, and Evelyn Herbert, as the daughter of a comte whose father makes her marry a vicomte. These French titles of nobility are as puzzling as the pronunciation of the language was to many of the cast.

In the whole helter-skelter of 52 years Hal Skelly is the only man who keeps his identity, though he changes his secretaries with great frequency. The last one of these ladies he ought to keep, for Ina Ray is a dextrous dancer of the blonde persuasion, who sends you to the dictionary to see whether the word "cute" has already been invented. It has and she is it.

And she is preceded by another "secretary," Vivian Fay, who furnishes as ravishing a ballet whirlwind as has blown across the Nixon stage in a monsoon.

HEROES IN PAIRS

To convey some idea of the overloading in "Melody," even the heroes come in pairs. Everett Marshall is forgotten by the time the third generation is making love, and Walter Woolf has to do the courting. Evelyn Herbert is superseded for a while by Louise Kirtland, who does a little sentimental scene with genuine sentiment. Hal Skelly is really the only one in the cast who seems durable, and he has most of the comedy to deliver, except that which is entrusted to Jeanne Aubert. She is a perennial joy as a lady Lothario who is the greatest go-getter since Madame Pompadour and marches off in the last scene with Louis XXXI. Her hiccup, with symptoms of having swallowed a piccolo, is something new in musical pathology.

"Melody" has melody and rhythm. The book has variety and longitude. The lyrics are lilting and often amusing. The costumes, lighting and settings by Urban are rich and colorful. The fun is only sporadic, and some of it, like the postcard scene near the end, is superfluous. The dances are captivating and full of verve. But three generations from 1881 to 11:30 seems a long time between weddings, even with Romberg melodies and rhythms. With some judicious amputations, George White will have a rollicking musical romance.

Romance from Budapest At the Cinema

The musical Magyar tongue is heard this week from the screen of the Avenue Cinema, where "Csokolj Meg Edes" (Kiss Me, Darling) is the picture. The title is that of the theme song that runs through the three-part romance — the idea being that a composer gets three librettists each to provide a different setting for his melody.

In the first an elderly innkeeper wants to marry his pretty servant girl, but a good-looking young peasant gets her. In the second episode an awkward maid-of-all-work has a soldier as boy friend, and the family's tricks to get rid of him furnish much fun. The third and best is a capital comedy about a composer who owes the landlady for his rent, and she gets a constable to attach his furniture, so they seal up the cupboard in which her daughter is hidden.

This third episode introduces Marika Rokk and Imre Raday (in Budapest the last name comes first), a delightful pair of screen players. But all the actors are intelligent and versatile, and the direction admirable. Even people who do not understand Hungarian will be charmed by the music of the words and the lively pantomime.

The English film is a presentation of Gaboriau's "File 113," with Clara Kimball Young doing some nice emotional acting and Lew Cody miscast as Detective Lecocq. The remarkable thing about this picture is that the Eiffel Tower is in it, though Gaboriau died 60 years ago. Another screen miracle!

Film Extras Work But Little

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Dave Allen, head of the Central Casting Bureau, has just given me a look at his report for 1932, and it contains some chilling facts.

For instance, only 205 men and women worked two or more days a week last year. One hundred and eighty-two of these were in the first-line dress extras—the ones you see in swanky party scenes.

These aristocrats of the atmosphere people must maintain wardrobes far greater than the average person. The men must have tuxedo, full dress, riding habit, several business suits, light and dark overcoats. The women must have light and dark evening gowns, a dinner gown, sports outfits, riding habits, street and afternoon clothes.

In 1932, these favored few averaged 2.23 days work a week. Their average salary was $24.90.

And, for you parents who think your boy is a second Jackie Cooper—only 10 per cent of the children registered with the bureau got as many as 10 days work during the entire year.

Thanks to heavy production since August, the bureau placed 214,000 extras in 1932, a gain of almost 25,000 above the 1931 total. On the other hand, the average daily wage dropped from $9.32 to $8.65. The reason for this drop is the increased demand for $3 extras. In 1931, the bureau placed only 718 of these low wage-earners. In 1932, the total jumped to 9,533. Such extras are not even called individually, the bureau simply gets in touch with relief agencies and tells them how many people are needed.

What about the 1933 outlook for extras? Allen says it depends largely upon the success of such pictures as "Cavalcade," "Farewell to Arms," "State Fair" and "Sign of the Cross." If they go over, the studios will gamble on more big pictures.

Over in the Paramount publicity department they were looking at some new pictures of Carole Lombard, that kind with the trick shadow effects.

"Yeah," said Jack Oakie, "providing they aren't hungry."

The man who used to change the names on the doors has a real job now. Mounted on a steel scaffolding yesterday, he was scraping the "Paramount-Publix Corporation" off the front of this studio. Under the receivership, it will read "Paramount Products, Inc."

Lillian Harvey is seeing Hollywood night life with Ernst Lubitsch. She was dancing with him at the Beverly Wilshire supper-room. Incidentally, you should see the cream-colored streamline racing car that the Fox star brought over from Germany. And she can trust the chauffeur because he is a relative . . . Connie Bennett has a new fad for Spanish, Gypsy and Italian phonographs. She plays them constantly in her dressing room . . . If Paramount will let her, Frances Dee wants to make a picture in England. Frances has never been to New York, even, and the travel urge is strong upon her . . . Wonder if Richard Wallace will make that picture in England. He has an offer to direct Jeannette MacDonald and Herbert Marshall . . . Maurice Chevalier doesn't eat alone any more. Marlene Dietrich is his companion. Yesterday, she wore skirts, a costume for "The Song of Songs." Necks craned . . . Gene Raymond and Loretta Young have been sneaking away from the studio to lunch together at a restaurant in Beverly Hills.

Romance

Last 'Panther Woman' Gets Break

The "big break" came to the fourth and last Panther Woman, when Verna Hillie was assigned the feminine lead in Zane Grey's "Under the Tonto Rim" at the Paramount studios. Miss Hillie entered the nation-wide Panther Woman contest in Detroit several months ago. She, Lona Andre, Gail Patrick and Kathleen Burke came to Hollywood to compete in the finals. Miss Burke won the prize role in "Island of Lost Souls" and the other three were given long term contracts.

Horowitz Here Friday In Piano Recital

Vladimir Horowitz, Russian pianist, will give the sixth May Beegle concert in Syria Mosque on Friday evening. His program here will include the Bach Chorale in G minor, Beethoven Sonata in A Major, opus 101; Presto Appassionato, Arabesque and Toccata, Ravel's are "Oiseaux Tristes" and "Scarbo," Debussy's "Serenade a la Poupee," also "Toccata" and "Pastourelle" by Poulenc, and "Dance Macabre" by Saint Saens-Liszt.

Actress Wins Contract In First Film

Jessie Ralph, stage actress, who makes her screen debut in Columbia's "Child of Manhattan," was placed under a long term contract as a result of her exceptional work in the picturization of this Preston Sturges play. Her portrayal is the character of Aunt Minnie, the role she created when the stage production had its sensational run on Broadway last season. Nancy Carroll and John Boles have the leading roles. It was directed by Eddie Buzzell.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Eddie Cantor, who, with George Jessel as his principal helper, will come to Syria Mosque for afternoon and evening performances Thursday of this week, is going back to Hollywood in a roundabout way. It will take him 15 weeks to make the trip, and there are some 90 cities, including Pittsburgh, at which he will stop to entertain the folks. Once Eddie—and George, too—was known to musical comedy and vaudeville audiences only. Movies and radio have made them known to millions who never saw them on the stage. Besides the two leading comedians, the show to be presented here will include Holland and Knight, dancers; Bobby Bixley, Coletta Ryan, Prof. Sauerpuss and the Four Abbottiers. There will be three comedy sketches as well as the various specialties, with Cantor acting as master of ceremonies.

* * *

Come Thursday and seats will be on sale in the Nixon box office for next week's attraction, the screen version of Noel Coward's play, "Cavalcade," covering 30 years of British history, that was a dramatic success in London. It features Clive Brook and Diana Wynyard, John Warburton and Margaret Lindsay, Frank Lawton and Ursual Jeans, three couples whose romances form the love interest in the huge spectacle. Mr. Brook and Miss Wynyard play the parents of young men who are characterized by Warburton and Lawton. Miss Jeans has the part of a dancer, a role that has put her name in the mind of folks who control the making of films out Hollywood way. After the opening presentation of "Cavalcade" next Monday night the big film will be shown twice daily.

Walt Disney, creator of the popular "Mickey Mouse" comic, appearing regularly in the Sun-Telegraph, is said to be considering a feature-length "Mickey" screen production, to be produced after the current series of shorter films is completed . . . M-G-M is reported as having plans to make a Greta Garbo film, "Queen Christina," in Sweden . . . Emil Jannings, whose American film career was balked by the talkies, will come from Europe next month to appear first on the stage and later in pictures again . . . More than 677,000 persons have attended the two theaters of Radio City since their opening a month ago. Francis Lederer, European singing star, is to have a leading role in a musical romantic film, now in the preliminary plan stage.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

HOTEL ESPLANADE, PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia: This city is the type of place that grows on you. I arrived at the station and found a dismal and dreary atmosphere. The people looked poor and the city looked dirty. I was taken to the hotel in a cab that must have served as a model for Ford's first flivver. And to make matters completely terrible, they drive to the left in this city. All of which gave me a sickly impression of Prague.

But after two days of investigation, I'm ready to do an about-face. I'm beginning to believe that Czechoslovakia is one of the most progressive nations in Europe today and that it will become one of the most powerful before many years have passed.

When Czechoslovakia became a republic, it adopted the Constitution of the United States practically in its entirety. Woodrow Wilson was the best friend this nation ever had, and it is his memory that remains the guiding spirit of these people through the years. Across the way from the railroad station is a large statue of Wilson.

Strange as it may seem, July 4 is almost as big a holiday over here as it is in the United States. Not only do the Czechs celebrate it vigorously, but the President throws open his home and grounds to any American who might be in the vicinity.

When it came to following our doctrines, however, I am happy to say that the Czechs did not walk in blindly. They took one look at prohibition as we proposed to enforce it, and gave the idea the air in short order. In other words, they were only too happy to follow us when they knew we were right. But they had no intention of following us when common sense told them that we were totally wrong.

The Czechs are willing to learn. They add to their constitution and their laws, but not before the thing they adopt has been tried in some other land and found to be highly successful.

For example, they have compulsory voting over here. There isn't a citizen of age in this land who is permitted to remain away from the polls when an election rolls around. Failure to vote calls for a heavy fine upon a first conviction—and a lengthy jail sentence upon a second conviction.

Such a law can accomplish only good in the long run. It makes a citizen realize that his vote is important and it helps him to understand a little of what is going on.

I suppose, though, that compulsory voting in America would do more harm than good. Those who vote now would stop voting as a protest. Taking a leaf from the book of prohibition, I don't doubt that we would have bootleg ballots and vote hijackers. Rum runners would run votes instead of booze and federal agents would seize ballots instead of bottles. And then, when the cases came up in court, they would be dismissed anyhow.

So what's the use? . . .

Common sense seems to be the order of the day around here. Outside of Prague, they have what they call the mile road. This road, every few hundred feet, is paved with a different kind of material. Machines and horses and trucks drive over this road in all sorts of weather for one year. Then the road is closed for an official investigation. And the strip of material that has stood the test best is purchased for general use around Prague.

Then there's their special night club tax for the unemployed. It doesn't make any difference what your check is; the moment you sit down in any club you pay two crowns to help feed the unemployed. It was explained to me in a very simple fashion.

"Two crowns are but six cents in your money," I was told, "and that surely means very little to the man who is able to spend. These two crowns are neither an amusement nor a luxury tax. They go not to the government but, under government supervision, they go direct to the unemployed families. And you would be surprised to see how far a few cents can go when things are very, very bad.

"Accordingly, if two people sit down in a night club, they are unwittingly entertaining two far poorer people at another table. There is no loss, but there is a great gain. Is that not common sense?"

I'll say it is. And if I were back in New York now, I'd go the limit to start that type of movement. A five-cent tax—no more, no less—on each person who sits down in a high-priced restaurant, a speakeasy or a night club. Not five cents per drink, mind you, but five cents in all.

The movement would be a cinch to establish, and to carry on. It would be just as simple to create in other cities as it would be in New York. Any number of social workers could be found who would be only too willing to do the necessary secretarial work, and the organization would be carried along after the first day on its own momentum.

Every cent of the proceeds, it goes without saying, would be turned over in food and clothing to the unemployed. The man who can afford to visit the high-priced restaurant, the speakeasy or the night club would never miss the small contribution of 5 cents. And the poor man would gain a very great deal.

The city of Prague itself employs just as much brain power as the nation of which it is a part. The residents have long since learned that the chief charm of their town lies in the fact that everything seems to go back for hundreds and hundreds and hundreds of years. When you walk through many of the streets, you are treading the same stones that the natives walked upon centuries ago.

Nothing has been changed, and nothing will be changed. If you own a house in Prague, you are permitted to do as you will with the inside—but the outside cannot be touched. If there is a cannon-ball in your wall from a war that took place in the sixteenth century, you dare not remove that cannonball. It has its historical significance, and there it must remain until the whole doggone wall caves in.

It was this ancient atmosphere that I mistook for dreariness and filth when I first pulled into Prague. But two days have proved conclusively to me that the city has a charm that cannot be duplicated in any city I have visited thus far. And because the people are so very wise, this charm will remain with the city always.

No matter how many skyscrapers are built by the rest of the world and no matter how modern our cities become, the residents of Prague will continue to live in the same old homes and worship in the same old churches. Its ancient beauty will always be its very own.

Personally, if I had to stay here another week, I'd die. But what has that got to do with it? . . .

Mae West to Be Star In Second Film

Miss Wynyard to Stay For Second Film

Diana Wynyard, who so successfully portrayed the part of Jane Marryot in "Cavalcade," has gone to LaQuinta, Mexico, for a rest before more film work. This is the player's first vacation in six months. Miss Wynyard originally planned to sail for England for a holiday, but will remain in Hollywood for another production following her Mexican stay.

Cutie

Coming Film Programs

William Powell and Joan Blondell have the leading roles in "Lawyer Man," photoplay to open tomorrow in the Sheridan Square.

* * *

There will be no Wednesday change of bill in the Enright, where Spencer Tracy and Bette Davis, in "20,000 Years in Sing Sing," will be retained all week.

* * *

On the Fulton screen, beginning Thursday, Jack Oakie and Shirley Grey will be seen in "Uptown," romantic comedy drama written by Vina Delmar, in which Oakie is a dumbell at the love game but smart in business.

* * *

The Warner will move its opening day forward this week, and will present its next attraction, "Employes' Entrance," Thursday instead of Friday. Warren William and Loretta Young are featured in this tale of a department store.

* * *

Richard Arlen, Leila Hymans and Kathleen Burke, "The Panther Woman," have the leading roles in "The Island of Lost Souls," story of a scientist who experiments with animals to change their nature. It will be the Penn feature Friday.

* * *

Kate Smith, popular radio singer, will be the star of the Stanley screen from Friday on for a week. "Hello Everybody" is the title of Kate's first film, which has Randolph Scott and Sally Blane in the romantic leads.

* * *

The coming screen attraction in the Variety, to open Sunday midnight, will be "The Secrets of Wu Sin," with Lois Moran in the leading feminine role. There also will be a stage show in which George Dewey Washington will be prominent.

* * *

The new double feature bill in the Davis and Regent, beginning Saturday, will be Evelyn Knapp in "Air Hostess" and Edmund Lowe, Wynne Gibson and James Gleason in "The Devil Is Driving."

Collier Star In Variety

By MARGARET RUSSELL

In these days of sophisticated and sometimes sex-saturated movies, parents are often perplexed in the selection of a picture suitable for the whole family to see. "The Speed Demon," with William Collier, Jr., and Joan Marsh at the Variety this week, is a picture the whole family will enjoy.

There is a hero, and a lovely heroine. There are temptations and trials for the hero; misunderstandings and heartaches for the heroine. There is human interest in the person of that small Thespian, Georgie Ernest, who plays the part of "Catfish" Jones, a runaway orphan. The way he says his prayers will tug at your heart and make you laugh at the same time.

There is plenty of excitement and any number of suspense-filled thrills in the rum-running, boat-racing sequences. You can cheer the hero, sorrow with the heroine and her aged father, hiss the villain, laugh at the comedy and root for the winner in "The Speed Demon," and you probably will.

It means everything to Capt. Torrance and his blonde daughter to win a championship aquaplane race, and establish the superiority of their boat over those of competing manufacturers. But there's dirty work afoot, and the first race is lost.

Through a long and devious chain of somewhat unsavory circumstances, the hero redeems himself in time for the second race. And then you should watch his "speed."

Besides the feature picture there is a Betty Boop Talkartoon of Circus Life, "Boop-oop-a-Doop"; a comedy, "The Loud Mouth," with Matt McHugh, and a Universal Newspaper Newsreel.

The vaudeville bookings include "Raymond and Ann," talking and singing ventriloquists; "The Keystone Songsters," a singing trio with string accompaniment; "Sherman and Wallace," who dance and sing and tell jokes, and "Star and Star," tap-dancers.

Cecilia Parker Cast With Buck Jones

Frank McGlynn and Gaylord Pendleton were added to the cast of Columbia's next Buck Jones special, "Lost Valley Gold," which is in production under the direction of Lambert Hillyer, who also wrote the adaptation, from a story by Donald E. Lee. Cecilia Parker is Jones' leading lady. Wade Boteler, Ward Bond, Harry Todd and Clarence Geldert have already been alloted important roles.

Wilson Double Cast With Irene Dunne

Herbert Mundin Cast In 'Adorable'

Herbert Mundin, the Cockney comedian, seen currently at the Gaiety as Alfred Bridges in "Cavalcade," has been added to the cast of "Adorable," Janet Gaynor's next starring vehicle, in which Henry Garat also will appear. William Dieterle is directing it.

LOSSES SEEN IN CHEAPER TICKETS

ANOTHER VERSION OF the club owners' angle on the question raised by baseball fans as to why ticket prices are not reduced while cuts are being made in other directions comes from President Sidney Weil, of the Cincinnati Reds. He says the salary reductions in most cases have been slight, and not at all in proportion to the advances of the last 12 years. As an instance, he cites that Cincinnati's 1933 payroll for a tail-end club is almost exactly twice what it was for the world champion team of 1919.

Sidney Weil

Overlooking the fact that the fans are not raising the issue as a means of helping the clubs, but as a means of having the prices made to fit their own reduced incomes, the Red owner says the theory that lower prices would mean increased revenue is all wrong. If he thought he could take in more by reducing the ticket scale he would slash the rates in a minute, but he is sure such a policy would be a loser. Weil says he has discovered that only a winning club will draw the fans, and that the prices have nothing to do with it. He uses ladies' day as an example. When the Reds were in the first division last May, 11,000 to 12,000 women were present on free days. When the club fell into the cellar, the number dropped to 3,000, though the gate still was wide open and free.

THOUGH THEY NO longer have Danny MacFayden, the Red Sox will not be without a bespectacled pitcher this year if a recruit makes the grade. They have a new one coming up to add to the list of big league hurlers who have worn spectacles while in action—Will White, Lee Meadows, Carmen Hill, Norman Plitt, MacFayden, and, for a time before he went back to shortstopping, Mark Koenig.

The newest flinger to wear cheaters is Harley McNeal, of Lakewood, O. He was a star high school and college pitcher, winning 37 games all told, and did great work for two years for Michigan.

CLEVELAND SCRIBES LOOK for Wesley Ferrell's holdout to be a prolonged one. Early agreements are expected with the other Indians who have refused to sign so far, but it is being predicted that the training trip will be half over before Ferrell reports.

Ferrell drew $18,000 last year. The club gave him a cut, whereas he figured he was entitled to a raise, so there is a long argument in prospect. The star pitcher feels that he is in a position to drive a hard bargain because he has saved more than $30,000. He put his his entire 1932 salary into government bonds.

IF SUNDAY BALL is legalized in Pennsylvania it will be a financial blow to one National League club, though a great help to the Pirates and the Phillies in the same loop. Brooklyn will be the sufferer. This because the Dodgers have prospered for many years by reason of the fact that they have been privileged to play more Sunday games at home than any other club. The Bucs and Quakers filled many of the dates, but if they are permitted to play on their own grounds, Brooklyn's home total of Sunday games will be greatly reduced.

Mel Ott

THE YOUNGEST OLD-TIMER that any branch of professional sports can boast among its most prominent figures is the unique distinction held in baseball by Mel Ott, as he prepares to depart for Los Angeles in a few weeks on another training trip with the Giants.

Ott is setting some kind of record in the fact that he is starting his eighth season in the major leagues though not yet 24 years old. He won't be 24 until March 2. Mel was only 16 when he broke in with the Giants in the summer of 1925, but he did not take part in any games that year, so his career actually started in 1926.

BY THAT TIME John McGraw had decided that Ott, coming up as a catcher, never would become a big league receiver, but felt sure that any one with the youngster's hitting ability belonged somewhere on a major club, probably in the outfield.

It was a sound diagnosis, and by 1928 Mel was New York's regular right fielder, a position he has played ever since, barring the season of 1931, when he was shifted to center to make room for Freddie Lindstrom in right. There are few more valuable outfielders than Ott, counting his punch and a wonderful throwing arm.

JUST WHY A gridiron team that has failed to complete any considerable number of forward passes in a game should be said to have played bad football mystifies Gus Dorais, former star quarterback at Notre Dame and now head coach at Detroit. In questioning the justice of that sort of criticism, he points out that, on the other hand, if this same team had failed an even greater percentage of the time with its running plays, it would not suffer the same indictment.

"THE FANS SEEM to take it for granted that a certain number of your running plays will be spilled for no gain or a loss," Dorais says. "They give the defensive team credit for the stopping of these running plays, instead of blaming the offensive team for the failures.

"But suppose you averaged a gain of only two yards on 50 forward pass attempts, assuming that you could make that many in a game. They would say you had given a miserable exhibition. The offensive team is blamed there, and no credit is given to the defense for stopping the passes. I don't get the viewpoint."

JOHN T. TAYLOR, secretary-treasurer of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U., was surprised to receive a letter revealing that one of his former star athletes in this district is now serving in the United States Army in the Philippine Islands.

William Von Kaenel

The athlete is William Von Kaenel, who won the A. M. A. marathon running championship while representing the Pittsburgh Railways Company. He wrote to inform Secretary Taylor that he has been in the Army for nine months, being attached to Battery C, 59th Coast Artillery, stationed at Fort Mills on Corregidor Island in the center of Manila Bay.

AND VON KAENEL is keeping up his track work, competing in the distance runs in the Army meets in the islands. In his letter he tells of a Department meet in December lasting three days with the American troops and Filipino Scout troops taking part. Von Kaenel competed in the five-mile run and finished second, 200 yards behind the winner. In two other meets held for the purpose of picking a regimental track team he won the two five-mile races without difficulty. "The time of the Filipinos was better than that of the athletes from the States in the track events," Von Kaenel writes. "This was due to the heat, as it hinders the Americans a lot more than the natives. Personally, I think the Filipinos are very good runners. They have a lot of speed, and also endurance, and I think the islands will be well represented in the track events of the Olympic Games in 1936. They have some very good swimmers, also, as no doubt you observed in the last Olympics. I hope that by next year, after I get used to the heat, I can take first place in the same meet here. Very often I think of you, and of what you have done for me. I'll be back in Pittsburgh to run in a few races in the latter part of 1934."

If Berel Rossofsky, of Chicago, grandson of a rabbi, isn't going to be the next lightweight boxing champion of the world, barring accident, then you tell us who will be the successor of Tony Canzoneri.

And tell the good-sized crowd that saw Berel (Barney Ross to you) knock out Juanito Pastrano, the Filipino, who earns his pay at the box office as Johnny Datto, in the second round of the scheduled 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden last night.

The only complaint the fans had with young Berel Rossofsky was that they didn't see enough of him. What there was of him was great, but he was in action only 4 minutes and 25 seconds. He polished off Datto with a whale of a left hook to the head and a following right to the jaw that was entirely unnecessary, sending Johnny down heavily. Datto, a veteran, who has been in there with the best for many years, couldn't drag himself up to his feet with the aid of a grip on the lower rope until after Referee Al Grayber and Timekeeper Tommy Grant had completed the toll, and, when he did, he was groggy.

CLEAN-CUT KAYO

It was one of the cleanest knockouts ever scored in the Garden ring and of a piece with the remainder of Ross' work, the job of a master boxer and finisher. The knockout came just after Datto had scored his only telling punch of the fight, one of his favorite right crosses, which shook Ross down to his toes. Barney hesitated a moment as Datto poised himself to follow it up, and, before Johnny could get into action again, he was caught on the fighting recoil of the Chicagoan. Like a shot out of a gun, Ross let fly that ripping hook and Johnny was through. The right that followed to the head was just a matter of course.

Resembling Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight champion, about the nose and mouth and having the lean, sharp profile of Charley White, another great left-hooker from Chicago, who was trained by Art Winch, Ross' manager, Barney was class every inch. There wasn't a maneuver he didn't execute with a decisive touch, from a straight left jab, packing force, to a left hook and right cross, and he came in covered and blocking blows to the head and body and shooting short and straight to the EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: AN AMAZING ACCIDENT—On June 25, 1927, Paul Kosky, of Hammond, Ind., was working at the "draw bench" of the La Salle Steel Mill, his duties being to watch the machine from which the steel rods were drawn. As he stooped to pick up a piece of waste, a ⅝-inch rod was accidentally started through the machine, and as it came through, it entered his head just below the angle of the left mandible, passing upward through the floor of the mouth just behind the left tonsil and soft palate, on up transversely through the naso-pharynx and right orbital fossa just lateral to the right optic nerve, on through the base of the skull, through the top of the skull in the right lateral frontal region, slightly posterior to the hair line. After 22 feet of this bar had gone through his head, someone stopped the machine, thus pinning him there, until help reached him. Fellow workmen pulled through his head the remaining four feet of the dirty scaly, oily bar. All through this ghastly experience, and while being treated at the hospital, Kosky remained fully conscious, and he left the hospital about six months after the injury. This remarkable case is reported in the Indiana State Medical Journal for January, 1933, by Dr. J. R. Pugh, of Hammond, who treated Kosky.

TARTANS, PITT PREPARE FOR ROAD FRAYS

By JESS CARVER

The best way in which to figure on tomorrow night's game between Duquesne's Durable Dukes and Geneva College's Cunning Covenanters (what alliteration! what alliteration!) is not to try to figure it at all. If you do, about all you'll get for your pains will be a headache, and in these days, things being as they are, the fewer headaches the better.

Men very, very wise in the ways of basketball, but not in the ways of college teams, have tried to figure out Duquesne-Geneva contests in advance in y'ars past and have failed. It is even more difficult to dope a game played here in Pittsburgh, in the confines of the Duke gym. While you'd think the Dukes would go better on their own hardwood, too often the Durable ones have proven to be Dubious ones and taken it squarely on the lug.

BOTH TEAMS STRONG

On their records for the season, the teams appear very evenly matched. Both have sterling individual performers. The Dukes took Carnegie Tech apart with ease, while Geneva had to put on the bravest sort of a last-half rally to nose out the Tartans, but, on the other mitt, the Covenanters kicked the daylights out of Westminster after the Titans had served the Dukes their lone defeat of the campaign.

The Covenanters will fetch a crack aggregation to town tomorrow. They'll have those brilliant Akronites, Cliff Aultman and Art Grahame in the action, along with Capt. Manning, Hymie Ginsber, who last year looked like the most promising sophomore in the district (at times) and a comparatively inexperienced pair of center hopefuls in Beitsch and Schmitz.

Coach Chick Davies may have to rearrange his battle front due to the fact that the knee which Dudey Moore twisted in the Tech game hasn't responded to the expert treatment of Dr. Leo O'Donnell and Trainer Kimbrue DeCoursey Jackson as well as the good doctor and the great Kimbrue would like. If Dudey can't go, then Jim MacDougal will shift to a forward, Feldman will move back to Moore's guard post and Irving Brenner will start at center.

Tartans Meet Irish

While the Dukes are anticipating with more or less respect the invasion of the Covenanters, the forces of Tech and Pitt are preparing for out-of-town engagements. Tomorrow night, Coach Max Hannum and his Tech Tartans will appear in South Bend against Notre Dame. If the Skibos win this one, they deserve to be brought home in a private car. The Ramblers got away to a slow start this winter, were beaten here by Pitt, but still rate as a formidable outfit.

It may be that George Silverman, clever little guard, will be fit for duty against the Irish. If he is, the Tech lineup will be strengthened.

Pitt follows the Plaid out of the city, heading East for games with Fordham and the Army. The Panthers must meet the Rams Friday night minus the services of Ochsenhirt, the rangy guard. Big Russ has a date with a flock of mid-term exams on for Friday and can't get away. He'll be able to leave that night, however, and will be in the lineup against the Cadets Saturday. Against the Rams, Charley Hughes will play his guard.

The presence of Hughes in the lineup in Ochsenhirt's place does not weaken the team, but the absence of Russ does not do the reserve strength of the Panthers any great good, for it leaves Rocco Cutri as the lone defense sub. Wilson and Wainio are almost strictly offensive players.

NEW RIVER WINS

MONTGOMERY, W. Va., Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Staging a second-half rally, New River defeated the Potomac State frosh squad, 50 to 34, last night. The score at the half was New River, 22; Potomac, 20.

GORILLA JONES WINS TITLE

CLEVELAND, Jan. 31.—As far as the National Boxing Association is concerned, Gorilla Jones, Akron Negro star, is the American middleweight champion.

Jones knocked out Sammy Slaughter, of Terre Haute, Ind., in the seventh round of a scheduled 12-round bout last night, thereby gaining the American middleweight championship as recognized by the N. B. A.

Ben Jeby, 159½, of New York, was awarded a technical knockout over Paul Pirrone, 162, of Cleveland, by Referee Fred Block shortly after the bell rang for the opening of the sixth round of their scheduled 12-round fight. Jeby is recognized by the New York Boxing Commission as world middleweight champion.

Pirrone, floored nine times in the first five rounds, stayed in his corner for nine seconds as the sixth round opened, while Jeby rushed over, swinging at him and asking for action.

When Pirrone finally stood up, Jeby's seconds called the New York fighter to retire. Pirrone then advanced to the center, but Jeby refused to go on, contending the fight was over.

While scores of spectators milled about the ring, expressing dissatisfaction, the Board of Boxing Commissioners debated nearly 15 minutes before the final decision was announced. Then Manus McCaffery, a member of the board, announced Jeby as the winner by a technical knockout, thereby confirming the referee.

Quaill, Julius Win In New York Bouts

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—It remained for amateur ring stars from Pittsburgh to make the best showing of any of the out-of-town contingents in the competion in the inter-city amateur boxing tournament staged at Madison Square Garden here last night among crack four-men teams from Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Baltimore and the metropolitan district, but the best the Steel City lads could do was to break even, winning two bouts and losing two. New York boxers won 13 bouts.

At that the Pittsburghers were away superior to their rivals from other cities, for only one other victory was scored by an out-of-town scrapper. More than 12,000 fans watched the 16-bout program.

QUAILL, JULIUS WIN

Al Quaill, of the Pittsburgh Y. M. H. A., a 147-pounder, whipped Ludwig Kubisch, of New York, with ease, having the Gotham boy on the verge of a knockout in both the first and second rounds. George Julius, of Pittsburgh, won a close decision over Sol Resinol, of the Unionport A. C., in the lightweight class. The verdict was booed.

The other two Pittsburghers were knockout victims. Tom Chester, of the Salem Crescent A. C., knocked out Steve Stefek, of Pittsburgh, after 28 seconds of the third round, and, in the evening's final bout, Steve Dudas, of Edgewater, N. J., won by a technical knockout over Buck Makrum, of the Sands A. C., of Uniontown, Pa. The referee stopped this bout when Makrum complained of a shoulder injury.

The only other out-of-town victory was scored by Generero Gallatto, Philadelphia flyweight.

BOXER IMPROVED

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(INS.)—Jerry Mazza, who suffered a cerebral concussion when knocked out by Al Roth at the Garden last Friday night, was making satisfactory progress today, it was announced at Polyclinic Hospital.

LOCAL WOMAN GOLF VICTOR

Among those participating is Mrs. L. G. Riley, of the Edgewood Country Club, Pittsburgh, who is opposing Miss Bea Gottlieb, of New York, in the title flight.

Mrs. Riley advanced yesterday at the expense of Mrs. Ernest Hogarth, of Lorain, O., whom she eliminated 1 up, scoring her winning margin on the eighteenth hole.

The co-medalists, Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. Estelle Drennan, of Tulsa, Okla., romped to easy victories, while another favorite, Miss Gottlieb, overwhelmed her opponent, Mrs. Evelyn Reeve, of Cincinnati, by 9 and 7.

Mrs. Hill eliminated one of last year's finalists, Mrs. Art Millea, of Mt. Kisco, N. Y., 5 and 4, while Mrs. Drennan was a winner, 9 and 7, over Mrs. J. J. Lannon, of Boston.

KEYSTONE CLUB STARS WIN

WATSON TO SAIL

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(INS.)—Seaman Watson, British featherweight champion, will sail for home late tonight. Before returning here in March to fight Kid Chocolate for the featherweight championship, he will go through with a bout with Benny Sharkey and have his tonsils removed.

GIBSON HERE TO ARRANGE SPRING TRAINING GETAWAY

PILOT TO HOLD CONFERENCE WITH PIET

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Pirate Pilot George Gibson came to town today and immediately assumed active charge of the many things incident to the spring training departure of the Buccaneers. Gibby plans to stay on the job right up to the hour of leave-taking, the advance guard to depart two weeks from Sunday.

The field leader of the Bucs went into a huddle with his Pirate associates, Bill Benswanger and Sam Watters, as quickly as he arrived. George was overdue when he landed, as a result of a stubborn cold. He is still suffering, but expects to be O. K. in a few days.

One of the matters to claim the attention of the manager was Tony Piet's contract. The fleet second sacker is not satisfied with the document sent him, but the difference is not of a serious nature, according to Piet and his bosses. They are due to get together some day this week.

LINDY THRILLS HIM

Despite his ailment, Gibson was high in his enthusiasm over the Pirates. One year ago, George went Westward with a club that was supposed to be a second-division outfit, yet it almost copped the flag. When the Buccos' ship pulls anchor on the next California cruise, it will be designated the favorite for the 1933 pennant. The acquisition of Outfielder Fred Lindstrom is largely responsible for the turn-about-face of the critics.

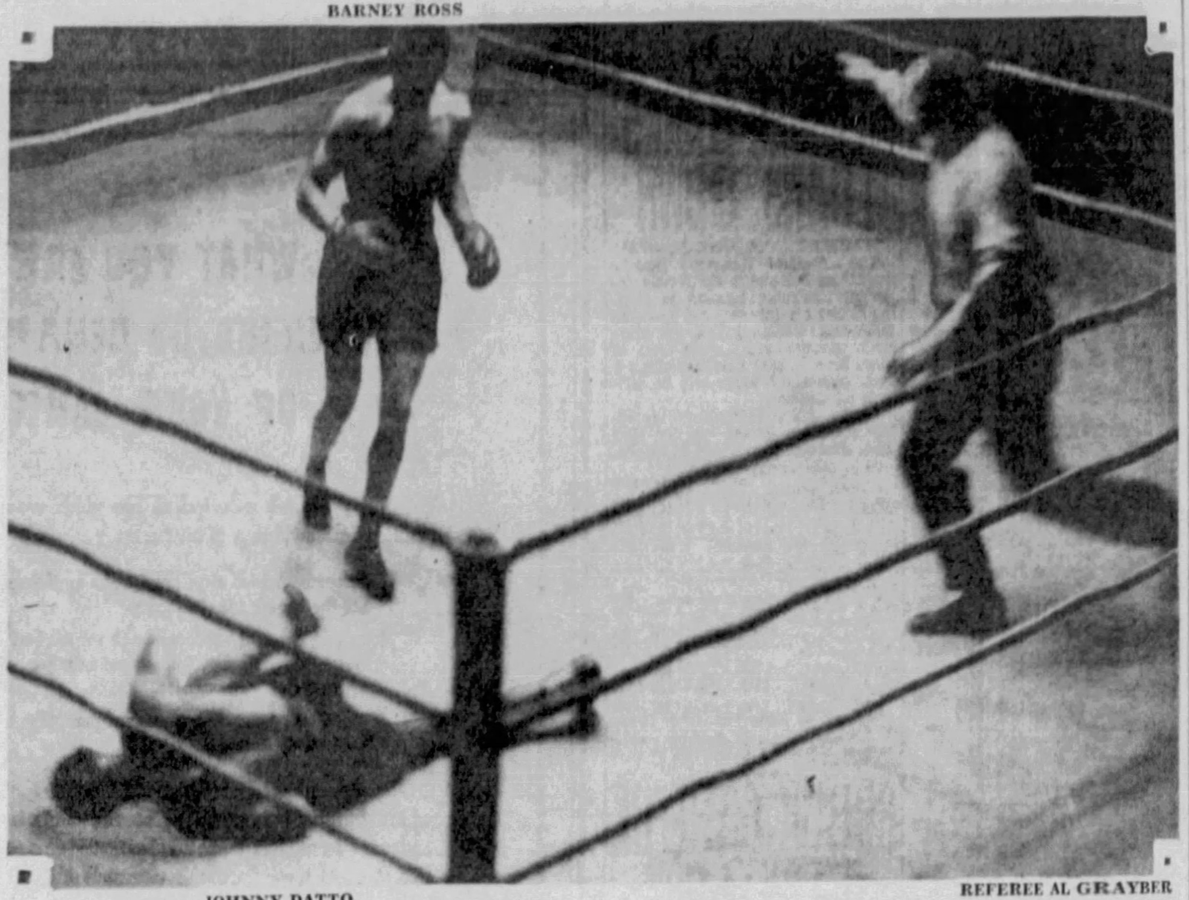
Gibby is tickled over the Lindstrom deal, and he also took out time to pay his respects to Pitcher Ralph Birkofer, Herculean left-hander recently purchased from the Tulas club. George has not seen the big fellow, but he has had glowing reports on his from Bill Hinchman, who followed the rookie closely. The new sharpshooter is said to have plenty of his speed.

LIKE BIG SOUTHPAW

Speaking of the recruit southpaw, Gibson said:

"Any pitcher who can fan 186 batters in 206 innings in Class A baseball should be analyzed closely. Birkofer pitched the equivalent of 23 full ball games. The strikeout figures disclose that he fanned about eight men per game. That is a remarkable average, especially when we consider that the balls now are lively and freak pitching has been almost entirely eliminated. Yes, sir, that big boy will bear watching!"

Datto's Knockout by Barney Ross



BARNEY ROSS

JOHNNY DATTO

REFEREE AL GRAYBER

mark. The chances are the bout would have gone longer but for that loaded right that Datto shot at him. It told Barney the Filipino was dangerous and not to be trifled with, so he was dispatched forthwith.

SHOW OVER IN HOUR

Ross, who scaled an even 135 pounds, the lightweight limit, against 129 pounds for Datto, is to box Billy Petrolle in the Chicago Stadium some time during February if Petrolle can be induced to make a reasonable weight, and a title bout with Canzoneri is pending for this summer during the World Fair in the Windy City. Barney ought to be ready by that time to make a great bid for the crown against the finest champion in the ring today, pound for pound. If he comes back here again soon, don't miss him. He's the classiest piece of fighting machinery we've seen in action in Pittsburgh in a long, long time.

The show was a pip all of the way, with only one of the bouts going the limit. As a result of being started on time, promptly at 8:30 o'clock, and with all intermissions barred, it was over at exactly 9:30, a great break for the fans, especially those who had to come any considerable distance.

Mose Butch, Oakland bantamweight, knocked out Joe Palazzolo, of Detroit, near the end of the second round in much the same manner in which Ross polished off Datto. After flooring Joe for a count of eight and then for no count in the first round, Mose was hurt with a left to the body in the second and had to move around to shake off the effects, whereupon he drove back in to the attack and nailed his man with a right to the jaw that sent him down with head under the lower rope in Mose's corner for the full count. Butch fought as a right-hander and showed up in great style, punching better than ever with his left hand. Most of the fighting was at close quarters, and it was a punchfest all of the way.

Eddie Zivic defeated the promising Johnny Durso in the second bout and had Johnny in a bad way from his rights and left hooks to the head in the closing rounds, while, in the opener, Brother Fritzie Zivic belted around and cut up Georgie Schlee so badly that the referee called a halt after the second round.

DUBLINSKY VS. FALCO

Dublinsky, Falco Win in Philly

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31.—Harry Dublinsky, 137, Chicago, punched out a 10-round decision over Eddie Cool, 134, Philadelphia, in the feature match of a boxing show last night.

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

By GIB MARSH

Most pleasing to Pennsylvania anglers were the reports from Harrisburg that the lawmaking bodies intend to amend the laws for the control of motor boats by including more severe penalties for violations. Now, the anglers are not selfish in their desires for more complete regulations for the operation of motor boats. Much pleasure is derived from them, but the reckless disregard manifested in recent years by motor boat owners for the pleasures of anglers, canoeists, cottage dwellers along the lake fronts and even bathers has been not only a nuisance, but has become a menace.

Time and again, last summer, anglers have been provoked to wrath by the invasion of motor boats speeding along the fishing bars, churning up the water and driving from that section of the fishing grounds all the fish and destroying all possibilities of further fishing for 24 to 48 hours. There was no reason for such close invasion on the fishing bars, among the fishing boats, when there is so much other water surface for the motor boats to speed over. Just as joy-riding in automobiles was a menace prior to the rigid enforcement of traffic laws so has the speeding of motor boats become perilous to canoeists and fishing boats, especially at night.

Hundreds of vacationists journey to the state lakes, especially Conneaut Lake, for rest and recreation, and they desire undisturbed rest at night, but when these joy-riders open up the motors and send the boats over the surface of the water at midnight the occupants of cottages are awakened and the anglers trolling over the fishing bars for salmon suffer nervous attacks in anticipation of being run down

That the fast driving of motor boats scatters all game fish, feeding in the weed beds at night, there is no doubt, for, just as soon as the motor boats are put up at the conclusion of the vacation season, game fish become normal again and are caught in liberal quantities. Likely the new laws will include speed lanes and prevent the invasions of those craft over the fishing bars.

Truly the anglers have had a just complaint in past years.

Between Rounds

Matchmaker Jim Buchanan, of the Arena, is completing the card for his Midget Wolgast-Jackie Wilson non-title bout, Friday night. Bill Nitchy, of the North Side, and Johnny Bayliss, of Donora, middleweights, have been signed for the opener.

Everything is set for the second show at the Moose Temple tomorrow night. Joe Ruggizzoni meets Frankie Gooshy, Charley Baxter boxes Billy Kelly, Anson Green engages Andrew Angelino and Ray Winbush battles Danny Levine in four eight-round bouts, and Georgie Schlee opposes Johnny Hazel in the four-round opener.

Ruggizzoni has boxed Frankie Battaglia twice, Morris Sherman, Tony Cancella and other well-known middleweights.

Dwight Mitchie, Detroit's newest promoter, who takes over the Olympia arena this week, has Billy Wallace against Jimmy Alvarado and Joe Marcus, of Braddock, against Tracy Cox in his two 10-round bouts. Johnny Mitchell, Ernie Maurer and Billy Marrone also are on the card.

Terry Moore, son of Paul Moore, former leading local middleweight, is one of the entrants in the Allegheny Mountain Association junior championship amateur tournament which gets under way Thursday night at the Keystone A. C. He is a welterweight. Sam Crovatta, of Uniontown, brother of Charley Crovatta, who made the Olympic trials last year, is another entrant.

There will be four boxing shows in Philadelphia this week. Eddie Cool and Harry Dublinsky headed a card at the Arena last night; King Levinsky boxes Unknown Winston at the Convention Hall and Jackie Willis meets Jimmy Stewart at the Broadway Club on Thursday, with Vince Forgione meeting Jimmy Rhodes. Bobby Dechter battling Joe Foglietti. Bill Roederer tangling with Johnny Peppe and Nick Venore taking on Vince Guidici in supporting numbers; on the latter card, and Johnny Jadick, the junior-welterweight champion, battles Johnny Lucas at the Cambria Club on Friday.

Sid Silas, the New York lightweight boxer, who campaigned around here for a time, defeated Jimmy Reed in Virginia last week and now is in Savannah, Ga., where he boxes Spagett DeCaro, Thursday night. After the latter bout he will head for Jacksonville, Fla., where he is booked for another engagement.

STATE TO TEST OFFICIALS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Dwindling revenues from basketball games have brought breaks between the scholastic authorities and officials' organizations in Fayette and Erie counties.

In both districts the officials are holding out for fees greater than the schools will pay. Both groups remain firm in their stand and the aid of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association has been enlisted.

As a result the P. I. A. A. will hold a special examination in February to qualify referees who are not affiliated with the Valley board. The examinations will be conducted by H. W. Crane, of Monongahela City, on a date to be set by him.

The same solution applies at Erie.

The Fayette County impasse resulted from a decision by the Youghiogheny Valley board of officials that its members would officiate at no less than $7.50 a game.

The school authorities of the district set $5 as a maximum.

In an effort to settle the dispute, Edmund Wicht, secretary of the P. I. A. A., conferred with officials and school authorities without reaching a basis for compromise.

Jones Urges Grid Rules Alterations

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Howard Harding Jones, who ordinarily keeps his tongue when the matter of football rules changes are discussed, broke his silence today.

The University of Southern California's successful mentor thinks the illegal use of the hands rule should be enforced or abolished, pernicious passing should have a greater penalty and the sideline play should be eliminated

Hickey Calls Confab To Adopt Schedule

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—President Thomas J. Hickey, of the American Association, has called a meeting of the club owners for Chicago on Saturday to adopt a schedule of 154 games for 1933.

The season will open on April 11 and closes on September 10. A new constitution also will be adopted, President Hickey said.

BOXING ENTRY LIST SET

The Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U. today announced an imposing list of entries for the junior boxing championships to be staged in the Keystone Athletic Club, starting on Thursday night and continuing through Friday and Saturday. The finals will be staged Monday night.

Bootleg Athletics In Colleges Feared

CHESTER, Pa., Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Bootleg athletics, Col. Frank K. Hyatt, commandant of Pennsylvania Military College, said today, will creep into college sports if abolition of all athletic scholarships is secured.

In a letter to Dr. A. L. Jones, of Columbia University, secretary of the college commission of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, Col. Hyatt protested the association's effort to secure the abolition of such scholarships by September 1.

The association has warned that members failing to eliminate the practice of assisting athletes financially will be dropped.

Ramage To Box Steve Hamas Again

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Steve Hamas, Passaic, N. J., heavyweight, has been signed to fight Lee Ramage, of San Diego, Cal., in a 10-round bout at the Olympic, February 28.

The two young boxers have met twice. Ramage won the first bout and then dropped a decision to the former Penn State football player in an outdoor fight during the Olympic Games.

SCHOOL HOCKEY CARD SET

Play in the newly-formed Interscholastic Hockey League will get under way in Duquesne Garden on February 20, with the league schedule to be brought to a conclusion one month later.

Games will be played on Mondays and Saturdays, double-headers being carded for each evening. The league is composed of Central Catholic High, Arnold Prep, Dormont and the University School. The University School team has replaced Shady Side Academy, which has withdrawn.

In the opening games, Catholic will meet Arnold and Dormont will take on the University skaters. Central Catholic will be coached by Pinky Martin; Dormont by Frank McSorley; University by John McSorley, and Arnold by Terry McGovern. The following have been named officials: Pete Heslip and John McGreevy, timers; Ed Taggaret, scorer, and Harold Ake and John Deni, goal judges.

February 20, Catholic High vs. Arnold. Dormont vs University; February 25, Dormont vs. Arnold, University vs. Catholic High; February 26, Catholic High vs. Arnold, University vs Dormont; March 4, Arnold vs. University, Dormont vs. Catholic High; March 6, University vs. Catholic High, Arnold vs. Dormont; March 11, Arnold vs. Catholic High, Dormont vs. University; March 13, Catholic High vs. Arnold, University vs. Dormont; March 18, Catholic High vs. Arnold, University vs. Dormont; March 20, Catholic High vs. University, Dormont vs. Arnold.

POP PREDICTS TEMPLE'S RISE

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, who combines landscape painting and business with his career as a football coach, believes that on the gridiron a good little man may be just as valuable as a good big man.

Thus, the "old fox," new head grid coach at Temple University, exploded one of the countless preferences and characteristics attributed to him when told that the football material at Temple may be lighter than that he has been handling at Stanford and elsewhere, Warner said:

"The size of the material does not change the fundamentals of football. If a little man can do the things required of him, he can have a position on any team I coach.

Warner, here on his first visit to Philadelphia since accepting the new berth at Temple, held a brief pow-wow with the university officials yesterday. Predicting great things for Temple in a football way, he announced his approval of night games, declined to commit himself as to the assistants he will have and banned secret spring practices. Pop said:

"Temple is the college of opportunity for me. Conditions are favorable for developing the university into a prominent contender for national football prestige. We should be able to tackle the biggest teams in the East within a couple of years.

"Temple is at the same point in an athletic way as was Pittsburgh when I first took up coaching duties at that institution.

2 Oakmont Golfers On Rules Committee

Two Pittsburghers are listed among the members of the subcommittees of the United States Golf Association. They are J. Frederick Byers and William C. Fownes, Jr., both members of the Oakmont Country Club.

I. K. S. PASSERS CARD EAGLES

The Irene Kaufmann Settlement House basketball team, undefeated this season, will meet the Connellsville Eagles at home Friday night. In the preliminary game, the I. K. S. Reserves will meet Rankin Christian Center in a West Penn League fray.

Saturday night the I. K. S. team will be the attraction of the Monessen Five at Monessen.

The I. K. S. is open for a practice game tomorrow night. Call Ziggy Kahn, Grant 0850.

Promoter Johnny Freund is completing plans for the invasions of the Rosenblums-Celtics and the House of David passers, both of which will play a series of games in this district.

The Rosenblums will open their stay by playing Paterson N. J. in an American League game one week from Thursday and the House of David team will engage a team of all-stars the following Saturday.

Floor Notes

The Y. M. H. A. will seek revenge for a defeat suffered earlier in the season when it meets St. Stanislaus Club, of Youngstown, at the Y. M. H. A. floor. The reserves meet Goodwill Community in the preliminary.

The Red Shields team will battle the St. Joseph Celts tonight on the Mt. Oliver floor. The St. Joseph Ponies will meet the Keystone Cubs in the preliminary game at 8 o'clock.

Sportsmen Elect In Greensburg

C. H. Wentzell was named president, Percy Smith, vice president and Richard Trimbel, secretary-treasurer. The rifle committee elected the following officers: President, A. B. Rask; vice president, William Sarvey, and secretary, Richard Trimbel.

Various bills, affecting sportsmen, and impending before the State Legislature, were discussed. Tentative plans were made for a field trial for beagle hounds.

WYKOFF TRIES BOARDS FOR FIRST TIME

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Frank Wykoff, sandy-haired youngster, who had his turn at being the "world's fastest human," pulled on his first pair of indoor spiked shoes yesterday, tried a wooden indoor track for the first time in his life, and came away slightly mixed in his emotions.

The day provided the Pacific Coast flier, who finished his scholastic career at Southern California last week and headed east for his first crack at indoor sprinting, with several "firsts."

He said:

"It feels pretty under foot, but that wind—grr—I've never been so cold in all my life."

TAKES TO BOARDS

He bought his first pair of indoor spiked shoes, ran on an indoor track outdoors in the bitter winds that swept New York University's track playground, went uptown to the East Side of New York on the West Side subway, got lost several times on the way and was extricated by kindly policemen, and wound up his workout with a half dozen impromptu victories on boards—all new experiences.

For a full hour, in cold that chilled his California bones to the marrow, Wykoff, who once ran 100 yards in 9.4 seconds and several times breezed the distance in 9.5, prepared for his indoor debut at the Millrose A. A. games in Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

He seemed to take to the boards nicely. Sprinting informally against George Weinstein, indoor intercollegiate champion at 70 yards, and Kunitzky, a N. Y. U. sophomore who holds the junior Metropolitan A. A. U. 220-yard title, Wykoff easily picked up a full stride on both within 30 yards each time they broke together from the mark. He said:

"It's a lot different from running on cinders, of course. You have to start with your feet closer together, to get the full benefit of the spikes. Your body can't lean so far forward as on cinders because if you ever drive down and only your toes hit, the spikes won't hold and you spill.

"I don't know how it will work out, but I'll find out all about it Saturday night."

NAMES FIRST 10

Wykoff named the list of those he has raced since the day he leaped to fame as a schoolboy phenomenon by beating Charley Paddock at 100 and 200 yards on the same afternoon in California eight years ago. Here's his first 10, with the modesty that assails all champions upon such occasions forbidding any placing of himself:

1—Eddie Tolan, world record 10.3 for 100 meters, and 21.2 for 200 meters.
6—Percy Williams, 10.3 for 100 meters, world record; 21.8 for 200 meters.
7—Bob Kiesel, 9.5 for 100 yards; 10.4 for 100 meters.
8—Charlie Borah, 9.6 for 100 yards; 20.9 for 220 yards.
9—Hec Dyer, 20.8 for 220 yards.
10—Bob McAllister, 65 meters indoors, 7.2, and 100 meters, indoors, 10.8.

CUE LEADERS PLAY TODAY

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Welker Cochran, of San Francisco, and J. N. Bozeman, Jr., of Vallejo, Cal., sharers of the lead in the world three cushion billiards championship tournament, shined up their cues for what promised to be their most serious tests today.

Cochran was pitted against Augie Kieckhefer, little Chicago southpaw, who last night was bounced out of the title picture by Johnny Layton, of Sedalia, Mo., and Bozeman had Layton himself, for his foe. In the opening match Tiff Denton, of Kansas City, and Clarence Jackson, of Detroit, were opposed.

Layton took advantage of a feeble start by Kieckhefer last night to ruin the defending champion's chances of repeating winning 50 to 33 in 47 innings.

SCHOOL FIVES FACE NON-LOOP FRAYS TODAY

By JULIUS LEVIN

Scholastic basketball teams in Western Pennsylvania suspend their league activities for non-league battles this afternoon and this evening. In the majority of the cases, however, teams enrolled in the City League and the W. P. I. A. L. will remain idle until Friday, when the second half of the season gets under way.

While contests are scheduled in the Junior W. P. I. A. L. and the Catholic High School League, the major portion of interest centers on the outcome of non-league battles involving some of the leading teams in the district.

Bellevue, undefeated in Section II, hopes to keep its slate clean by defeating Zelienople at Bellevue. Bellevue has not been defeated since it dropped its opener to Fifth Avenue High.

Monessen and Ambridge should present an interesting duel at Ambridge. It is a return engagement, Ambridge having won the first encounter. Monessen is setting the pace in Section V, while Ambridge is the leader in Section IV.

MONTAGNA STOPPED

Utility Issues Decline As Rate Cut Rumors Spread Again.

Utility shares ran into another wave of selling, apparently largely in the form of liquidation. Power and light stocks as a group have been subjected to recurrent liquidation since the turn of the year, and generally speaking have given a poor performance market-wise. The selling is unquestionably an outgrowth of reports which have been revived time and again of the prospect for sizeable rate reductions, and the clamor for such action is becoming increasingly widespread. The cut in electric rates put into effect in Philadelphia, the eleventh major downward adjustment in that area since 1922, presumably is regarded as the forerunner of a general movement in the same direction.

Under the impetus of the unexpectedly favorable showing of December operating returns, railroad shares continued to forge ahead through the early part of today's session. Strength was quite uniform through the group though Delaware & Hudson and Louisville & Nashville stood out as features. The returns of the first 64 roads to report for last month showed that net operating income of those carriers had run 13.7 per cent ahead of the closing month of 1931, this despite the fact that gross for the month averaged 15 per cent less than in December the year before. The reduction in gross compared with a lag of 17½ per cent reported for November by contrast with the same month in 1931.

In response to private cabled inquiries from New York, one of the leading German banking institutions reports that the Berlin financial community sees no reason for apprehension in the creation of a cabinet headed by Adolf Hitler. The general attitude of the cabinet is taken to preclude currency or economic experiments, and the firm tone of the Berlin stock market is testimony to the confidence with which the outlook is being viewed.

Edward J. Cornish, president of the National Lead Company, stated that in order to pay the common dividend for last year it was necessary to take out of surplus $572,937. He said: "We are in hopes that the decrease in controllable expenses, the more stable condition in the metal market and improvement in business may enable the company to maintain a 5 per cent dividend on its common stock. Many stockholders are dependent upon their dividends for their livelihood. A decrease in the dividend rate on the common would be most regrettable, but must be made unless there is an improvement in earnings."

Coming on the day set for action on the steel preferred dividend, remarks of E. J. Cornish, president of National Lead, on the matter of dividend payments, attracted attention in the financial community. Referring to his own company, he said "nothing but dire necessity" would cause the dividend on the preferred stock to be passed, and thus destroy its good will value that has been built up during the last 40 years. National Lead has always been noted for its conservatism. Statistics show that during the prosperous years 1926-1929 inclusive the company gathered in total net income of $30,029,357, of which about 49.5 per cent was disbursed in dividends to shareholders and the balance, $15,176,642, carried to surplus.

News of the coission of the quarterly dividend on Studebaker preferred was not the occasion for surprise. The stock sold recently on a basis to return an indicated yield of nearly 32 per cent and the company reported a loss of some $4,390,538 for the first nine months of 1932, so it was plain that further payments were open to question notwithstanding the comparatively satisfactory current financial condition of the company.

Big Banks Offer Rail Bond Issue

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—The first public railroad financing for several months was announced today by J. P. Morgan & Co., involving an offering of $12,000,000 Cincinnati Union Terminal first mortgage bonds, due in 1957, at par.

Participating with the Morgan firm in the offering are Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the First National Bank and the National City Company.

Coast Paramount Receivers Sought

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Two petitions for appointment of ancillary receivers for the Paramount-Publix Corporation, in California, were filed in the Federal Court yesterday.

The petitions, the first filed by William Boal, of New York, and the second by the E. W. Reynolds Company, a creditor, followed the appointment of receivers in equity for the $166,000,000 film concern in New York last week.

DEBT GREATEST OBSTACLE TO RECOVERY

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Although we all keenly desire an early business recovery, we must see that several obstacles lie in the way. These obstacles can be overcome, but in order to do that we must face them frankly.

We must examine them, not pessimistically, but with a spirit of reasonable happiness. When we want to climb a mountain we first study the difficulties.

Superficially, the big obstacle seems to be lack of confidence. But why do people lack confidence? When we ask that question, we at once come to such matters as money, credit, banks and political conditions.

DEBT GREATEST HANDICAP

We find that the obstacles to a return of confidence are the same as the underlying obstacles to business recovery. Let us list them carefully.

1—The first and biggest obstacle is debt. It almost seems that everybody owes everybody else. At the same time that individuals and corporations are burdened with mortgages, loans and current and fixed charges, their governments are staggering under growing loads of debts. Debtors don't know what to do. Creditors are tied up and don't know where they stand. So business plans drag.

2—Heavy taxes are closely connected with debt. Something like a third of the nation's income goes for taxes. And about one-fifth of the federal taxes go to pay interest on debt.

A large part of any sound business expansion must come out of savings; but taxes are eating up our savings.

CREDIT FROZEN

3—Frozen business credit comes next. By attempting to "save" insolvent enterprises, and to borrow ourselves out of debt, we have kept credit from being liquidated. And the growing mass of government "bonds" is really just another form of frozen credit.

4—Maladjustments among prices are still an important obstacle. They not only restrict trading directly, but they also bring maladjustments in the incomes of various classes, notably in case of farmers. (Among prices, I include not only commodities, such as steel, but also freight rates, wages and securities.)

5—The heavy surplus stocks of many basic commodities constitute another obstacle, tending to keep prices depressed and credit tied up. Copper, cotton, wheat and vegetables oils may be mentioned.

6—Various trade barriers slow up business. These include exchange restrictions, price maintenance schemes, etc.

CAPITAL VALUES HIGH

7—The existing incomplete readjustment of capital values and fixed charges is one of the most important obstacles. The investment accounts and capitalizations of a good many railways, real estate properties and industrial corporations are not scaled down to fit the prices and earnings which are current or in prospect.

The result is that concerns which might make money continue in the red. Uncertainty and frozen credit go hand in hand with this condition.

Some of them have been reduced, such as price maladjustments, stocks of commodities and inflated capital values. The issues involved in several of the unsound economic ideas are getting clearer to the public mind, and that means hope of a solution. But they still exist.

NEW AERO DEAL UNDER WAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(Universal).—Within the next few days an announcement of the merger of North American Aviation Company and General Aviation Corporation will be made public, it is learned.

The merger will create the largest single transcontinental airline in the country, and will give the new company control of the largest group of plane and part manufacturers in the United States.

The moving force behind the deal is understood to be L. T. Cohu, who quit the presidency of Aviation Corporation of America after losing fight for its control to E. L. Cord. Cohu, it is understood has purchased control of North American Aviation since quitting Aviation Corporation, and has negotiated with General Motors Corporation, owner of General Aviation, for a combination of the two.

North American owns Eastern Air Transport, which operates the only lines in the east, south of Washington, together with 100 per cent ownership in B. J. Company, which has been making army planes; 20 per cent in Douglas Aircraft Manufacturers, and 10 per cent of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation. It also owns 25 per cent interest in Transcontinental Air Transport.

BRUSH CAREFUL ON OUTLOOK

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Matthew C. Brush, president of American International Corporation told stockholders at the annual meeting that the break-up value of the company's shares was $3.81 a share as of January 30, compared with $3.40 as of December 31, 1932. Directors were re-elected.

Stockholders approved the reduction in stated value of the stock to one dollar a share from $15.

Mr. Brush said he was inclined to be cautious regarding the future until he had a chance to see what the new administration would do when it went into office. He said:

"I don't think there ever was a time when your financial and business situation depended more on what is accomplished at Washington."

WHAT YOU ARE JUSTIFIED IN DEMANDING OF YOUR BANK

THERE are three principal things which every depositor is justified in demanding of his bank.

1. Strength—which alone can inspire confidence and create the knowledge of security.
2. Ample facilities—wide enough and varied enough to insure the efficient and expeditious handling of all types of financial business.
3. Satisfactory service—rendered promptly and courteously at all times.

The strength and facilities of The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, the high type of service which it is our constant endeavor to render, make this institution especially well qualified to meet these justifiable demands of its customers. We cordially invite you to visit us and become acquainted.

WASHINGTON AND FORBES DISPUTE THE ROUTE TO FORT DU QUESNE

EARLY in July, 1758, General Forbes, on his memorable march from Philadelphia to attack the French at Fort du Quesne, reached the hamlet of Raystown (now Bedford). Here the question as to the route to be taken for the remainder of the journey had to be decided. The way directly ahead was shorter, but meant cutting a road, foot by foot, through dense forest over Laurel Hill. The alternative route was via Fort Cumberland, thirty-five miles to the south, thence over the road cut three years earlier by General Braddock, on his ill-fated expedition against the French and Indians. The young Colonel George Washington, because of his experience in the Braddock expedition, recommended the latter. After some dispute, however, General Forbes chose the shorter way. The road so laboriously hacked through the forest and over the mountains paralleled and in many places coincided with the route of the present Lincoln Highway.

STEEL DIVIDEND ACTION WAITED BY STOCKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—The approach of important dividend actions kept speculative activity in check in today's stock market, and prices continued to fluctuate narrowly and irregularly.

The announcement of the decision on United States Steel's preferred dividend, and on Borden's common distribution, were expected after the close of the market. In the meantime however, there was some bullish activity in the rails, while utilities were again inclined to sag. Trading was in small volume.

The shifting of speculative activity from the utilities to the rails, which has been indicated in recent sessions, is in distinct contrast to the tendency of recent years, and presumably reflects discussions in legislative quarters of aiding the railroads, while imposing more effective regulation of utilities. Among developments tending to help the carrier issues today were the passage by the House of Representatives of the bankruptcy act, tending to facilitate reorganizations; news that the National Transportation Committee had virtually completed its report.

Wall Street had been prepared for a change in United States Steel preferred dividend, and for an unsatisfactory report for the fourth quarter, but traders were distinctly inclined to stick to the sidelines until the news was out of the way. Brokers were inclined to feel that the market had fully discounted a cut in the $7 rate to $4 or $5, and that any market unsettlement which might follow omission of the dividend would be short-lived.

The Communist threat of a general strike in Berlin as result of the Nazi cabinet being so bitterly opposed by the more radical elements, was watched in international banking quarters with keen interest. There was a tendency to take an optimistic view, however. Prominent banking quarters in Wall Street were particularly pleased with the prospect of the return of Dr. Schacht as head of the Reichsbank.

TRADE DEMAND AIDS COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Cotton futures opened steady, ¼ point decline, in response to lower Liverpool cables, which was partly offset by a good trade demand. March, 5.99; May, 6.12; July, 6.25; October, 6.42; December, 6.54; January, 6.60.

March sold off to 5.97 and July to 6.23, making net decline of about 2 to 4 points at the end of the first half hour.

Liquidation which appeared to be from both foreign and domestic account continued later in the morning but little southern selling developed and offerings were absorbed by trade demand. March sold off to 5.96 and July to 6.21 or about 4 to 5 points net lower. The market at midday was steady within a point or two of these figures.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 31.—Cotton, 9,000 bales, American nil. Spot moderate business done; prices 11 points lower; quotations in pence: American strict good middling 5.70; good middling 5.40; strict middling 5.15; middling 5.00; strict low middling 4.85; low middling 4.70; strict good ordinary 4.50; good ordinary 4.20. Futures closed quiet and steady. March 4.78; May 4.81; July 4.83; October 4.88; December 4.91.

Court Dismisses Mexico Bond Suit

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—The Mexican government today won dismissal of a Supreme Court action brought by Thomas W. Lamont, as chairman of the International Committee of Bankers on Mexico, concerning the ownership of $7,500,000 interest on defaulted Mexican bonds.

The suit was brought by the Lamont committee to obtain a ruling on how it should distribute the money among thousands of bondholders.

Union Switch Fights Verdict on Patent

CINCINNATI, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—The Union Switch and Signal Company of Swissvale, Pa., has filed an appeal in United States Circuit Court of Appeals from a decision dimissing its patent infringement suit against the Louisville (Ky.) Frog, Switch and Signal Company.

The lower court, in dismissing the suit, held the patent covering alleged improvements in electrical signaling devices known as "flashing relays," was invalid.

BOTTOMLEY, FRISCH BALK AT TERMS

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Baseball's winter complaint, holdout fever, has struck in two new quarters.

Frankie Frisch, veteran second baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Jim Bottomley, of the Cincinnati Reds, both have revealed dissatisfaction with the terms offered them for 1933. Frisch said:

"I'm not going to send my contract back, but neither am I going to sign it. I think it can be straightened out more satisfactorily in a conference with Sam Breadon and Branch Rickey than through the mails."

JIM GETS $5,000 CUT

Frisch declined to say what the contract called for, but in view of the Cardinals' announced policy of big salary slices, some baseball observers believed Frank probably had not been offered much more than half the $18,500 he was reported to have received last season.

Bottomley, sent to the Reds by the Cardinals during the off-season, said he had been offered a contract for $8,000, a cut of $5,000, which he maintains was too much.

YANKS SIGN SIX

Without any comment upon the reports that John Allen, sophomore pitching star, had joined the holdout ranks, along with Outfielder Ben Chapman, the New York Yankees disclosed the receipt of signed contracts for 1933 from six members of the shock troops. Allen, it seems, wants a bigger raise.

The latest in the fold are Lyn Lary and Bill Werber, infielders, the latter recalled from Buffalo; Sammy Byrd, the golfing outfielder; Wiley Moore, veteran pitcher; Walter Brown, speedball pitcher, who developed fast in the closing stages of last season, and Marvin Duke, recruit righthander, who won 23 games for Erie in the Central League.

The Giants added Bill Shores to the list of those with signed contracts in the office strong box. Shores, formerly with the Athletics, won 19 and lost 11 with the championship Portland club of the Pacific Coast League last year.

WARES TAKEN BACK

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Branch Rickey, vice-president of the St. Louis Cardinals, said that Clyde Wares, whose release was announced last week, had been re-engaged as a Cardinal coach for the 1933 season. Wares was coach for the Cardinals the past two seasons.

BUCS LAUDED BY PREXY

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 31.—The possibilities of the Pittsburgh Pirates for this year were discussed before the Kiwanis Club of Butler at a Sports Night program by William Benswanger, the president of the Pirates, last night.

He spoke of the club's ability last year and said that he felt that the team had given a good account of itself. In speaking of the signing of Fred Lindstrom he said that there was never a team so strong that it couldn't be stronger. The Pittsburgh president also paid tribute to the American Legion's program for boys.

Honus Wagner, famous shortstop of the Pirates, in a short talk, said that present day baseball was faster than in the old, that the ball was livlier, the fences shorter and they handicapped the pitcher by the elimination of the spit, shine and emery ball. Charles J. Doyle, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph sports staff reminisced regarding outstanding players in the major leagues. Tony Piet, second baseman of the Pirates, also gave a short address. Approximately 100 sport fans of Butler attended.

St. John's Quintet Meets Ferris Club

One of the high spots of the basketball season on the South Side will be reached tonight, when the crack team of St. John's R. C. Church, of which the Rev. Father Edward J. Moriarty is pastor, meets the Frank Ferris club five at the South Side Market House.

It will be the first contest in a two-game home-and-home series that is of special interest because it provides a test of strength between rival leagues, St. John's representing the South Side Catholic Lyceum loop, while the Ferris club is a member of the Greater Pittsburgh circuit. The second game will be played on the Ferris club floor on a date to be announced later.

Taylor Beats Devlin In Butler Bout

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 31.—Jackie Taylor, of Kittanning, defeated Mickey Devlin, of New Kensington, in one of the outstanding bouts at the Y. M. C. A.'s amateur boxing show here last night. Taylor was awarded the bout after loosening a two-fisted attack in the third round.

AUSSIES REVEAL REPLY

MELBOURNE, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—The Australian Cricket Club Board of Control today made public its answer to the Marylebone Cricket Club in which it reiterated its declaration that the "body line" bowling of the English test match team was opposed to the spirit of cricket and dangerous to the players. The Board of Control advised, however, that it saw no necessity for cancelation of the remaining two tests.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Moderate rallying tendencies appeared in some sections of the bond market today, but progress generally was restricted to a fractional range. German government loans and domestic railway maturities exhibited the most recuperative powers while the majority of the utilities and industrials were barely steady. The United States government list was mixed and dull.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column; United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

CHAPTER II.

The thing to do, of course, was to be jolly. Make it a pleasant evening. Sue was always jolly enough, doggone it. Here she sat, close beside him, comfortable (she was always that), with her arm thrown carelessly behind his shoulders on the seat, all ready to go, as the saying is, and yet he couldn't so much as open his head.

Finally she asked, "Anything the matter?" The deep, musical note in her voice, as always lately, seemed to penetrate his very marrow. He couldn't frame a reply. Just drove on.

"No." He got that out.

"Well . . . if I've done something you don't like, why not come out with it?"

"You haven't." He drove fiercely on. And she offered nothing further. But he felt (and hated himself for it) a curiously bristling character in the very air about them.

He was heading out into the country, up along the river. That road was a popular haven for parking couples—a fact he'd ordinarily resent—but on this occasion he didn't care. He slowed down, eyeing the roadside where the trees and undergrowth grew most thickly; and Sue eyed him, covertly. Finally he picked his spot, a sort of alcove among the trees, and swinging off the road, stopped the motor and switched off the lights.

THREAT CARRIED OUT

He turned on her with an odd sort of ferocity. He was trembling, but that didn't matter. He blurted out—"I'm going to kiss you!"

Why didn't she say something. She didn't. She merely sat motionless with her slender hands clasped in her lap. So he broke out again..."Well?"

She said, "I don't mind, Charlie. I like kissing."

That stung him. Stirred up queer resistances. Prejudices. Race memories, possibly. For a moment, he actually considered driving her straight back home. So she took it as lightly as that! Still, girls were like that nowadays. You had to face it. He mustn't let himself be unfair about it.

He flung his arms about her slim shoulders. With that same ferocity, as if afraid she might fight him off. But she didn't. Her lips clung to his. Her hands crept up and caught at his shoulders . . .He'd been all stirred up, fairly torn to pieces, over what, it now appeared, was next to nothing at all. He could have kissed her any old time. She wouldn't have minded. She liked kissing.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE

"It's more than that!" He needn't scold her. "Oh Sue, it means that I'm crazy about you and want to marry you and . . . Oh God, how can I say all I . . . I'll say this, you'll marry me or nobody! If any other man got you I think I'd kill him . . . I'm not much. I know that! But I'll make something of myself. I'll fight, slave, for you. Twenty-five a week isn't much to marry on. God knows . . . there's a little more . . . my mother's estate . . . only about $8,000 altogether. It brings in a few hundred a year." His mouth was so dry he couldn't say more. He still held her shoulders in that frantic grip.

When he relaxed it she moved; but nearer, not away. But he wasn't sure, even then, until he heard what she seemed to be saying—"I've supposed we might, of course, one of these days. We've seemed to be going that way."

"Sue, you don't mean you'll . . . you're not saying you'll . . . For God's sake, come out straight with it! Will you marry me? Will you fight it out with me? Children and everything?"

"Yes, Charlie, I'll marry you."

"But"—he was sputtering; protesting, you'd almost think—"the whole thing doesn't came to $32 a week!"

"I've never been afraid of work, Charlie."

"Of course, it'll mean scrimping. But it'll be fun."

So! He'd been fighting windmills! She was on his side all the time. He gathered her into his arms again and she clung to him—frankly, happily.

LEAVES RELUCTANTLY

It was after midnight when the car slowed down by the Hemingways' hedge. Not so good for catching the 7:26 in the morning. But what was the 7:26 when the very stars were dancing in the heavens!

"Darling, sit out here a while!"

"Please go! I'll see you tomorrow evening . . . That's funny!"

"What's funny?"

"The folks are still up. Lights burning all over the house."

"No. You go along home. I'm afraid something's happened . . . Well, only one! . . . Now, that's good night! And listen—I love you!"

In his room at Mrs. Pinkham's boarding-house he sat—after all that—on the edge of his bed. Coatless, collarless, shoeless. Drunk with a nectar that no bootlegger will ever carry in stock. He had tossed the evening paper on the bed when he came in at dinner-time. Now he spread it out on the pillow and looked at it with eyes that were incapable of taking in the most blatant headlines ever printed . . . Oh, somebody'd been murdered. The Coast Guard were shooting yachtsmen on Lake Erie. Federals were retreating in Mexico. There was a huge heart-balm suit against a millionaire. And out in California, Lucky Lou Stinson had died; suddenly, of a stroke. Leaving millions. They didn't know yet just how many millions.

LEAVES VAST FORTUNE

Charlie's dazed, ecstatic brain caught next to nothing of all this. Oh, he knew of Lucky Lou, naturally. Everybody did. But even if he'd read all those exciting columns through, he wouldn't have known of the shakily scrawled, undated crumpled note that was found beside the wasted adventurer—right there in his bed. That hadn't flashed over the wires in the first bald announcement as it reached the afternoon papers. The morning editions would have it. It read—the whole newspaper-reading world would know it at breakfast—"Everything I own can go to my cousin, Edmund J. Hemingway, Coventry, Mass."

The Hemingways had never mentioned his name.

On the following afternoon, when he caught the Coventry train, Charlie's one thought (again) was to sit alone. So once again he entered the smoker. And there, in the dingy, smelly old car, the first man he saw (and the last he wanted to see) was Mr. Hemingway. Sitting alone, too; smiling—with a shy, nervous light in his eyes—and moving over to make room. There was nothing for it but to sit in beside him.

Charlie'd had a tough day. At breakfast, the boarding house blazed with the news about the Hemingways. Millions! Actually millions! It had come upon the quiet New England village like a thunderbolt. It was bizarre. It was thrilling. Charlie's first confused impulse had been to call Sue on the telephone and assure himself that it wasn't going to make a difference. But it was too early—only a little after seven. And Sue's mother always let her lie in bed in the morning, and sleep.

MILLIONAIRES OVER NIGHT

All the way into Boston on the train, his bewildered eyes struggled to read the half-page story—but without much success. There were pictures—Lou Stinson, as a young prospector, as a gambler in the Klondike, as a man of affairs! one of his greatest racers, Jeb, a beautiful horse; and one of Mr. Hemingway, the sole living relation of Lou Stinson. Right on the front page, that one. It was probably just as well that he hadn't called Sue. How could she tell whether it would make a difference? Now that the day was a little older, he knew it would. Bound to. Heaven alone could guess how much.

Charlie's daily job consisted in helping the shipping clerk at the little factory in Boston. He kept tab on stock—nothing but soles of shoes, rights and lefts, cut from strips of hide and packed in cases and barrels; he saw to the packing of shipments, checking up the stock numbers and making out the tags—all day long, just getting out cases and barrels of rights and lefts. With Mr. Wilkins, the senior partner, a frown on his keen face, prying about at the most unexpected moments. How he'd kept his mind on addresses and stock numbers, he hadn't an idea. It had been a mad sort of day. A surging, rebellious day. Sue's family were millionaires, overnight! While he, doomed to handle endless thousands of leather soles, could only hope for a small raise some day. Or find a way to strike out for himself.

But here he was with Mr. Hemingway. Had Sue told? Oh, about the trifling matter of her engagement? Perhaps not. She must have run into a pretty excited atmosphere.

Mr. Hemingway, remarking (in a small, jerky voice) that it looked like a nice spring evening, was unwrapping a rectangular parcel. A box of cigars. And what a box! Charlie's jaw dropped an instant, in sheer amazement. He knew what that brand cost over the counter. Sixty cents apiece, that was all! He'd never had such a smoke. But now he took one.

"I don't often smoke anything as heavy as this before dinner," said Mr. Hemingway, "but thought I would tonight. You've seen the papers, I imagine."

"Yes. Oh yes. Mr. Hemingway"—Charlie couldn't talk about that—"did Sue tell you and Mrs. Hemingway last night?"

"Tell us?" Tell us what?"

There was a silence. Charlie couldn't help glancing sidelong. He was very near the boiling point, but couldn't help that. Did the father object? The silence had seemed ominous. But no, he was slowly nodding; twisting the unlighted cigar around in his mouth and slowly nodding.

Charlie, in a breathless state, produced one.

Synopsis

Now Go On

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

By EVELYN PARKER
Official Junior Reporter Manor Chapter.

George Keck, of Wilkins avenue, was the honored guest at a party Saturday night. George recently graduated from grammar school and entered Allderdice High School yesterday. All the members of his graduating class were present.

Here are four members of the Manor Chapter who are doing their bit to help the poor. Betty Rapen, Ruth Bennett, Roberta Blary and Jean Schwartz have organized a sewing club. They meet every Monday after school and sew different articles for the poor.

Jane Kandle who recently moved here from Chicago joined the Manor Chapter of the Junior Komic Club last week. Jane promises to be a regular attendant at the Saturday morning meetings.

Some of the other new members who joined last week are: John Little, Doris Schwartz, Betty Large, Jone Kandle and many others.

Every member of the Manor Chapter has a hobby of some kind or other. Jean Tenenbaum, Marcelle Rice and Myrille Nevins are saving pictures of motion picture stars. Many of the members have contributed to their collections. Manager Joe Blowitz is planning to exhibit these pictures at one of the meetings real soon.

The members of the club received a letter from Maxine Rauch, former member, who has been living in South Bend, Ind., for the past four or five months. Maxine writes that her dad is planning to move back to Pittsburgh and she is anxiously awaiting the day when she can again attend the Komic Club meetings.

Little Bobby Kahn, of Fair Oaks street, is one youngster who is happy to report that he completely recovered from a severe attack of the "flu." He was present at the meeting Saturday.

Eleanor Oshry gave a party Saturday night for some of the members. Sandwiches, cake and ice cream were served. Elaine Breskow, Harold Cohen, Milton Morris, Bernice Arnheim, Gerald Goodman and many others attended.

Burton Hirch was discharged from the hospital last week. Burton more than a month ago broke a leg. He is still on crutches but able to attend the meetings. He expects to return to school next week.

Here's a special item which will interest the boys and girls of East Liberty. Remember the Enright is having a FREE show for boys and girls next Saturday at 9:30 a. m. You don't have to be a member of the Junior Komic Club to attend. It will be a wonderful opportunity to join. Manager Frank Roberts and his staff will be on hand to receive your application, and give you your membership card and button.

Belmar: Betty Jane Laird, Armeda Martiner, Edward Gibson, Eugene Schweibinz, Madeline Wilson, Jack Ferguson, Robert Callahan, James Good, Romayne Carroll, Robert Burke, Nick Bochicchio, Margaret Sullivan, William Harting.

Plaza: Herbert Kwart, Ann Thomas.

Kenyon: Helen Elzen.

Manor: Selloyn Trust, Norman Yutkovitz.

South Hills: Catherine Schwchart, Florence O'Connar, John McDonnell.

New York Getting Queer and Warmer

The scientists buzz us that the gulf stream is sweeping in toward Sandy Hook. In about 10 years the Statue of Liberty will be able to take a hot foot bath on Saturday nights.

It would be strange if the climate changed entirely and New York turned out to be California. The winters are getting warmer and warmier.

We can hock the clock ahead and see palm trees growing on the bowery. Coppers in tropical shorts chasing sunburned bums through the rice fields in Union Square.

Only one snow cleaning contract reached a million dollars this winter, although the boys wanted to keep on shoveling until they reached two million.

There was a time when a snow cleaning contract was better than money in the bank with the cashier handcuffed to the board of directors.

But since the economy wave started they ain't allowing extra for expensive weather in the budget.

While the Eastern climate is getting more comfy and form fitting we haven't reached the stage where we can grow our own cocoanuts and grapefruit. Gulf stream or no gulf stream, any debutante can tell you that it will never get too warm for ermine and mink.

We're just waiting for a Californian to totter east so we can start a boasting tournament about the weather. Our best barbers are now charging 50 cents for a hair cut, 15 cents for a shave and 60 cents for Spanish moss.

At the present rate of atmospherical barbecueing we figure that around 1980 some of our toughest New Yorkers will be sleeping with the windows open and their sox off.

We concede that Florida and California still have an edge on us. At our last flower festival we had to fill in with endives and canned tomatoes. But we'll get there yet.

A MIGHTY GOOD IDEA.

(Walker, Minn., Pilot.)

Ordered by council to make Main Street acceptable for use, workmen this week finished a new curb through the business district. The sidewalks, after the reduction, are 10 feet wide, instead of 15; the road is 10 feet wider.

Tobacco munchers, with a spitting range of approximately five feet, formerly had to take five steps to get from the barber shop to a safe distance of the curb, when the sidewalks were 15 feet wide. Now three steps is more than enough.

Expert spitters, with a range of ten feet in fair weather, can now clear the curb without bothering to move from their chairs. Also, the danger of hitting the sidewalk on the opposite side of the street is considerably lessened by the additional ten feet between curbs.

And pay off every debt
With some new form of currency
That's easier to get.
For instance, wooden nickels
Might about just do the trick,
We could sit around and whittle
Our spare change from off a stick;
With such convenient currency
As cord wood used for dough
We'd saw off all our mortgages
And chop down all we owe.

Wonderland Debts!

The British Memorandum Shows a Topsy Turvy View of the Situation.

The latest British note on war debts suggests that the world has been glancing at the subject through the looking glass.

Nothing which Alice saw in Wonderland was more topsy turvy than the logic of the British memorandum accepting with reservations the invitation to send a representative over here to discuss Britain's debt to the United States Treasury after March 4.

The debtor, instead of pursuing the humble course of one who purports to be unable to live up to his contract, by implication haughtily undertakes to dictate the terms of an adjustment.

As a matter of fact, in view of the declaration of the American Congress against cancellation or reduction of war debts, it is at least open to question whether any such parleys are necessary or desirable.

Yet, in deference to American public opinion, they evidently indicated that there must be a quid pro quo for any further concessions.

But, though pleading poverty, the British government still wants to run the show in world affairs.

As to the suggestion of trading, the British government declared:

"It will be recognized that decisions on matters which constitute the subject of the approaching world economic conference and which affect other states cannot be reached before discussions that take place at that conference between all the states represented there."

The effrontery of this reservation passes all understanding.

Evidently the British position is something like this: "Uncle Shylock" should knock down the British war debt to a nominal figure. It should thus transfer the burden of payment from the British to the American taxpayers. It should do this without any compensatory arrangements. Such broad general questions of tariff and currency can be discussed later in a general conference overweighted with Europeans.

The intemperance of this British note will astound and shock even those who affect a maudlin sentimental interest here in Britain's position.

In effect, the note says that His Majesty's government will consent to accepting virtual remission of its debt, but it will insist on getting the reduction on its own terms.

The absurdity of the position, with its obvious intent to re-establish the broken united front among the debtors, should encourage clear thinking in the United States on the question of war debts.

Britain's reluctance to give compensatory advantages should strengthen the decision of the United States to adhere to the position that Congress clearly laid down, namely to insist on payment.

In view of changed conditions of world economics, with economic nationalism increasing, so-called compensatory advantages would be of purely conjectural and speculative value.

On the other hand, remission of the war debt would beyond peradventure add about $300,000,000 a year to the already back-breaking burden of American taxpayers.

Illogically enough, the very international bankers who are urging this course of debt reduction are at the same time saying that the Federal Government cannot afford public works, relief measures, and social services intended to benefit the American people.

In view of the obvious intention of the debtor governments to wiggle out of their just obligations, which have already been greatly scaled down, it behooves the American government to be on guard against being victimized.

The new administration, recognizing Congress's mandate, should undertake to be good listeners when the mendicants from Europe come over to restate their case.

By way of fact finding, the American spokesmen might ask the British how they intend to settle an adverse trade balance of about $1,500,000,000 a year if they cannot pay $160,000,000. They might also inquire what technical obstacles would stand in the way of payment through mobilization of British private foreign investments, as was done in connection with war-time external financing.

If default and repudiation are the goals of additional debtors, our government should abstain from taking any steps which would mitigate the effects of deliberate welching.

With a growing sentiment in this country for economic self sufficiency, America is the best equipped nation in the world to live prosperously within its own borders on its own rich physical and technological resources.

Pittsburgh's Turn Now

The Pennsylvania Railroad Should Make Some Improvements at This End of the Road.

A. W. Robertson, chairman of the Industrial Rehabilitation Committee, in a public statement acclaims the Pennsylvania Railroad on completion of the electrification of its lines between Philadelphia and New York.

Pittsburghers are aware that the local jobs will be expensive, and that it is not an easy matter to raise large sums of money.

But they are also aware that the Pennsylvania not only was able to find the many millions required for its Eastern improvements, but also was able last week to declare a dividend on its stock.

A Deportation Outrage

Gov. Pinchot Deserves Commendation for Investigating the Case of the 40 Negroes.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot, it is announced, will grant an interview tomorrow to Homer Brown, Pittsburgh attorney and president of the Pittsburgh branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, who is going to Harrisburg to tell of the deportation of 40 Negroes from Beaver County on January 21.

The Negroes, it is said, were seized without warrant by county detectives, loaded into trucks, carried to a point five miles out of Waynesburg, dumped into the road, and told to "beat it" out of the State.

Greene and Washington County authorities helped the Negroes, among whom were a number of women, to return to their homes in Beaver County.

The Nightmare Lingers

The sleeper's stirring in his bed,
The sun is rising, bright and warm,
While loudly rings the clock's alarm.

And yet the bell, the morning beams,
Do not dispel those horrid dreams,
Which have not vanished with the night,
But lingers in the growing light.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Floyd Gibbons has done a gracious bit for the free-lance writers, so many of whom have been victimized by the airy padoodle of film producers. There are a few magnates who, painting a rainbow of promise, put the writers to work and let them whistle for pay.

Gibbons was scotched in this manner, but he went to court and received a check for $1,000, with interest, for his bravado. He spent more than that amount in legal fees, but established a precedent. Also he tied up a company's liquid assets during the court proceedings.

He has the quaint notion that the free-lance should have the same status of a tailor, who, spending his time and material in making a suit of clothes, can make the customer pay. There has been a specious reasoning in certain film studios that a writer's time is of no consequence.

They exhaust his ideas, and if none of them happens to click, it's just too bad! But drop in to see us any time! Among others who have sued producers in the Gibbons fashion are Walt Disney, Ed Anthony and Grantland Rice. They now call themselves the "Floyd Gibbons Suing Circle."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I found myself fussing over an old mistake. It was such a silly mistake to begin with! Yet any woman will know how maddening the memory of it could be.

I had decided to make new curtains for the living room; bought the cloth; cut them out—then discovered I had made my measurements wrong, and they were all three inches too short! Idiotic; and I had no one to blame but myself!

That was five years ago, and the money loss wasn't great. Yet lying awake the other night—in one of those hollow hours when the bottom seems to have dropped out of everything—I began thinking of those curtains, all over again. And the more I thought, the madder I got.

Messing up a job like that! Wasting perfectly good money and material! Why hadn't I taken two minutes more time and made sure of the length? Why didn't I check up on the first one after I'd cut it, instead of going ahead and spoiling the whole dozen? But I was always doing things like that!

Yes, I said to myself, staring tragically into the hopeless darkness, I was always doing things like that—spoiling everything, for lack of a little caution; rushing ahead; slashing right and left; going off half cocked; hurting, wasting; messing up my whole life!

The clock struck two. The clock struck five. Morning came—a thin, gray tide slipping over the sill—and still I sat there staring into the past, fussing, fretting, vainly regretting. All through the morning and early afternoon the mood held, and everything went wrong.

Then suddenly, with twilight, something clicked clear in my silly brain and heart, and I realized what I had done. Because of a trivial five-year-old mistake—because I'd wasted an hour's work, a few dollars and a little cloth—I HAD SPOILED A DAY WHICH COULD NEVER COME AGAIN.

Worse than that, I had wasted the shining opportunities which that day might have held. I had snapped at a dozen people—ruined an article I was writing—forgotten a really important appointment—spread discord and disorder through every hour. All because I allowed my mind to run amuck over an old irritation!

That's true. I could not have helped remembering those curtains—BUT I COULD HAVE HELPED GOING INTO A TANTRUM OVER THEM. The minute that exasperating memory came into my mind, I should have dismissed it with a laugh, or given thanks that I've grown a bit more careful.

I had the power to control that memory in that way. Yet, instead, I let it run wild in my mind—and do incomparably more harm than the original blunder.

"DON'T CRY OVER SPILT MILK." Remember that proverb, which they dinned into our youthful ears? Silly old proverb! Yet what precious time, energy and opportunity we waste, crying over spilt milk. Fussing over the job we bungled, or the heart we broke, or the precious life that was lost.

"But broken hearts and lost lives—they're different!" you cry. "It's right, it's our duty, to repent for past sins. And it's beautiful to mourn over lost love. Such things are not just 'spilt milk'."

YES, THEY ARE! THAT WHICH HAS BEEN, HAS BEEN—AND IT'S CRIMINAL TO SPOIL THE PRESENT FOR THE SAKE OF THE PAST. NO MATTER HOW GRIM OR GRIEVOUS THE PROVOCATION.

REGRET A LITTLE; GRIEVE A LITTLE; THEN GET GOING AGAIN!

Regret that blocks new action; grief that blots new hope—such expressions are neither decent or virtues. They are forms of vicious self-indulgence. They are as truly crimes as theft or murder.

Elisabeth Marbury; F. R. and Progressives

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Two thousand two hundred and sixty-three years ago, Alexander the Great was drunk; and, wishing to make whoopee, he ordered the firing of some palaces in Persia. These were the palaces of Xerxes and Darius, and they reflected the art and science of the ancient civilization. Centuries have come and gone. Other civilizations have risen and fallen.

And the other day some archaeologists from Chicago University, excavating, dug up the ruins. For 25 centuries buried in the dirt, magnificent sculptures have been unearthed, along with evidence that science and engineering had made some notable progress before Alexander the Great, in a great debauch, amused himself with the torch.

We have another civilization now—the civilization of a machine age, and Paderewski, one of the ornaments of his time, who is not only a great musical genius but a genius in statecraft, observes that machines have "destroyed culture." Whether or not that be true machines to displace manpower have created a problem that our civilization must solve if it is to escape a shock. It is the kind of problem that can be solved—and will be.

Greatest Woman Of Her Time

One of the greatest women of her time, and, as I believe, one of the really great women in American history, passed, with the recent death of Elisabeth Marbury. Her genius was many sided. In the field of dramatic art and literature, she was a pathfinder for not a few great artists and dramatists, for she introduced many of them to America. She brought Sardou and his plays to us; she persuaded Barrie to rewrite "The Little Minister" so it could be produced here; she was the initial sponsor of George Bernard Shaw in America; Sir Henry Irving and a long trail of artists were her debtors; and she befriended Oscar Wilde in the days of his misery in Paris. The story of the American theater cannot be written without the telling of her story.

* * *

She was a liberal and among the first of the women to stand out against national prohibition. The first time I saw her was during her appearance before a Congressional committee in this connection. Hers was the greatest, soundest argument made. Some men spoke with "feminine emotionalism;" she spoke with "masculine logic."

In politics she was one of the greatest influences of her later years—one of the wisest, most penetrating, most farseeing of the politicians. Her grasp of national psychology surpassed that of most. It was not merely feminine intuition that served her—she faced facts and reasoned from them.

* * *

A Loyal Supporter Of Al Smith

Al Smith never had a more loyal supporter, and he knew it. In 1928 she concluded to retire from the position of national committee woman for New York and broached the subject to the Happy Warrior. In his gruff voice he asked:

"What's the matter, sister?"

"Well, I am getting old. My legs have gone back on me and I cannot get around as I used to. I ought to get out and make way for a younger and more active woman."

And then, from Smith:

"See here, sister, we don't want you for your legs, we want you for your brains."

And so she stayed.

One of my most vivid memories of the recent convention in Chicago was that of Elisabeth Marbury being wheeled into the seething hall, and, one of the most pleasant, that of chats with her in the midst of turbulent scenes when her sense of humor was a delight.

* * *

The Marbury of Sutton Place

Her home at 13 Sutton place was an oasis in a desert. There one was always certain to meet people interesting because of accomplishment. Her wit, her humor, occasionally her satire, irradiated the room. But she was tolerant and kindly. To those who knew her there, in the little room on the second floor where she received her guests, and in the cozy dining room down stairs looking out upon a charming garden and the East River beyond, she will always be the Marbury of Sutton place. There until the end she worked and planned. I have had my own concept of her home in a note written three weeks ago:

"I suppose you never have time for an easy chair and a smoke. If so, here is the clubhouse."

Hers was a personality that never fades from the memory of those who came under its influence, and when she died she literally was an institution.

Norris Aid to Roosevelt

Mr. Roosevelt has been receiving and conferring with Senatorial leaders of the Progressive group of Republicans, and well he may. No Democrat contributed more to his triumph than Norris, of Nebraska. There is no measuring the benefits that came from the militant support of Johnson, of California. The battle against reactionary policies waged unceasingly during the last four years by La Follette and the others of this progressive group had not a little to do with the moulding of sentiment that made Roosevelt's victory certain. They contributed to his election because of his progressive principles and policies and he will want their support in putting them into operation.

Among these progressive Republicans are men who are Jeffersonians; just as there are a few among Democratic leaders who are uncompromisingly Hamiltonian. We have reached the point, because of the existing conditions, where many of us believe that if our institutions are to be preserved it must be by going back to the Jeffersonian fundamentals. It is the hope of vast numbers that Mr. Roosevelt will work toward this end with Jacksonian courage.

* * *

Conditions We Now Face

Senators La Follette and Cutting have just urged upon Mr. Roosevelt a sympathetic consideration of their plan for federal relief to the jobless through the appropriation of $500,000,000 for the purpose. There are certain notorious facts that must enter into the decision.

One is that states and municipalities have, in most cases, almost, if not entirely, exhausted their resources in appropriations for relief.

Another is that, with income decreasing, individuals cannot possibly contribute enough to private charity to meet the obligations of humanity.

And the other is that this obligation must be met; that the human necessities of men, women and children cannot be brushed aside.

We have thought, and still think, that had a prosperity loan been launched two years ago, conditions would not be anything like what they are today. But that is water over the dam. We are now up against a condition, not a theory.

There is some loss or lack,
Some creeping doubt, some gnawing pain
Perfection can not dwell
Upon this spinning sphere;
And yet in happy dreams men tell
Their hearts that it draws near.
Perfection never will
Be any mortal's bride;
But man must love and seek her still,
As not to be denied!
